Chateau Rose*

SOLID STERLING SILVER

The romantic beauty of yesterday becomes the fashion of today. The revival of elegance in home decoration reaches back to the Regency and Louis XIV eras, with a touch of Victorian to add zest to the ensemble.

"Chateau Rose" is a happy blending of the traditional beauty of these time-favored motifs. As they have lived in the past . . . "Chateau Rose" will live in the future, to become one of your cherished heirlooms of tomorrow. Substantial in weight throughout.

Its beautiful highlights are softened to a silvery lustre by its smooth butter finish.

French Scroll*

SOLID STERLING SILVER

A flourishing prelude to the styles of tomorrow

The fantasy of scrolls from the LOUIS XV and LOUIS XVI periods... richly and delicately moulded into a series of sweeping graceful curves, unbroken, yet carved to reflect beautifully the scintillating high-lights created by its soft undulating surfaces... gives life to this lovely pattern.

Here, in ALVIN'S newest pattern in sterling... FRENCH SCROLL... is a style developed in keeping with the present-day demand for modernized sterling patterns from the classical period that prevailed during the reign of the Kings LOUIS, in the years 1700 to 1800. Soft Butler Finish.

Prince Eugene*

SOLID STERLING SILVER

An authentic interpretation of the late 17th and early 18th century French Renaissance. A fashion created for the lavish use of Kings LOUIS XIII and LOUIS XIV and in high favor today as an ultimate in decorative beauty.

PRINCE EUGENE, for whom this exquisite pattern was named, was born in Paris in 1663, and spent much time in lovely Vienna, then the seat of continental culture. When Vienna was threatened by the Turks, it was PRINCE EUGENE of Savoy who was its defender—and his successes gained for him the everlasting gratitude of the people. PRINCE EUGENE is a heavy-weight, complete open-stock pattern... furnished in beautiful soft Butter finish. All Blades are Mirror-Finish, Stainless Steel. Illustrated... Pirouette

A symphony of beauty is reflected in this lovely new pattern in Alvin Sterling. Delicate flowers blend gracefully with soft-flowing, fluted scrolls, to mold a design of enduring loveliness and traditional beauty.

Pirouette is a distinctively new pattern, reflecting the radiance and romance of the Renaissance which so properly belongs with the decor of today and tomorrow.

It is a pattern that will always lend charm to your table. Brilliant finish.

Here, we introduce a new member of the family. She's Barbie's little sister Skipper, a delightful twelve-year-old tot, just as "clothes-conscious" as her teen-age sister. On this page, we show you four fashions, all included in McCall's Office Skipper Doll Pattern 7480. Left in the upper photograph: A sportive outfit.

Left, in the lower photograph, Skipper wears a smart niddy costume: a sea net jacket and sailor hat, and a matching blouse. Right: Her outfit is a gay, green single-breasted rocker with a row of gleaming brass buttons down the front and a matching hat and shoes. Also included in the pattern envelope is a charming bedtime ensemble consisting of a lace-trimmed peignoir and matching pajamas and a double-ruffled party dress. These patterns are precisely designed to fit the 9-inch Skipper doll.

A Profile

ONE DAY last summer in the busy Beverly Hills, Calif., penthouse headquarters of Milt Grey Sales, a stunned and unbelieving staff heard Milt announce that he was taking a vacation.

He and his wife Rose would devote the next three months to touring Europe, combining their 30th wedding anniversary and the first vacation for Milt in his 35-year business career.

Milt's chances of staying away from his desk for any extended period were not good. His track record showed an unbroken six-day-a-week work schedule, with a few long weekends and many unfulfilled threats to take more time off.

So, armed with the addresses of toy business friends and contacts, the dates of a few European Toy Fairs and the usual collection of tourist guide books, Milt and Rose Grey flew to New York, took a last fond look at 200 Fifth Avenue and boarded the boat. Five trans-Atlantic phone calls, six cables, and 30 days later, found Milt happily beaming behind his office desk. Rose was back with the children and grandchildren where she had wanted to stay in the first place. Business was "as usual."

President of a 26-man national marketing organization, which serves a group of frontrunning hobby and toy manufacturers, Mr. Grey is both enthusiastic and positive in his somewhat unorthodox approach to "working hard."

"Marketing in all its facets, particularly in the toy and hobby field, is a constant excitement and challenge," he says. "It's like a World Series every day in the week. Its problems keep me thinking, busy and alive."

In talking with this strapping, stimulating man one gets the impression that here is the modern-day example of the almost no longer-existent Puritan ethic exemplified in

American prose by Horatio Alger.
Work hard, be a good kid, believe in God, and raise a family . . . and everything will be just dandy. However, Milt Grey has added a little something to these homilies . . . a top-flight talent for his chosen work —marketing.

Born in Chicago, he went to a technical school, then on to Northwestern University. He got his first job with the old Lord & Thomas Ad Agency (now Foote, Cone and Belding). As a fledgling ad executive, he was successful but not too happy, actually.

"Ad ideas, no matter how well conceived," Milt says, "don't necessarily make for successful product sales.
Sales are dependent upon too many factors outside the control of the ad people. I wanted to see my ideas work. So I got out of advertising and into sales, which gave me the opportunity to follow through."

After several top executive jobs in the sales and marketing of diverse products, from household chemicals to electric appliances, Mr. Grey decided to "go West, young man" and came to Los Angeles determined to set the sunburst paradise on fire.

Here in 1951, Milt met Lew Claser, president and founder of Revell, Inc. They joined forces. Both were aggressive men, dynamic in thought, concept and execution.
Things began to pop. "It was a most unusual combination," says Milt with a grin. "It was like clanging two steel bars together, and expecting soft music. But we were able to forge an exciting program for the company that changed the pattern of hobby goods distribution."

In a few short years, Mr. Grey advanced from sales manager of the firm to vice-president. Revell became a colossus in the model industry, and its marketing policies a matter of envy. But in 1955, Milt left Revell

A Profile

JOSEPH COLLICA, R. H. Macy's youthful toy buyer, used to bear the nickname of "Joe-yes." They say he acquired the name during his stock boy days at Macy's when he agreed with almost everything anybody said. That was 17 years ago and Joe is still an agreeable person to be with, but as his responsibility at Macy's has grown, and Joe with it, he has learned to qualify his agreeableness. His "yesses" are now often coupled with "buts."

"He's got a lot of heart," one supplier said of him, then added, "and a lot of guts. Joe got where he is not just by being nice—which he is—but by being smart, precise and right most of the time. He can be plenty rough as a buyer, but he's also got a conscience." Perhaps the best insight into Joe Collica's character comes from his own definition of a buyer-salesman relationship; he calls it "a partnership."

Joe Collica was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1929. Three years later his parents moved to Brooklyn, where Joe was raised and attended school. In 1947 he graduated from Bushwick High and that fall went to work at Macy's as a stock boy in the toy department. When the Christmas season ended, the toy department began trimming help, as is customary, but Joe was asked to stay on.

Any account of a Macy head buyer must be a litany of promotions. In Joe's case, few have started so low on the ladder and risen so high.

Joseph Collica

He credits two men for most of his success: Allen Storch, "who was most responsible for heading me toward a buying career"; and Fred Williamson, "who developed my business moral character." Joe explains, "Fred didn't believe business was cut and dried, a matter only of figures."

Joe stayed three years in Macy's toy department, then in February

3 exciting new lines
... 12 different models
... imaginative use of new strength... new safety... all from Doughboy, for 13 years design leaders in above-ground family pools

Aqualine — Five models: 12, 15, 18, 21 and 24 feet in diameter. Three to four foot depths. Embossed heavy-duty Duraflex liner. Steel unitized frame and corrugated sidewall.

Crestline — Four models: 18, 20, 24 and 28 feet in diameter. Depths range from four feet to 8½ foot diving area. Liner is tough embossed Duraflex vinyl. Unitized steel frame and corrugated striped steel sidewall.

Silverline — (illustrated above). Three models: 18, 20 and 24 feet in diameter. All models are four feet deep. Heavy-duty Duraflex embossed liner, and unitized steel frame with decorated aluminum sidewall.

Doughboy.. America's fastest selling above-ground pool

Join the growing number of dealers who, each year, increase their sales and profit with the famous Doughboy line. Doughboy is America's fastest selling pool because it's nationally advertised and promoted and because of its unequalled record for value, quality and design leadership. When you sell Doughboy you sell the best — a pool with a top consumer reputation, and one that puts more dollars in your pocket.

New strength and safety in this bridge-like construction

This new concept in above ground pool design gives you the strongest pool ever built! All elements — sidewalls, rails, vertical supports, liner — are interlocked into one unitized bridge-like structure. No extra horizontal rails clutter appearance or encourage small unattended children to climb into the pool. Steel parts are hot-dipped galvanized to prevent rust and bonded to hold the lustrous metallic finish. New, extra tough Duraflex vinyl liner is pre-shrunk and dimensionally stabilized — stays soft and elastic in any swimming temperature.

SPONSORED . . . THE BIG FOUR IN SPEED . . . BY ELDON

Known in world wide racing as the "driver's driver" World Champion Dan Gurney endorses Eldon's complete line of road race sets and accessories in 1964. His picture and endorsement appears on all packaging of Eldon's road race sets and he'll appear in a 1964 Eldon Road Race TV commercial.

Dan Gurney has posted many important victories all over the world—the French Grand Prix in 1962—the Daytona Continental—Nassau—the Nurburgring 1000 kilometer—the 1964 River sue 500 and many, many additional wins. His endorsement of Eldon road racing as "Tops in excitement and realism" will have more significant meaning for the slot racing fan than would that of any other racing figure.

STOCK CAR CLASSIC

As the '64 season comes to a peak certain drivers and their machines will stand out . . . Stock Car drivers that have competed successfully throughout the year, throughout the racing world. These are the drivers who will compete in Stock Car competition. Eldon will select the outstanding race from among the Stock Car Classics to be filmed on location and presented for television viewing as the big finale to the 1964 Stock Car season. It's a positive development . . . a lot of sales are going to be made with Eldon commercials.

LITTLE INDIE

The race of the big machines . . . the top drivers . . . dueling once again over the grueling 100-mile National Championship Race Course for top money bringing together the winners and the cars of the famed Indianapolis 500 . . . competing again in this nerve-racking test of men and machines at the famed Langhorne Speedway in Langhorne, Pennsylvania. Talk about the right exposure! Eldon's got it . . . for Eldon commercials.

NASSAU SPEED WEEK

An international array of the world's best racing drivers compete for top money in the 250-mile Nassau Trophy Race, highlight of a full week of speed—a stern test of men and machines, run over the tight turns and demanding curves of the 4.5 mile Oakes Field Race Course . . . It's a snap, when you know that TV attractions like this one are the showcase for Eldon preselling

SEBRING

"The Twelve-Hour Grind" . . . 12 hours of nerve-racking tension, grueling endurance . . . as men and machines compete with speed, just a factor in this race that puts a premium on the driver's reliability, endurance and his ability to get the most out of his fuel and tires. It's America's most famous sports car attraction . . . picture? Every junior and senior fan in America will be focussed on this one . . . and the Eldon commercials.

THE PICTURE GETS EVEN BIGGER

Just a few kids TV shows make the grade as time-remembered favorites, because of real fun and quality. Eldon is participating sponsor of one in 1964 . . . KICKLE, FRANK AND OLLIE . . . to reach a new generation of youngsters in key toy-selling time periods . . . in key toy-selling cities across the country.

AND BIGGER . . .

... lots of spots . . . TV spots . . . a strategic planning schedule of local kid-click TV shows featuring the fresh, fast-moving fast-selling Eldon commercials.

AND BIGGER . . .

To finish the picture . . . Eldon has kept a lot of other merchandise . . . efforts in focus . . . dramatic point-of-purchase displays . . . Publicity Trade campaigns . . . newspaper mats . . . glossies . . . catalogs . . . local station promotion . . . The Eldon Road Race Club bulletin (now with 24,000 members) . . . and every thing else it takes to complete an album of record sales for '64!

(PLEASE SEE OTHER SIDE)

Four of the Hemisphere's greatest sports attractions filmed in color for Television viewing in prime time—real live racing excitement that could turn anyone into a racing fan. And it's action filmed right at the tracks of some of the world's most famous races . . . that millions of Toy-Buying Americans will see this year on Eldon Racing Specials each one a 30-minute package of excitement. You won't need the magic of a light-meter to measure the excitement going to do for the sales picture on Eldon.

SPONSORED . . . THE BIG FIVE IN SALES . .

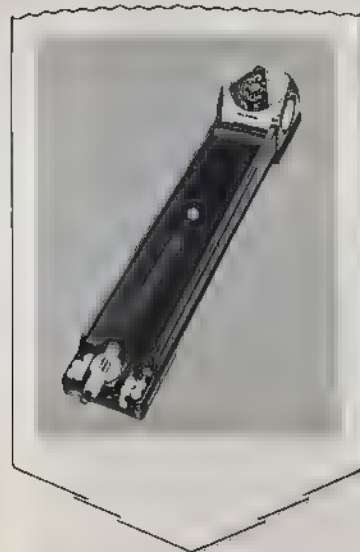

ROAD RACE SETS & ACCESSORIES

A total of eight sets for '64 . . six of them brand new, three of them Selectronic, the exclusive feature that lets each driver switch to either lane and still control his own car for blocking, passing or shortest-route. All out speed! Then there's the exclusive escape track, new cars, headlights, triple level over and under-pass, banked curves, quality control of the finest detail and all the other features that add to the realism and skill demanded by the miniature race set buyer. New accessories too. All of it in dramatically illustrated pilfer-proof packaging. A great commercial too!

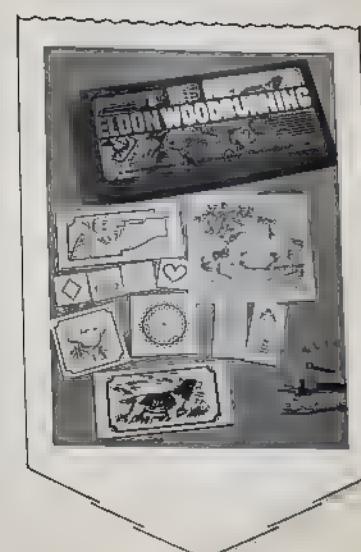

BOWL-A-MATIC

Back again for an even bigger year than 1963 . . realistic miniature bowling for the whole family. The automatic pin-spotter that sweeps the alley clean and resets the pins are added excitement to this game of skill. Now in a new color, Bowl-a-matic looks even more exciting than ever. A big-big toy for a low price, there were no spares left on this one in '63 and there'll be even less in '64.

SKEE BALL

The wonderful action game for the whole family. Featuring automatic scoring and automatic ball return . . no batteries . . no windup . . just skill and the time for fun. Skee Ball's true potential hasn't been tapped yet, but it will be in '64. Presented in a brand new, fun-filled commercial that sells and sells the competitive spirit of Skee Ball. And the price picture is right too.

WOODBURNING SETS AND PLAQUES

A completely new concept in woodburning . . the results are better, the fun is bigger. Brand new design of interchangeable tips gives results that are completely different from any woodburning you ever pictured before. Easier too. And in addition to two new sets . . new woodburning plaques to sell separately . . for repeat business . . in an attractive counter display with shrink packages that are just gorgeous, E'don has gone another way in selling this hot item, too! . . . a combination live and filmed commercial, pitched by local talent, right in your own backyard.

Chicago and North Western calls GP-35s most productive locomotives in service

And the North Western proves it 24 hours a day. Twenty new 2500 horsepower GP 35s work around the clock on the North Western's crack symbol freights and on heavy-drag coal hauls. They move freight faster or haul heavier payloads, and at a lower cost per ton mile than ever before. Lower maintenance cost, higher efficiency, and greater unit horsepower of General Motors GP-35 locomotives are too good for profit for the alert and enterprising Chicago and North Western Railway Company.

Look who's blowing our horn!

Travel writers and connoisseurs say the nicest things about Great Northern's Incomparable Empire Builder!

When we never seem to tire of talking about Great Northern's Empire Builder, it's indeed pleasant to know that spreading the word about this fine transcontinental train doesn't depend solely on our own rhetoric.

Here, on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of this famous train, are a few samples of the kind of flattering things that widely traveled writers have said about us.

Lucius Beebe, author and rail buff, says this in the San Francisco Chronicle, "Riding the Empire Builder is a major event in the life of any train aficionado. It is, indeed, an incomparable train, immaculate in its construction and conduct and as impeccable in its maintenance of schedule as sidereal time in its progress."

Kermit Holt, travel editor of the Chicago Tribune, reports that, "We're going by train, one of the truly great trains that serve the American west. We're heading for the Pacific Northwest this time and we're riding a luxury hotel on wheels called the Empire Builder, an exciting experience for even the most blasé traveler. It's 2,210 railroad miles via the Great Northern from Chicago to Seattle—and exactly that many miles of pleasure, rest and relaxation, superb service, food, and accommodations, and hundreds and hundreds of miles of some of the west's most spectacular scenery... What makes a train really great is the service, friendliness, and courtesy of its crew, the meals served in its dining car, and the scenery it travels thru. The Empire Builder scores heavily on all three."

Leavitt F. Morris, travel editor of the Christian Science Monitor writes about the Empire Builder, "It seems to me that one good way to see the United States and to know Americans is to be on a train like this. First, a transcontinental train ride provides leisure and comfort. It provides the opportunity to see both sides of America. But, more important, it provides the opportunity for people to meet people. You meet them across your dining car table of crisp linen and shining silver; you meet them in the Dome car, the Ranch car, the Club car, or in the observation lounge.

David P. Morgan, editor of Trains Magazine, says, "Aboard this transcontinental streamlined train you can sleep... in a room, in your pajamas, in a 6½ x 3-foot bed. You can eat... a full course meal, complete with a light wine if you desire, at a table with the amenities of a menu, silverware, and a waiter—and there's a coffee shop for snacks or just a cup of coffee. You can lounge... away from your seat or berth and up stairs in 789 square feet of space under glass that affords 90 degree vision under the sun or stars..."

Gareth Hiebert, "Oliver Towne" columnist in the St. Paul Dispatch, writes, "For me the supreme pleasure at being alive comes on the first morning out of St. Paul, heading west on the Great Northern's Empire Builder. It is that moment when you are sitting in the opulence of the dining car, facing the crisp snow-white linen, over which floats the delicious aromas of breakfast. And you gaze out of the window across the lonesome beauty of the Montana prairies, flecked with snow and stubble."

Paul M. McMahon, travel editor of the Milwaukee Journal says, "Long before we reached the majestic Cascade mountains, passengers were gathering in the bar below the dome to enjoy cocktails. A leisurely, relaxed attitude permeated the car..."

Passengers felt an intimacy with the elegant scenes through which the train passed, an experience not shared by travelers who span this area... five miles in the sky."

Wade Franklin of the Chicago Sun-Times declares that, "This was my first ride on that legendary transcontinental beauty, the Empire Builder, named for the giant rail builder of early days, James J. Hill... I doubt if there is a finer train in the world. You'll agree, especially if you happen to be seated in the dining car (where the food should be called cuisine) as The Great E.B. speeds along the Mississippi's Palisades on its way to St. Paul, or through the snow-crad peaks of the Rockies in Glacier Park."

A few pertinent details!

The Incomparable EMPIRE BUILDER provides comfortable, safe, eye-filling service every day, each way between Chicago and Seattle, Portland, Departure from Chicago's Union Station is made at 2:30 PM and from Seattle's King Street Station and Portland's Union Station at 3 PM (Standard Time).

The trip to Seattle requires 43½ hours, to Portland, 42½ hours. The journey east takes 45 hours.

Pullman accommodations include Duplex Roomettes, Roomettes, Double Bedrooms and Compartments. Coach travelers enjoy reserved seats—seats that recline and have leg rests. Meals in the dining car or the Ranch Lounge car. Dining car dinners are by reservation. Beverage service in the full-length Great Dome car or the Ranch Lounge.

Family plan fares are available. Round-trip fares at substantial discount. Baggage allowance 150 pounds!

MOUSE TRAP

The wackiest, funniest, nuttiest game ever.

Mouse Trap, the hit of last year's Toy Fair, began selling with tremendous success last Spring, when games in this price class are slow-moving.

And in the Fall, and holiday season, Mouse Trap was a complete sellout.

Now that we've put it on the "Magilla Gorilla Show", sales are soaring even higher.

And it will be on Magilla all year 'round. No inventory problems with this game.

Just put it on your counter and watch it move.

We're going to mean even with our two new big TV-advertised games.

CRAZY CLOCK The goofiest game of the year.

Everyone knows that Mouse Trap was an overwhelming success.
And we knew that a similar game would go over equally well.
So we went ahead and designed Crazy Clock. To be sure, we research-tested it.
Now, we know we have another winner like Mouse Trap. So, we're launching another giant TV campaign on the "Magilla Gorilla Show" for Crazy Clock.
We predict that this great new game will start selling early.
And will keep moving all year long.

54 988 passengers by running two sections for more than seven weeks.

This year the railroad is really raising steam. The Silverton will operate 22 more days by starting June 3 and running through September 30; Burnham Shops in Denver is delivering six more "new-old" 48-seat coaches, and combine No. 212 is being converted into a baggage-snack-recreation car (cousin 126 proved popular as such last year); and "Sport Model" K-28 Mike 476 has been overhauled as support power for sisters 473 and 478. On peak days this summer fans are promised two trains, one with 10 cars and the other with 11, shouting up the canyon an hour apart, rolling more than 1000 people into a narrow gauge heritage that won't say die.

Very, very few other roads can say about any area of their business, along with P.T.M. Harold Eno, that they're "hopeful" they won't have to hang out the sold-out sign in 1964 and can handle "all applicants for space without any embarrassment in the way of turning them down due to lack of capacity."

Thanks, D&RGW

What to vote for

It isn't all that the rails need but it's far better than nothing: H.R. 9903. That's the industry's consensus of the bill authored by Representative Oren Harris (Dem., Ark.) and unanimously approved by his House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee and released to the House. Termed "Transportation Amendments of 1964," H.R. 9903 would Exempt the transport of agricultural commodities and fishery products from economic regulation. Presently only truckers and barge lines moving such loads in bulk escape the I.C.C.'s eye. Under H.R. 9903, however, all rates—rail, truck, barge—would be filed for public inspection; all carriers would be subject to the same anti-trust laws now governing exempt truck and barge movements.

Repeal the Interstate Commerce Act's commodities clause except for agricultural and related commodities. Since 1908 rails have been forbidden to haul anything they mine, manufacture, or produce except timber and timber products; hence the roads have been hampered in efforts to diversify into other fields.

Reduce the maximum number of bulk commodities, excepting agricultural, which a barge line can carry in a single tow and still qualify for exemption from regulation.

The bill has White House support. Continuing the resolve of the late President Kennedy to iron out "the chaotic patchwork of inconsistent and often obsolete legislation and regulation" in transport, President Johnson has asked Congress to achieve a "fast, safe, and economical transport system." The rails have the diesels, big cars, unit trains, tariffs, and desire to answer that request with respect to agricultural commodities and fishery products. H.R. 9903 is the go button.

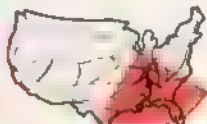

The integrity of the bill is not that it favors the rails over other transport but rather that it would (if only partially) equate the train with the barge and the truck.

Who can knock that?

Now microwaves make CARSCOPE work faster and better for you!

↑ Microwave radio beams, "bounced" off reflector on Riverside Plaza Bldg., flash to receiver at Bensenville Yards, 17 miles west. From there, data is sent throughout our entire system. Same "three cushion billiard shot" carries incoming transmissions.

↓ Carscope Control Center in Chicago receives information around the clock to better handle freight customer inquiries. New, microwave system permits CARSCOPE to give "speed of sound" attention to tracing, and expediting shipments.

SHIPPERS BENEFIT FROM THE LATEST ELECTRONIC ADVANCES APPLIED BY OUR

CREATIVE CREWS

CARSCOPE—The Milwaukee Road's Central Freight Service Department—helps our shippers expedite their carload shipments more efficiently than ever. Tracing, diverting and reconsigning are faster.

It's possible because of our new, 600-channel microwave radio installation that carries dial telephone, teleprinter and high-speed data transmissions between our Chicago general offices and our Bensenville yards. From there, messages proceed via existing circuits throughout The Milwaukee Road's 10,500-mile, 14-state system.

A special Creative Crew from our Signal and Communications Department planned and constructed this new, microwave set-up. And another Creative Crew, at CARSCOPE, is putting it to good use.

They're veterans in the freight service field. Experienced specialists who know all the problems of carload control and who now can solve them for you—at the speed of sound. They can tell where any shipment is, in minutes—and put new orders into effect, in seconds. They do it several hundred times every day!

CARSCOPE, with an assist from our microwave system, is more useful than ever before. Uninterrupted train information streams in—24 hours a day, every day of the week. Isn't that the kind of service a shipper wants? He gets it from The Milwaukee!

SMART MONEY IS GOING AFTER 21,000,000 KIDS

... and getting them every time, right where they live. And breathe. And devour every word (including the ads). In the Comics, NATIONAL COMICS.

Call it a Cult if you like. A Wholesome Cult, 21,000,000 strong. Whatever you call it, it's clear that National Comics get through to 21,000,000 different youngsters every four weeks as no other advertising medium possibly can! Capturing their imagination. Satisfying their curiosity. Constantly delighting them with the written word and the lasting picture. Why else would this eager young audience go out and spend its own money — $10,000,000 in 1963 alone — on National Comics?

All this is why smart money is going into comics, National Comics... one of the most dynamic, dependable forces in the advertising world — proving its profit value to the toy and hobby business daily

"SMART MONEY IS

NATIONAL COMICS ARE ALWAYS WORKING FOR YOU, DAY IN, DAY OUT. WHEN YOU PUT YOUR ADVERTISING MESSAGE INTO NATIONAL COMICS, THERE'S NEVER A CHANCE IT WILL VANISH INTO THIN AIR

Unlike TV, you get unlimited mileage out of the advertising dollar you spend in The National Comics Group. In New York City, for example, a saturation campaign on TV costs about $55,000 to reach the kid market for eight weeks.

That money in National Comics (New York City audience) once a month, reaching 690,000 primary children readers, would last almost ten years.

Or, think of this: You can get a full page in National Comics for the cost of just producing a minute TV commercial film!

SO, IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO GET YOUR ADVERTISING MESSAGE ACROSS TO 21,000,000 KIDS MORE MEMORABLY THAN TV DOES IT FOR YOU, OR IF YOUR ADVERTISING BUDGET DOESN'T PERMIT TV, OR IF YOU WANT TO SUPPLEMENT YOUR TV SCHEDULE WITH FOOLPROOF PRINT, ing of these homes and the clothing of these people will be retailing's challenge and the summons of the mid-sixties," he warned. This message is something which all retailers must ruminate upon at length. Success, even in boom times, comes only to the enterprising. During the relatively good times of the 1960-64 era, more retailers have been in trouble or have shut down than at any time since World War II.

LEASED DEPARTMENTS . . . How do discounters open so many stores so fast when U. S. retail establishments increased by less than 1 per cent in 1962? One answer, says "American Investor," is leased departments, whose sales have been estimated at one-third of total discount volume. They involve stores-within-stores specializing in furniture, appliances, sporting goods, snack bars, lighting fixtures and lamps, hardware and building materials, jewelry, cosmetics, shoes, auto parts and soft goods. One thing that is boosting the leased department operator's stock is the entrance into discounting of such old-line retailers as Woolworth, with its Woolco stores; Kresge with its K-Marts; Penney with its Treasure Islands; and National Bellas Hess, a mail order house. A single leased department operator might have units in all four chains, "American Investor" notes. Leases vary but one operator pays $10,000 annually plus 3 per cent of gross sales. Private brands are used extensively to prevent loss of lessee's identity. Low inventories and jet-paced stock turnover are a leased department characteristic.

SUPERS LIKE NON-FOODS . . . New supermarkets are leaning more and more on non-food sales. This finding, by the Super Market Institute, shows that on the average, new supers opened last year obtained 5.5 per cent of total sales from non-foods. Typical non-food sales for over-all SMI member operations (including both new and old stores) amounted to 5.3 per cent of total sales in 1962. In SMI's view, non food lines include health and beauty aids, housewares, toys, magazines, glassware, stationery, soft goods, but do not include other non-foods commonly carried in grocery departments. Space devoted to non-food lines (which carry better-than-average margins) continues to return smaller sales per square foot than the store as a whole. Non food departments are most significant in larger stores, averaging 6.0 per cent of total sales and 10 per cent of selling area in supermarkets with selling area above 15,000 square feet. Similarly, the highest volume stores (with sales above $60,000) show the heaviest share of non-food sales to total sales. By type of location, non food sales are proportionately highest in neighborhood locations (7.0 per cent of sales) and lowest in new large shopping centers (5.0 per cent of sales).

Ambassador & Classic

BOTH THE CLASSIC and Ambassador share the body shell introduced in '63. Still, after the face lift and new accessories they've gotten, you'd never know it. All exterior sheet metal is new, but from the cowl back it's the same on both cars. Even the basic hood panel's the same (although the Ambassador has one ridge down the middle and the Classic has two ridges about 1½ feet apart). This leaves the front quarter panels and grille areas in which to exercise some imagination, and the characters of the two front ends are entirely different. The top edge of the Classic grille is derived from the '64 trim edge, and AMC stylists have duplicated it on the bottom to make a dumbbell-shaped slot filled with extrusion texture and headlight barrels. By stacking the headlights and going crisp where the Classic goes round, the Ambassador makes the most of a horizontally symmetrical pattern that's completely novel. At the back, the Classic wraps the tail lights around both corners, while the Ambassador runs them up the fender fin ends and adds a horizontal trim texture piece straight across above the bumper (to join the popular trend). It's a little hard to understand why AMC reduced the size of the rear window to give it a heavy sheet-metal frame—maybe just to look different. Neither model is a design pace-setter—mostly because of the stringent limitations of production change, but they are competitive in the modern theme and offer their customers full value.

CONTINUITY OF STYLING—a phrase that's long been a rallying cry for some of the more conservative car builders (or just an excuse for others)—has been dropped from American Motors' vocabulary. Probably for good.

During the past five years, the Kenosha firm has had a taste of what it's like to munch a sizable chunk of the new-car pie. It's been sweet, and it's certainly agreed with them. They also found what it means and what it takes to get out and really compete with the giants. From now on, we can expect them to go with regular three-year-styling changes (major/minor/minor/major) right along with the Big Three. With an estimated eight million sales up for grabs, AMC can't afford to be too different.

The compact American, which was all new last year, will coast through this year with minor identification changes. The Classic and Ambassador have the full treatment and are new from the tires up. This is a rather unprecedented move on AMC's part, because it has been only two years since the last major change in these two series. But they found out the hard way that it takes more than just trim differences between two series to market both of them successfully. From now on, the Classic and Ambassador will have completely different identities.

DESPITE APPEARANCE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN AMBASSADOR AND CLASSIC, THEY SHARE BUMPERS AND MUCH SHEET METAL. DISCS ARE OPTIONAL.

E. W. Heilmann, executive general manager for Toy Tinkers.

Tinkertoy Celebrating Its 50th Anniversary

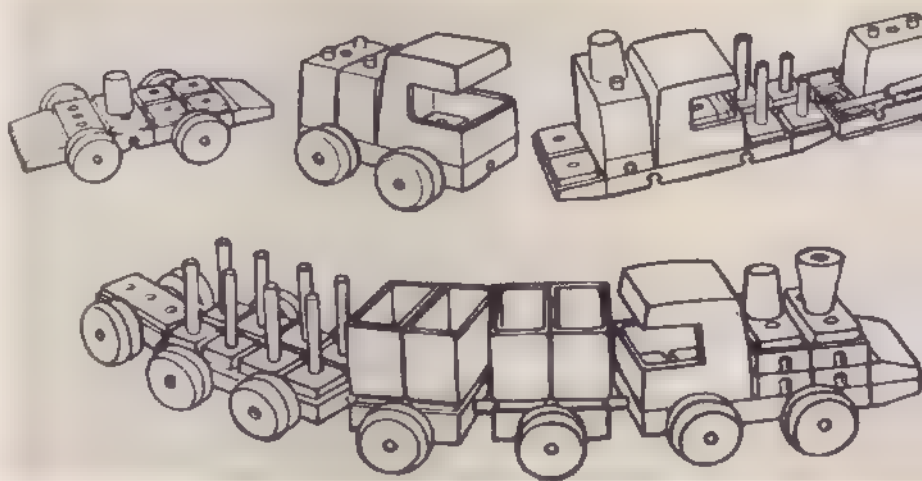

IN 1914, Charles H. Pajean, who was a toy manufacturer, formed a toy company in Evanston, Ill., (where they have always been located for their 50-year history) called The Toy Tinkers. This was the beginning of the toy that has since become a household word—Tinkertoy.

The idea for Tinkertoy came while watching children amuse themselves at length with sticks and spools. Mr. Pajean elaborated on this idea by providing sticks of many different lengths and spools bored radially, as well as through the center, so that innumerable shapes could be formed. It was not, however, until the discovery of a fixed principle of the increasing ratio of triangles as applied to a toy construction of this type that the unlimited possibilities became apparent.

It is a well-known fact that most youngsters like to learn, but dislike being taught. Tinkertoy provides teaching without preaching, and it amuses the child while it educates him. It is so designed that its possibilities are limited only by the creativity of the individual child.

Shortly after Mr. Pajean formed the company, he invited a friend, Robert Pettit, who was a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, to go into business with him. They set up a small shop behind the old Evanston Post Office. It was at this time that the men decided upon the tubular can as a container to be filled with an assortment of the sticks and spools. They were enthusiastic about the idea, but selling it to the department store buyers was something else. The reception was cool.

Mr. Pajean decided to take the new toy to the Toy Fair. At that time, most toys were imported to this country from Germany, England and Japan and distribution was made in department stores a few weeks before Christmas. Toy-buying was an extra duty performed by the store's china and glassware buyer because of its seasonal sale. Early each year, the buyer sailed for Europe to visit china factories and to attend the Leipzig Fair. American toy manufacturers literally had to meet them at their ships to try to interest them in American-made toys before they sailed. Mr. Pajean rented a hotel room near the docks, and waited for three weeks without

Still believing in his product, he managed to set up a display of Tinkertoys in the windows of two drugstores. The models he put together were moving models. In back of the models he placed an electric fan so that the air could propel them about the window. When the display was unveiled, the crowd attracted to it grew so large that police were called to control them. More than two gross were sold daily at each location. After this, Tinkertoys were well on their way. Buyers flocked to the stores and soon the company outgrew its one-room factory and moved to larger quarters in a garage. A sales force was hired and outlets established across the country.

Nine hundred thousand Tinkertoys were manufactured and sold within the first year. Within two years, the space was outgrown again, and the partners leased a three-story brick and concrete building on Custer Avenue. In addition to their 22,000 square feet of space, they rented vacant basements for storage. In 1924 the company bought real estate at Ridge Avenue and Foster and built a four-story structure.

specially designed for their kind of manufacturing. In 1931 an opportunity to sell the building presented itself, and The Toy Tinkers moved again to a site immediately south of Ridge. In the 1940's they moved this space and the move to the three buildings they now occupy was made. In 1952 the company was acquired by A. G. Spalding & Bros., Inc.

The original Tinkertoy had only minor changes until 1955 when color was added. This presented a new dimension to the toy because the sticks and spools could be color keyed to the instruction book, making it possible for preschool children to follow directions, even though they could not read.

Through the years, the company has added other construction toys to the line. Three of these—the Tinker Zoo, the Circus Tinker Zoo, and the newest toy called the Toy Maker have been officially recommended for classroom use by the Association for Childhood Education International. The world famous Tinkertoy has been recommended by the organization for many years.

In keeping with one of the basic ideas of founder Peter, the company has never included designs for weapons in their instruction book. The diagrams have changed with the times, of course. Originally, the book carried instructions on making a cream separator, and a bi plane, now it shows how to make a jet plane, a television camera.

Tinkertoys are used in other ways. Large stores use them in abstract designs for window displays. Math teachers illustrate mathematics problems with them. Home makers make wall decorations with them. For generations of children, however, Tinkertoys mean hours of fun creating a world of sticks and spools that is all their own.

Johnny Seven Microhelmet Phone Set.

HENRY ORENSSTEIN, president of De Luxe Reading Corporation, said in a pre-Toy Fair statement that the company's new Topper Toy Division has set its sights on a first year's volume of $20 million "to meet its sales objective." Topper has developed new toys and a new packaging concept and will begin a $2 million year-round TV campaign for Topper toys starting April 1.

The Topper line has an assortment of toys in a broad price range for children of both sexes.

For girls, "The World of Penny Brite" introduces a new 8" doll with bending arms and legs which permit her to be placed in any realistic pose. Penny has rooted hair, comes in a plumed, embroidered dress and is packed in a plastic wardrobe carry case.

"The World of Penny Brite" is a world of colorful rooms, clothing and accessories, which recreate situations common in the lives of little girls, and into which they can project themselves through play with Penny. Five individually boxed play sets in the line are scaled to the doll's 8" size, including Penny Brite's Schoolroom, Kitchen-Dinette, Bedroom, Beauty Parlor and Travel Set with Sports Car. Each set has a coordinated group of toys, realistically detailed, with working parts and functional accessories. In each set, too, is an extra outfit of clothing designed to keep Penny appropriately dressed for the environment represented by the set. Six additional outfits, also with accessories, have been especially created. These are packaged and sold separately. A rotating, point-of-sale display unit, housing seven dressed Penny Brite dolls, is available to the trade as part of a free introductory offer.

Rounding out the Topper doll line is the Baby Brite Nursery consisting of the new Baby Brite live-action doll, her bed, bathmattress and feeding chair. The doll is an appealing 13½" number activated by two waxy buttons. Push one and Baby Brite raises her arms as if asking to be picked up. Push the other button when she's lying down and she will slowly roll her head sideways, close her eyes and go to sleep. The set also includes such other play accessories as a feeding dish and spoon, towel, sponge, drain pan and mattress.

For boys, De Luxe Reading has produced nine new toys, all of which are related to a central fictional character with the rugged, masculine name of "Johnny Seven."

Foremost of these is the Johnny Seven O.M.A., the One Man Army Gun—seven guns in one. It's a grenade thrower, anti-tank rocket launcher, armor-piercing field piece, anti-bunker missile pack, repeating rifle, tommy gun and automatic pistol. All the units propelled by the Johnny Seven O.M.A. are made of harmless soft plastic. This versatile gun is 3 feet long and operates without batteries.

A Johnny Seven Walkie-Talkie Combat Phone Set sends and receives sound communications up to a mile without batteries. Two realistically designed plastic phone units with retractable antennas are in the set, along with 30 feet of wire. (Youngsters can add wire to increase the range of operation.) Each phone will operate in

Emenee Introduces Formex "7" Casting Sets for Boys and Girls

Two new Formex "7" casting sets, one designed for girls and the other for boys, have been introduced by Emenee Industries, Inc., 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Emenee says that Formex "7" is a new compound that melts over a regular electric bulb, can be poured into casting molds and hardens when cooled.

Illustrated above is the Formex "7" Doll Family Casting Set with which girls can make a whole family of dolls and pets. The youngster simply puts the Formex "7" Compound into the pan on the Dyna Cast Thermo Unit (equipped with an electric bulb that gently melts the Formex "7"), pours the liquid into the molds supplied, cools it off in the cooling tank, and then removes the hardened compound which by now has turned into realistic figures.

With the Formex "7" Military Casting Set, boys can make 24 figures such as soldiers, jeeps, cannon, and so forth, using the same equipment and procedure as used in the girls' set.

Reportedly a specially-formulated, non-toxic material completely harmless to taste or touch, Formex "7" may be used over and over again. The casting sets, which include the natural-color compound and a paint set, retail variously at less than $8.

Ray Plastic Holds Meeting in P. R.; Five-Year Reps Get Service Pins

Representatives with five or more years of service, and their wives, were guests of the company at the Dorado Beach Hotel, Dorado, P. R. To commemorate the event, five-year service pins were presented by Mr. Lederer. On the agenda were a review of new items and the planning of the 1964 sales program. There was also time out for golf, swimming and sun bathing.

connection with one or more other Johnny Seven Walkie-Talkies or Microhelmets.

Johnny Seven's Microhelmet Phone Set combines a Walkie-Talkie Combat Phone with a modern-styled battle helmet of high impact plastic. The helmet features a microphone-receiver mounted in a yoke-type boom which swivels from the helmet top into operating position, adjustable tinted goggles and chin strap. This outfit has the same operating range as the combat phone set and also does not require batteries.

The Johnny Seven Combat Set combines a Johnny Seven O.M.A. with a Walkie-Talkie Combat Phone Set, adjustable binoculars, a safe jungle knife and 16 pieces of extra ammo.

Five play sets round out the line. The Johnny Seven Armored Battalion has four battle-ready military units with functional weapons and a complete assortment of combat accessories, while the Johnny Seven Task Force includes a destroyer and PT boat loaded with functional firepower, a target float and miniature crew. The vessels can be used both in water and ashore.

The Johnny Seven Fire Brigade contains a chief's car, a pumper truck and hook and ladder truck equipped with functional firefighting apparatus. An assortment of equipment and firemen in miniature are also included.

The Johnny Seven Service Station provides a tow truck with hand-operated hoist; a car with a crushed fender that can be detached and replaced by a new one; a service island complete with gasoline pumps, tire display, water can, batteries and jack, and four figures of auto servicemen in working positions.

Only one item in the new Topper line requires batteries. It's the Johnny Seven Speed Set, which consists of a sleek sports car, boat trailer and speedboat. The motorized car is powered by two D-size batteries. The speedboat, styled like a late model hydroplane, is driven by an elastic motor-gear train which is wound by a key and released by a push-button.

Supplementing the new Topper toys for the conventional toy market are several proven sellers from De Luxe Reading's previous supermarket lines. Among them are the Playmobile, Battlewagon, Mighty Mo Cannon, Guerilla Fighter, Dream Kitchen, Dream House, Tickle Doll, Cuddly Cathy Doll Sets, Sally Server Set and Little Miss Fashion Doll Outfit.

The kind of display packaging that distinguishes De Luxe Reading's food store line has been applied to the Topper line's packaging. Most of the new Topper toys are contained in individual, three-dimensional, see-through gift packages. One full side is a transparent window. Through it, all units of each toy are visible, pre-assembled dramatically against an appropriate atmospheric background in full color.

The TV appropriation for the Topper toys is in addition to the company's usually high TV appropriation to promote its other, completely different De Luxe Reading line, which will continue to be marketed through food stores exclusively.

When Argo Industries' Jerry Seligson toured Europe this Fall, he visited leading toy departments in London, Lisbon, Geneva, Copenhagen and Stockholm. Here, for Toys & Novelties' readers, is his report on toy merchandising, European-style

'Next stop: Copenhagen'

A five-country look at European toy merchandising

By JERARD SELIGSON

■ So dynamic and so interwoven with challenges and problems is our American toy industry that it's easy to forget that other countries manufacture and merchandise toys, too, and do a pretty fair job of it, by and large.

On the face of it, their methods differ from ours—often radically—but beneath the surface the common denominators are often strikingly apparent.

I embarked on a recent Christmas-season trip to Europe with these thoughts in mind, and decided to make it a busman's holiday by checking out the top toy stores in five European cities: Lisbon, Geneva, Copenhagen, London and Stockholm. Having just completed a nine-city swing of major American retail accounts, what differences would I find in Europe?

In Lisbon, Portugal, Señor Francisco Soeiro of Grandella, one of the larger department stores, remarked that he does not buy American toys because no agents or salesmen call on him and duties are high.

For example, a toy wholesaling at $9.95 in the United States would retail for $31.50 in his store. Señor Soeiro told me that Portugal has a 50% import duty, which is among the highest compared to the 15-50% range I found in other countries. In addition, freight and a 15% Portuguese tax are included in the retail price.

According to Señor Soeiro the Portuguese find American toys beyond their means. As an example, a starting policeman works a full month for the equivalent of 45 American dollars.

He finds that simple, uncomplicated toys sell best—dish sets, small dolls, drums and small plastic cars. Large cumbersome American toys are out.

Off to Geneva, Switzerland, where Pierre Chatelain, toy buyer for the Grande Passage Department Store, had a very unusual presentation of toys. His floor plan took the form of boutiques. You had the impression of walking through a small French village street with its speciality stores.

Each category of toys has its own little shop appropriately signed—Palais des Poupes with dolls; Epicerie with dish sets and housekeeping toys; Peluche with stuffed animals; Palais des Fetes with costumes.

Each shop is staffed separately, and the customer can roam at will from shop to shop with her purchases. Being French in nature, this is the way the typical Geneva customer likes to shop.

American toys are selling well, and increasing in sales every year. Chatelain uses demonstrations effectively. I saw Lego, Barbie, and Fisher-Price all well displayed. Mr. Chatelain told me "My purchases of American toys will be larger this year through my buying office of Kirby Block."

Next stop: Copenhagen, Denmark, where I spoke with J. Lausen of the Magazin du Nord. There, I discovered that Lausen had taken an American item presentation—the small doll craze that is enjoying much popularity in the United States—and adapted it with his own doll called Dukke-Lise.

Because of the high duties on toys from the United States, he has the dolls made in Italy. The clothes are made locally to his specifications, and the accessories are bought in Germany, England and France. He has sold over 100,000 pieces of small Dukke-Lise in four years.

The Magazin du Nord's promotional methods are window displays, local newspaper ads and bill stuffers to charge customers. He pushes promotion during the one week in October which is a holiday from school for the children of Copenhagen. There is no commercial TV in Denmark.

A flight to Stockholm, Sweden, landed me in the office of Harry Kleiman of the Nordiska Kompaniet, or NK as it is affectionately known in Stockholm. Kleiman told me of the extremely successful tie-up between his store and S.A.S. Air Line in the promotion of the Barbie doll.

This success story started October 19, 1963, when the first Barbie ad broke in the Svenska Dagbladet, Stockholm newspaper. The ad had this provocative lead: "Have girls stopped playing with dolls?"

This ad was backed with a $25,000 order to be shipped directly from Japan to Sweden. Nordiska Kompaniet's sales of Barbie dolls jumped from $20 per day to $400-500 per day following the first ad, and continued unabated.

With this booming beginning behind him, Kleiman had the problem of how to replenish his stock. SAS came into the picture by flying in reorders at a special reduced rate. In return for this, ads and window displays were used, the windows prominently featuring SAS insignias and model planes. In the ads, stewardesses were shown with the shipments of Barbie dolls arriving directly from Japan to NK.

A complete Barbie shop was set up on the floor of NK to emphasize the importance of the doll. Barbie became, according to Kleiman, "The hottest item in my entire department," and the largest single volume producer.

At Harrods in London, I spoke to buyer Bob Marchant. This store features the soft sell. Good displays and presentations are a must.

Marchant has gotten excellent results with the "Kookie" doll, at $10 retail. This doll, made in Canada, where better duty arrangements for imports into England exist, was featured in the toy section of Harrod's catalogue, and more than 50 dozen pieces were sold. Kookie swept along with the beatnik craze, which is now overwhelming London. This was brought about by a far-out new singing group, the "Beatles," which has tremendous appeal to pre-teens and teens in England.

Fashion dolls have gone international in a big way. The impact made by Barbie in Stockholm is underscored by this departmental display at Nordiska Kompaniet.

Another feature of Bob Marchant's department at Harrods is self-service for toys selling for under £1 ($2.80). This differs from his regular department where his year-round sales people act as heads of stock and his Christmas sales people act as hostesses to help the customers.

In 1963 Harrods had about a 4% increase in sales. Demonstrations in the department numbered 14 with each one accounting for about $12,000 at retail.

Commercial television in England was found to be very successful in the promotions of Lines Brothers toys this year, according to Marchant. Stockholm, Geneva, and Copenhagen buyers all expect that within two or three years commercial television in their countries will become a reality, and the mad rush to TV toys will be on.

In observing Christmas in Europe as against Christmas in the United States I found that it, at least, really does not differ in any basic way. Toy buying habits vary, of course—but, there is the same end result of bringing joy to children

ACTION APLENTY!

1 Mr. Kelly's Car Wash . . . by Remco. Fill the water tank, hook the car on the cable, press the starter switch, and presto . . . all the action of a real automatic car wash! Under the protective see-through building cover, you can watch the car being wet down by the "specially designed" no-mess water system. See it move through the cleaning rollers, the dryer, and out the back end bright and shiny as new. Wipe it clean and even give it a wax job.

Comes with two big cars, wax cans filled with real wax for that extra polishing job, towels, sponges and a standing sign. 27 in. long. Operates on 2 "D" batteries (not included).
87-24-16F Shpg. wt. 4 lbs. $6.79

2 Clancy the Great . . . Ideal's Skating Monkey. What a lovable character this astounding 27 in. monkey is . . . and so realistic, he's practically a living pal. Just take Clancy by the hand, press the tiny concealed switch, and he'll roller skate right along with you. With typical monkey curiosity, he nods his head from side to side as he moves, making monkey sounds at all he sees.

And Clancy'll do his famous hat trick for you. Just put his hat in his hand and start tomming cones. If he catches one, he'll skate eight to you. (Two or more can compete to activate this chimp charmer.) Clancy has a finely detailed vinyl head that "talks" when squeezed; a sturdy plastic body, soft vinyl hands; mar-no-roll roller skates. Comes with a package full of his own cones. Heavy duty motor operates on 3 "D" batteries (not included).
87-25-31F Wt. 8 lbs. 8 oz. Express . . . $12.95

Press the alarm button, a bell rings . . . make ready for the enemy! Automatic revolving radar antenna tracks the enemy. Aircraft approaching? The rocket batteries let go with surface-to-air missiles.

Remote control electronic power switches move the big elevators up and down, lifting aircraft to the flight deck. Place the planes on the catapult, press the catapult button . . . off they zoom. When planes come in for a landing, arresting gear catches them. If arresting gear is missed, plane hits the crash barrier.

A giant flatop, 35 in. long, complete with 100 man crew, 12 pursuit planes, 9 bombers, 4 helicopters, 1 tow truck and 4 rockets. Not a water toy. Operates on 4 "D" batteries (not included).

4 Odd Egg . . . by Ideal. Turn on the switch . . . Odd Egg starts moving backward. Now roll one of the five plastic balls at him. If the center bar beneath his mouth is hit, he'll make a low, croaking sound and roll forward. But what happens if you miss the center bar? Odd Egg opens his big mouth, sticks out his tongue, makes a "raaaa"ing" frog noise at you and backs away several feet. The object is to make Odd Egg come forward . . . but you'll laugh along with him each time the ball misses the target.

Plastic balls are retained under the bars and do not interfere with Odd Egg's movements. The free them, the "egg button" button is pressed and Odd Egg moves away, disengaging the balls. Made of durable plastic . . . has heavy duty motor; operates on two D-cell batteries (not included).
14 in. long, 7 in. high. For ages 3 to 12.
87-25-44F Shpg. wt. 4 lbs 8 oz. . . . $8.39

SMART IS GOING

Only a fool would demean the power of television.

It is the greatest persuader on earth

The colossus among the world's propaganda forces

It sells . . . and it can sell big!

But . . . from now on . . . only disillusionment will come to the sales executive who leans on Television to do all of his selling job all of the time! New forces are at work. While commercials are strangling themselves fighting for places on the air to be seen and heard . . . new forces are at work! . . . powerful forces, neglected Cinderellas in the Advertising business . . . neglected because Advertisers are hypnotized by the glamour of the "witching-window" and beguiled by the stories of Television successes achieved, about once in every ten tries by a top, or a putty, or a doll-with-a-new-twist

One of the newest forces at work, proving its profit value to the toy business is one of the oldest forces in American Culture . . . the Comics . . . NATIONAL COMICS!

While you and your Advertising people are dreaming of big things in TV, here sleeping at your feet and waiting for your wake-up touch is a vast army of boys and girls from seven years to 14 years who are like an undiscovered gold mine — a diamond quarry — an oil field with oceans of rich crude deposits waiting to be piped into your "bottom line" . . . your profit line! This army of boys and girls who avidly eat up the contents of National Comics don't have a "viewer rating" of 6 or 10 or 22 or 30 like some TV shows

They have a 75 plus rating!

That's right! 75% of the boys and girls of our country get these comics and devour them every month.

We publish 42 different comic magazines! You get 7,000,000 ABC circulation per month — 21,000,000 different kid readers every four weeks. Some of the things you get in The National Comics Group make TV look like peanuts.

Here are a few things to think about! (Whether you are the Advertising Agent or the man or woman who is the Client): —

THOUGHT #1: If you buy a one minute spot on a National network Saturday morning, you put between $4,500 and $7,000 into that one minute, and after between 3,000 000 or 4,000,000 kids have seen your advertisement, it vanishes into thin air. If you put $7,000 into a single four-color page in National Comics, you'll buy an audience (not a captive but a paying one) of 7,000,000 children who read everything in the book for hours or days, and then pass it on to other children so that actually your $7,000 (or $3,000 or even $1,800) will give you a minimum of 21,000,000 enthusiastic readers, each of whom will probably read your ads many times

THOUGHT #2: In New York $800 on TV will buy a minute in the leading kid TV Show. BUT, in New York,

THE NATIONAL
MOST POWERFUL MEDIUM IN PRINT TO SELL TOYS AND NOVELTIES

MONEY INTO COMICS!

through National Comics, you can talk to 690,000 primary children readers at a full-page cost of $668 on a one-time basis $480 on a twelve-time basis. With passed-on, 75% of New York kids read the 42 National Comics magazines! They average between five and 25 comic books per month . . . how can you miss a market like that?

THOUGHT #3: In Chicago, a campaign on TV (for example) costs about $45,000 to reach the kid market for about eight weeks.

That money in National Comics (Chicago audience) once a month, reaching 750,000 Chicago kids would last 20 years! Isn't that a shocker!

THOUGHT #4: Los Angeles has 1,180,000 children between 7 and 14 years of age. You can reach 3 in every 4 every month for a year and a half for what it would cost you to buy two weeks of spots on the leading Kid Show which reaches only half as many Los Angeles kids.

THOUGHT #5: To take a smaller market—Cincinnati, for example, which accounts for about 7/10 of 1% of the total population—you need at least $7,000 to saturate the market with a promotional toy and get action from the kids through TV. But you only have Cincinnati!

THAT MONEY BUYS THE WHOLE NATION OF CHILDREN IN NATIONAL COMICS!

Take a look at what you get in a few markets chosen at random when you buy one page in National Comics

Market	7-14 Yr. Old Coverage	% Of Coverage	Per Page Cost Of One Page
DAYTON	80,000	65	$27
PORTLAND	84,000	60	$26
SAN ANTONIO	94,000	75	$29
TAMPA	108,000	79	$36
COLUMBUS	85,000	65	$29
HOUSTON	160,000	75	$51
NEW ORLEANS	93,000	60	$32
DENVER	85,000	52	$28

Remember, kids who buy comics are not just your captive audience . . . they are readers . . . devourers of everything in the books, including your ads.

All you need to know is how to write comic copy the way TV people know how to write commercials . . . but every good Advertising Agency is staffed to do the job.

Come off that TV kick—not all the way—but just far enough to see the trees inside the forest! They sure are green and loaded with fruit. Forty-two of them in the NATIONAL COMICS GROUP!

SMART MONEY IS 21,000,

... and getting them every time, right where they live. And breathe. And devour every word (including the ads). In the Comics, NATIONAL COMICS.

Call it a Cult if you like. A Wholesome Cult, 21,000,000 strong. Whatever you call it, it's clear that National Comics get through to 21,000,000 different youngsters every four weeks as no other advertising medium possibly can! Capturing their imagination. Satisfying their curiosity. Constantly delighting them with the written word and the lasting picture. Why else would this eager young audience go out and spend its own money — $10,000,000 in 1963 alone — on National Comics?

All this is why smart money is going into comics, National Comics... one of the most dynamic, dependable forces in the advertising world — proving its profit value to the toy and hobby business daily.

"SMART MONEY IS
THE

GOING AFTER 000 KIDS

NATIONAL COMICS ARE ALWAYS WORKING FOR YOU, DAY IN, DAY OUT. WHEN YOU PUT YOUR ADVERTISING MESSAGE INTO NATIONAL COMICS, THERE'S NEVER A CHANCE IT WILL VANISH INTO THIN AIR.

Unlike TV, you get unlimited mileage out of the advertising dollar you spend in The National Comics Group. In New York City, for example, a saturation campaign on TV costs about $55,000 to reach the kid market for eight weeks.

That money in National Comics (New York City audience) once a month, reaching 690,000 primary children readers, would last almost ten years.

Or, think of this: You can get a full page in National Comics for the cost of just producing a minute TV commercial film!

SO, IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO GET YOUR ADVERTISING MESSAGE ACROSS TO 21,000,000 KIDS MORE MEMORABLY THAN TV DOES IT FOR YOU, OR IF YOUR ADVERTISING BUDGET DOESN'T PERMIT TV, OR IF YOU WANT TO SUPPLEMENT YOUR TV SCHEDULE WITH FOOLPROOF PRINT,

Concentrate your advertising budget on the books kids like best—42 of them in The National Comics Group!

Kenner at Toy Fair With 9 New Numbers

DESCRIBED by company officials as "the most impressive in the company's history," Kenner Products Company's 1964 line will be shown at the Toy Fair in recently-expanded showrooms (1416-1424) on the top floor at 200 Fifth Avenue.

Backing up the '64 line will be "heavier-than-ever" use of coast-to-coast network television on 489 stations of the CBS, ABC and NBC-TV networks, in 262 markets, plus heavy local spot campaigns in more than 100 markets.

Scheduled to start in September, Kenner's TV promotion for the fall will include "Captain Kangaroo" on the CBS network, Monday through Friday, 8-9 A.M., and ABC's "Discovery," Sundays, 11:30 to 12 noon. Additional network purchases to be announced later will include time on a top-rated NBC program, it is reported.

Nine brand new items plus additions to "established successes," have been announced.

The new items include a Safety-Bake Oven that bakes with only two ordinary electric light bulbs. Specially prepared Safety-Bake food mixes require only the addition of water. Designed to conform to UL specifications, it actually bakes faster than a full-size kitchen oven. Safety-Bake is constructed with enclosed baking and cooling chambers. While one pan bakes, another pan cools; sliding in a third pan pushes other pans through the baking and cooling chambers. The exterior of the oven is made of heavy plastic and designed in decorator colors with a see-through window, so the child can watch while the food bakes.

Each Safety-Bake Oven includes 12 mixes—Devil's Food Cake, White Cake, Chocolate Fing Brownies, Vanilla Cookies, Biscuits, Pie Crust, Pie Filling, Pretzels, Pizza Dough, Pizza Cheese and Candy packed in laminated aluminum foil packages for long shelf-life. Also included are a mixing spoon, measuring spoon, spatula, rolling pin, three metal slide-through baking pans, and a recipe book telling how to bake many more tasty foods with home ingredients. Additional sets of all Safety-Bake mixes are also available.

List on the item is $15.95. Two 100-watt light bulbs are needed but not included. Food Mix Refills—four different refills of six mixes each—list at $1.

Also new for '64 is Kenner's Gun That Shoots Around The Corner. Now boys can shoot accurately around corners or over obstacles while lying on their stomachs. They use a highly accurate mirror-sighting device, synchronized with a gun barrel that swivels 180 degrees. The gun shoots safe, soft, rubber balls—but shoots them over, under and around corners, tables, chairs, walls or "forts." Realistic-looking in military-green, it is constructed of sturdy plastic. Semi-automatic, with a spring-firing mechanism it is shrink-packed and comes with 10 soft rubber balls. Retail: $4.49.

This year, tying in with the popular TV doctor and nurse programs, Kenner is in-

Four-flight "Let's Play Hospital" Set.

Don't order my game yet.

My Game

It costs me something to tell you that.

I've put three years of my life and I'd hate to tell you how much money into that game.

You don't do that unless you believe the thing is going to take off.

But right now, I can't honestly ask you to stock a couple dozen. Not quite yet.

After all, the thing is just beginning to catch on. I can't promise you'll be able to move those games overnight.

And I'd rather eat them myself than shove them down your throat.

But in a couple of months, I believe it will be a different story.

You see, I've been hearing some very encouraging stories lately.

A man from Harrisburg combed the countryside to find my game. (He'd played it once.) A lady from Sacramento put 200 miles on her car trying to find it. (She'd played it twice.)

And then, last week, a store in New York called me up and re-ordered two gross.

That's the way it goes. It took that other money game awhile to get off the ground.

All it seems to take is one man playing the game in each town. Just one. Then, the requests start coming in. Then, look out.

In the mean time, I'd like to send you some dope on the game.

One other thing. I'd like you to meet my sales staff. It won't take long.

roducing "Let's Play Hospital"—a fourth-floor hospital with working elevator—and with changeable wall panels that slide in and out so that the child can easily play with and move the doll-like people, and the miniature furniture that comes with the set. The hospital is 30" high and 15" square, and is easily and quickly set up. The elevator stops at all floors. Wall panels and dividing walls are movable in grooves to permit a variety of floor plans and room arrangements. Children can play with "Let's Play Hospital" from all four sides and can decorate and furnish 16 rooms, a nursery, patients' rooms, X-ray, ward. They can also move around and change costumes on the "people."

A variety of beds, chairs, dressers and other furniture—to which re-usable, pressure sensitive coverings may be applied to change color schemes—is contained in the set. It also includes 20 doll-like figures of doctors, nurses, patients and their re-usable costumes, and also 35 pieces of equipment and furniture.

Kenner's "Let's Play Hospital" is packed KID in a colorful carton. List $7.95.

Kenner's Romp and Roll is many toys within a toy—a chance for a child to use his creativity to the fullest—to produce dozens of different lifesize playthings, including love seats, picnic sets, forts and rocking chairs he can sit in, coasters and wagons he can roll in, cradles to rock, and all sorts of "Fun-i-ture on wheels," the company reports.

The interlocking bucket seats, rockers, wheels and axles, anchor-plank and "pop" cannon can be changed into many different toys just by pressing the parts together to interlock. They pull apart easily, to be used over and over again. Parts are made of light, strong plastic, in attractive reds, blues, greens and yellows. The basic set retails at $9.95; a $13.95 set has two additional bucket seats; and the deluxe size, $17.95, has double the parts in the basic set.

An unusual new addition is Kenner's big, soft, bendable animals—Mr. Awk, the Kenner Gooney Bird made famous through Kenner TV commercials, Yogi Bear, Winnie the Worm, Oogie the Octopus and Walt Disney's Pluto the Pup. These are all molded of smooth, washable Kennerflex with a wire armature inside which permits them to be bent into unusual and amusing shapes.

They're also completely at home in the bathtub and vary in size from 14" to 24" high. List on them ranges from $1.98 to $6.95.

Of the two additions to Kenner's line of Electric Mold Masters for 1964, one, for boys, is the Road Builders Set. It molds plastic HO scale models of heavy-duty construction and road-building equipment that actually work, including an electromagnetized crane, dump trucks, bulldozers, graders, etc. The girl's set molds plastic dolls, jewelry and toy animals. The successful military combat set, televised in only a few markets in 1963, will be nationally televised, along with the Road Builders Set, this fall, Kenner states.

Just now being shipped for all-year selling are four items successfully market-tested this January—four Jet-Shoot Games, See-A-Show Stereo Viewers, The Car-Plane and Dolly's Nursery Birds and Nursery Butterflies (see February PLAYTHINGS, p. 157).

Kenner's line of Give-A-Show Projectors has a new set, #505, list $4.98—containing 112 color slides giving all-new shows of 16 of the nation's top TV favorites such as Popeye, Mighty Mouse, Rocky and Bullwinkle, and others. Others in the line include the deluxe set, #502, with 168 color slides (24 shows) and kaleidoscope "movies," list $7.95, two others at $4.98, #s 503 and 504, the Super Show Triplex Projector and Accessories, list $12.95, and extra sets of shows, list 98¢. Give-A-Show Projectors will again be backed by both network and nationwide local television.

The company's Girder & Panel and Bridge & Turnpike Building Sets have both been given a complete restyling in #s 1 through 6, including modern building features such as recessed and see-through floors, two-story panels giving the illusion of soaring heights, colorful new red, blue and sky-colored windows, etc. The Bridge & Turnpike sets include many realistic new features found on the nation's network of expressways: wider roadbeds, new bridge features, and so on. Sets # 1 and 2 in the Girder & Panel Building Set Line and #s 4 and 5 in the Bridge and Turnpike line are now packed in standup cans. The complete line of Building Sets including the Sky Rail, introduced last year, will be included in Kenner's increased network and nationwide local TV promotion. List range from $2.98 to $19.97.

Other items in Kenner's 1964 line include the Flintstones Building Boulders, successfully introduced last year, three big sets, listing at from $9.95 to $15.95, Sparkle & Presto Paints featuring favorite TV characters to color and glitter, now shrink-packed, 98¢ and $1.98, the battery-powered Play Drill, list $4.98; the Motorized Home Workshop with seven power tools that safely turn, shape, drill, bore, saw and sand list $9.95; and "baby's first playthings" Nursery Birds and Nursery Butterflies now reportedly selling to one out of every four and a half homes with a newborn baby. List on the Birds is $3.49, Butterflies, $2.29.

NEW CARTOON SERIES IN COMIC BOOKS WILL PROMOTE HOBBIES

One of America's largest comic book publishers will soon begin a special cartoon series built around events in a retail hobby center, it has been revealed by Ruder & Finn, the HIAA's public relations counsel.

Entitled "Cap's Hobby Center," the series will appear in all comic books published by National Comics Corporation, one of the largest publishers of its kind, with total circulation in excess of 7,000,000 young readers monthly.

The series will be drawn by Henry Boltinoff, nationally known cartoonist, and will have as its central character a hobby center proprietor named "Cap." The name was chosen to fit in with the initials of the hobby industry's "Creative Americans Program" inaugurated by Ruder & Finn.

- Mortar Really Shoots Shells

(D) Realistic Historical Set with Over 200 Pieces. Re-enact the vigorous battles, the danger, the drama, the glorious heroism of the War Between the States. Exciting action pieces include a battle-field Bunker that actually "explodes" when hit, a trench mortar that shoots harmless cannon balls.

Union Troops Storm Confederate Headquarters in a southern mansion valiantly defended by Confederate troops. All pieces are authentic, miniature replicas of personnel and military equipment of the 1860's. Colorfully lithographed steel mansion is about 11x7 1/4 in., has plastic columns and portico.

3-Dimension Plastic Figures are minutely detailed in various action poses. Included are General Grant, General Lee, President Lincoln, President Davis among others. Realistic trench sections, terrain accessories, tents, horses, cavalry gear, flags and loads of other pieces in unbreakable molded plastic add realism to set. Mail.

Big Caesar is molded plastic, abt. 29 in. long, 17 in. high. Needs 4 "D" Cell batteries; order on Page 285. Fortress made of sturdy fiberboard. All pieces beautifully detailed, molded plastic. Mailable.

Exclusive "Selectronic Switch"

Unbelievable Speed and Curve Control

with New HO Cars

A B C Facts About The Aurora HO Sets: The cars will run the complete track in reverse. Famous Driver Stirling Moss says, "Aurora's New Thunderjet '500' motor is incredibly fast. It really takes great skill to get those little cars around the course even for a professional racing driver. They slip over, spin out, and crash at high speeds." Experience all the dangers and thrills of real auto racing.

The cars will reach scale speeds of over 600 MPH, and have only 2 lubrication points. The pick-up brushes have a life of over 400 hours. All cars have bright chrome-plated front and rear bumpers and hubs. Cars run on any DC HO road race. Do not run on AC sets. Aurora 1963 cars have larger armatures and commutators than any other HO cars PLUS solid nylon chassis which mean more power and longer car life. All sets have Thunderjet Speed controls with a reverse switch and brake that look like a section of a real dash board. 18-Volt DC power pack also included. Aurora HO sets can be used in conjunction with present HO train systems. HO scale road races occupy about 1/2 the space of comparable 1/2 scale sets.

A Aurora 2 Lane HO set features XKE Jag car, and Corvette Sting Ray with so much straight and curved track that countless layouts can be built. Automatic lap counter is built right into the track. Graduated trestles with fencing for curves, and a pair of cross-sections help create a "highway intersection."

48 T 8027—Layout about 25 1/4 x 55 1/4 in. Ship. wt. 7 lbs. 12 oz. $22.88

NEW AUTO-RAMA

G The A.C. Gilbert Company, a mark of quality for over fifty years, introduces the Auto-Rama Road Race with Fly-Over Chacon. One of the most unusual accessories in table top racing, the new Jump Ramp permits cars to leap in the air—and keep right on racing. A switch lets you make your car leap and change lanes in MID-AIR. It takes real skill to negotiate the jump. Imagine the excitement when both cars approach the ramp at once. Fly-over kit even has an automatic red warning light. Set has two Ford cars, completely assembled, ready to operate. Custom decal kit added so that no two cars look alike. Separate controls for each car look like real automobile accelerators. Enough track for multiple layouts as well as unusual layout (shown)—fencing with metal posts and trestles for curves with set DC power pack and independent car controls included. Mailable.

J Take The Wheel of The AMT Car For the first time a car that you can really steer. Featuring a steering wheel that you hold in your hand with hand accelerator. If you spin out, a reverse shift helps you get started again. AMT cars can spin 180° like real racers, but cannot leave the track avoiding damage to cars, furniture. The cars will not come off the track once you mount them because each car has a guide runner that inserts into the guide slot at the track. When you get the lead, you can cross over and take the pole position, just like real racing. Your opponent then has to "Steer" to the outside to pass. Both cars can run in the same track, yet the cars are independently controlled. The set has two crossover tracks, therefore two places where you can switch lanes to block your opponent or get the pole position. You can even brake the cars with the steering mechanism. Set includes enough track, straight and curved for pictured layout. No need for fenced curves here. Power pack; individual controls for one Model-T, one Chevrolet car included.

Surfaces are protected by two coats of real truck paint, and a special phosphatizing process keeps the toys looking "newly waxed" for years.

Franklin

Air-Cooled Innovator

by Donald Earnshaw

THE H. H. FRANKLIN Manufacturing Company began as a subsidiary of a die-casting firm known as the Franklin Manufacturing Company. The newly formed subsidiary was charged with the responsibility of producing a car designed by its vice president, John Wilkinson.

Although the first designs were made in 1897, it wasn't until 1902 that 13 cars were made and sold. Harry Knox of Springfield, Massachusetts, was credited with putting the first car with an air-cooled engine on the road in the United States, but Franklin was the only really successful enterprise in the air-cooled-engine field.

Early Franklin models, produced in Syracuse, New York, used more aluminum than any competitor, and it advertised the advantages of its laminated-wood frame. Although Franklin offered both four- and six-cylinder, pressure-air-cooled engines in runabouts and tourings (from $1800 to $4000), the strongest selling point was that these light cars weren't only fast but also economical. Their claim was that the air-cooled engine operated at a more efficient 350° F., while the water from liquid-cooled engines boiled at a much lower temperature. Franklin proved their economy by traveling 95 miles on two gallons of gasoline in a 1908 efficiency contest, while the nearest water-cooled car went only 48 miles.

In 1916, Franklin was the only car with an air-cooled engine among the 169 different makes offered. The method of cooling was easy to overlook, but the absence of a radiator shell made the design too different, and this hurt Franklin sales. The size of the opening in the front of the hood gradually increased until 1925, when a full radiator shell was placed in front of the engine, giving the car a standard look.

Many auto manufacturers had considered marketing a car with an air-cooled engine, but they were more concerned with patent suits and therefore never made the final step. Chevrolet offered a four-cylinder, air-cooled engine as an option in the early 1920s. It's a fact that in 1925, Delco (a GM division) sold an electric generating plant powered by a four-cylinder, air-cooled engine. This engine, by coincidence, would fit right into a four-cylinder Chevrolet.

The Franklin Automobile Company began using the name Airman and Airman Limited for their models in 1928. This began the association of Franklin air-cooled cars with airplanes. In 1928, Cannonball Baker drove an Airman on a coast-to-coast round trip in less than 158 hours and averaged 42.5 mph. Franklin ads boomed the message in 1928: "Balancing this speed are synchronized, four-wheel hydraulic brakes to assure positive action and utmost security at all times."

This braking innovation put Franklin ahead of 70 of its 77 competitors, but the Depression soon set in and the public seemed interested only in low-priced cars. There were more different companies producing large cars in the upper-medium class than sales could support. Franklin didn't have a low-priced, bread-and-butter product to sell and couldn't afford to make any major changes. They went into the hands of receivers in 1934, after marketing an air-cooled V-12.

The H. H. Franklin Club, a non-profit organization, is dedicated to the preservation and restoration of all Franklin automobiles. More information from Club Secretary Miles S. Amick, Box 535, Cumberland, Md.

Round "radiator" on this 1907 air-cooled Franklin set it apart from competitors, but probably hurt sales because of difference.

By 1918, sloping hood looked much like Renault, then a high-priced luxury car. Franklin was famed for excellent efficiency.

Square 1928 phaeton bowed to buyer pressures by adopting a conventional-looking grille shell. This model was six-cylinder.

Looking much like a huge '34 Ford, the 1934 Franklin could be ordered with an air-cooled V-12 that sported overhead valves.

■ SPECIAL-INTEREST CARS

Model T Ford

Any color so long as it's black

by Robert A. Mogge

Past President

Model T Ford Club International

AT THE BEGINNING of the 20th Century, there were only 8000 automobiles in the U.S. But more than 20 million horses and mules served our Victorian-tured population of 76 million people. The technical and industrial contributions that came from pioneers like Henry Ford dramatically paved the way for the most fantastic material revolution man has ever experienced.

"I would like," declared Ford, "to put the farmers in possession of the land, destroy ignorance, and leave the producers of goods free to develop. . . . With the automobile, the farmer can live in the country and have all the experience of the world."

On March 10, 1908, the biggest forces at work selling Ford cars were the 20,000 horseless carriages Henry had built and sold. All that was claimed in early Ford catalogues and ads was completely borne out by these pre-Model T vehicles.

When the Model T was finally introduced the following October, it had to be right from the start. Every small detail had been carefully designed. Special tools had been installed, special alloy steels developed. Simplicity, durability, utility, and efficiency had been "joined in one harmonious whole" to make the car that Ford pronounced "perfect." Model Ts gave people mobility; it was the Universal Car that would take them away from the farms.

Henry Ford was fearless with his Model T project. He stayed that way until engine #15,007,033 left the assembly line in May of 1927, when the flivver was turned out to pasture. Ford never gave in easily. He fought friend and family to save his beloved Tin Lizzie. Model T was his way of showing contempt for wealth, show, and servants. "You can have any color as long as it's black!" bellowed Ford. Again it was his way of making sure that what was good for one was good for all.

Ford's famous $5-a-day minimum wage declaration in 1914 was another blow against monopoly and inefficiency. Whether he broke precedent (chiefly at the instigation of James Couzens) to eliminate the need for special, skilled workers, or to forestall a possible union invasion, Henry Ford shared profits with his workers — he improved their lot and created more purchasing power to sell more Model Ts.

It was this Ford ability to ignore the profit motive that gave him a tremendous advantage over competition. In the heyday of the Model T, Ford sales accounted for 50% of all U.S. automobile business. Other car manufacturers claimed that Henry was merely providing transportation, not building motor cars. Yet Ford's output eventually hit the one-million-a-year mark. This meant over 3000 of these plain, temperamental, black, 20-hp, four-cylinder, planetary-drive flivvers were being built every weekday (the Ford plant was closed on Sundays).

But time was the factor Henry Ford couldn't overcome. By the mid-1920s, people weren't satisfied with the simple ruggedness of the Tin Lizzie. Reluctantly, rebelliously, forcibly, the Model T came to an end and gave way to Model A in 1928. The things Ford had hoped and planned for people had truly become a new, exciting, adventurous way of life — but there was no longer loyalty for the car that had so significantly brought it all about.

The Model T Ford Club International, a non-profit society, was formed in 1952 to promote the preservation and restoration of antique automobiles, particularly the Model T Ford. Membership numbers nearly 1500. The Model T Ford Club International, Allerton Hotel, 701 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 11, Ill.

This car put America on wheels. Lots of brass relieved black paint, and 1911 Model T incorporated stark functionality, not frills. Yet the car had simple beauty few others could match.

Last of the Tin Lizzies (1927) shows many changes, but there's still the same workaday elegance. Engine and drive train went unchanged for 19 years. Fifteen million Model Ts were built

Willys-Knight With an engine you'll never wear out by D. Laughton, Editor, KNIGHT-OVERLAND STARTER

AETAT MAJESTAT — eternally majestic — is the phrase that best describes the Willys-Knight. From its inception, it was a leader in both performance and coach design.

When John North Willys went to England in 1912, Daimler of Coventry and Charles Knight offered to let him road test one of their sleeve-valve-engined cars. Like many another American automobile manufacturer, he was skeptical of this new powerplant. Was it as silent as they claimed? Would it hold up? Would a car the factory prepared for him be "prepared"?

Asking these questions, he rented a Daimler and drove 15 hours a day until he'd covered 4500 miles of English countryside. He was completely satisfied on the first count and when he asked the chauffeur how the engine was holding up, the reply was something like, "I don't know, sir. I've been so tired from driving that I haven't raised the bonnet."

Within two years, John Willys had bought a Knight license, bought out Edwards-Knight, and moved it from New York to Ohio to build the first Willys-Knights.

Most Willys-Knights were Classic in every respect but price. The dual-sleeve-valve, Knight-patented engine was the finest of its day. Many authorities will argue that the Knight engine wasn't a high-speed unit, but in 1930, the 353-inch Cadillac V-8 was rated at 90 hp at 3000 rpm, while the largest Willys-Knight, 255 inches, was rated at 87 hp at 3200 rpm. In 1913, a Mercedes-Knight finished fifth at Indy. In a 1925 contest held by the French government, a Minerva engine proved itself superior to any poppet-valve engine. After 240 hours at full throttle, it was producing better than 100% of its original power, while most of the poppet-valve engines had either blown or dropped to about 30% efficiency. In 1928, a sleeve-valve Voisin captured every speed record from 128.75 mph for one hour to 113.75 mph for 3000 miles and others up to 50,000 kilometers.

Features like 5.5-to-1 compression (highest in 1928), hemi-heads, perfectly sealed combustion chambers without hot spots, and the best unblown breathing system ever devised made the Willys-Knight, inch for inch, the most powerful American production engine of its day. With up to 100,000 miles without repairs, increased power with use, and silence unmatched to this day, Willys had an engine hard to approach.

Other features included the Skinner Rectifier to remove gas and water from the oil, Lanchester balancers to eliminate vibration from the Fours, Belflex fabric shackles for a quiet, lube-free chassis, roller bearings instead of bushings in the kingpins for easier steering, and bodies from the most successful coachbuilders of the day.

With a total production of over 325,000 cars, the Willys-Knight has to be classified as a success. Its enthusiastic owners ranged from Franklin D. Roosevelt to Lee deForest and Glenn Curtis. Willys-Overland ad men had a field day filling the center spreads in many magazines with citations from European monarchs, endorsements of society "400s," and the testimonials from safaris like Olsen and Johnson.

The demise of the Willys-Knight was caused by the Depression, the cost of Knight engine production, lack of competent service personnel, and progress — in that order. Like chivalry, the Willys-Knight may be gone, but it isn't forgotten.

Airflow 5 years to design — 30 to grow on

by Bob Selbrede, Editor, AIRFLOW NEWSLETTER

THE YEAR 1964 marks the 30th birthday of the first Airflow. The three-dimensional airfoil shape of the Airflow made it stand out among its contemporaries. Its design was very controversial, but it's doubtful whether any other single design had greater influence on later cars.

A few years after Chrysler Corporation was formed, its research director, Carl Breer, decided to investigate the possibility of reducing air resistance by adapting aerodynamic principles to the design of automobiles. The Airflow's shape was the result of many years of wind-tunnel testing, first using wooden blocks of various shapes and eventually going to scale-model automobiles.

In contrast to the high, boxy cars then in vogue, the Airflow had low-slung, gracefully curved lines that had a minimum of protrusions and looked a little like it'd been cast in a mold. By design, the Airflow's beam was near the front of the car. This gave room for a three-passenger front seat. The slanted windshield was unusually wide, and it increased driver visibility by some 25%. One body style, the limousine, sported the industry's first one-piece, curved windshield.

The first Airflows were a snub-nosed breed having a long-radius curve in their grilles and hoods. Hoods were hinged near the cowl and extended forward to the bumper line. The massive, heavy-gauge fenders, bolted high on the body, formed a smooth contour from fender to hood. Headlights were mounted flush with the surface of the fenders and were forerunners of today's Sealed Beams. Rear fender skirts were standard equipment, and the spare tire of this fastback Airflow was carried in a continental kit (except for the coupes, which carried theirs in a special compartment).

The 1934 DeSoto Airflow had 11 ventilating louvers on each side of the engine compartment — behind the fenders.

Its Chrysler counterpart had three manually operated doors on each side. In addition, both models had louvered panels beneath the fenders. There were 11,292 Chrysler and 13,940 DeSoto Airflow models made in 1934.

The 1935 Airflows had only minor styling changes. The Chrysler models replaced their previous three- and four-tiered bumpers with a single, wide bumper similar to that on the DeSoto. Its characteristic "dual headlight" design was altered, and the hood-louver doors replaced by a less functional design — two wide bands of fixed louvers. The number of fixed louvers of the DeSoto model was reduced to three rather long ones. Total production of 1935 Chrysler Airflows dropped to 7751 cars. As in 1934, models came in three series: the Airflow Eight, the Airflow Imperial, and the Custom Imperial. Production of the single DeSoto Airflow model was a mere 6797.

As usual, many improvements and changes were made on the 1936 Airflows, but most were mechanical. The grille and headlamps became reminiscent of the '34 models. The decorative louver vents of the Chryslers were only miniature versions of the 1935 design, whereas the DeSoto included two and three wing-shaped louvers on each side of the hood. Production of Chrysler Airflows dropped again — to 6275 cars. The demise of the DeSoto Airflow came in 1936, after 5000 of the S-2 models were manufactured.

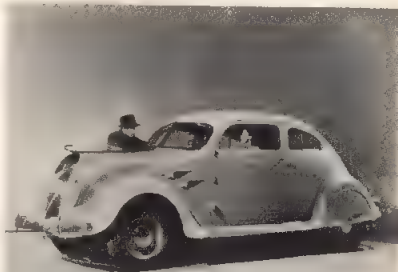

The 1937 C-17 was the last of the Chrysler Airflows. A total of 4600 was built. It was perhaps the most handsome of the group, and understandably so, because it combined the best of earlier designs. There were very few external changes.

Doubtless, the Airflow design is still, after 30 years, greatly influencing present-day automobile styling.

The Airflow Club of America, a non-profit organization, was founded in 1962 and is dedicated to the restoration and preservation of Chrysler and DeSoto Airflows and related history and lore. Airflow addicts are encouraged to contact Club Secretary Paul Criswell, Jr., 215 Leonard Ave., North Apollo, Pa.

Chrysler Imperial Airflow (Model C-10) of 1936 offered over-drive optionally. Straight Eight engine put out 150 horses.

DeSoto coupe of the same year incorporated similar influential styling. Its 100-hp Six had optional aluminum cylinder head.

You don't build a hairy mill like this one by looking over your shoulder. You start from scratch. Absolute. Sweat off pounds and bulk with special iron alloys and casting techniques. Add sinew with a forged crank that takes its thrust on the center bearing. The precision of integrally-cast valve guides. Lightweight rocker arms for better lubrication. A wedge-shaped combustion chamber with more potent compression. That's Oldsmobile's new 425-cubic-inch Super Rocket—available in 300-, 310- and 360-bhp., including a regular-gas version.

The 1965 Olds Dynamic 88 with a Super Rocket V-8 tucked under its hood! This powerhouse-on-wheels flattens hills like they were going out of style. The Rocket Action Car!

Valiant & Barracuda

STARTING with the distinctive '63 sheet metal, Valiant's designers have carefully studied just the important areas and skillfully refined their product with minimal changes. For example, the most controversial line on the original design was the wedge-shaped indent on the front quarter panel—its bottom edge slid diagonally down over the wheel house and went nowhere. Latching onto the advent of their important image car (Barracuda), they changed the die just to make this line horizontal, then camouflaged it with a heavy trim stamping on the regular series. Barracuda's tail-light assembly is also on the standard car, but additional trim across the back and just above the bumper marks the '65s and visually cuts down the deck height. Our criticism of the fastback is that the view into the car through the big back window is unattractive, and the outside trim strip across the lower window edge seems garish and unnecessary. The fine grille of the Valiant is richer. Its proportions are improved by dividing the outer panels horizontally. Another big plus goes to the graphically handsome lettering in name plaques, also to the unique and beautifully proportioned wheel covers kept from last year. On the minus side, subtract points for the foolish lugs-and-louvers wheels on the Barracuda. Overall, though, Valiant has become a more identifiable and attractive product through subtle and well thought-out styling improvements.

consists of all-new interior and exterior sheet metal. The successful unitized body/chassis construction methods have been revised slightly. Instead of one complete, welded-together unit, the front stub frame's now bolted on. This same type of construction is also used on the big Plymouths and Dodges.

In the station wagon field, both Dart and Valiant wagons hold their 106-inch wheelbases. Belvedere and Coronet wagons share a 116-inch wheelbase, while the Plymouth Fury, Dodge Polara, and Dodge Custom 880 wagons share the 121-inch wheelbase. Chrysler's Newport and New Yorker wagons have a 124-inch wheelbase, which they share with all other Chrysler automobiles. This represents a two-inch increase over previous models.

The Chrysler alphabet series continues with the 300-L. As in the past, this sports-oriented personal car offers a bucket-seat/console interior and a large, healthy, 360-hp version of the 413-cubic-inch engine. As some of you may know, the 300 letter series has been making quite a name for itself on this country's rally circuits. Here its excellent handling characteristics, high comfort level, and high-output engine are all very desirable features.

Chrysler Corporation's luxury car, the Imperial, continues with the same styling introduced last year. The design, which wasn't viewed with favor by everyone, was successfully accepted on the whole, as the '64 sales figures show. Over twice as many Imperials were sold as in 1963. Many refinements have been made for '65 in the areas of interior appointments and quietness of operation. The line continues to offer four models in two series: the LeBaron four-door sedan at the top of the line, the Crown two-door hardtop coupe, the Crown four-door hardtop, and the Crown two-door convertible.

Other new items common to the whole corporation line-up include a switch to new low-profile tires and the adoption of flanged rear axles with improved bearings. The famous 5/50 (five-year or 50,000-mile) warranty covering major power-train components is continued on all cars.

In place of last year's front fender crease, 1965 Valiant has chrome trim. Grille design now favors Barracuda, as does rear.

Trim goes high on body, medallions and bumper guards spell '65 changes. Valiant should come in for major restyling next year.

Ford Motor Company

Lincoln

IT TAKES great courage to make any changes in a design that's been as successful and admired as the Lincoln Continental, but the 1965 model has a new face. Gone is the horizontal, mirror-image, die-cast, honeycomb, wedge-front of the original theme. In its place is a horizontal cavity containing a meticulous, horizontal, die-cast texture with center panel relief and strong, die-cast, polished-chrome, quad headlight bezels. Direction lights are now located behind small chrome grilles in the front edge of each fender fin, which has required lowering the tops of the bumper-end pads slightly. There's also an entirely new hood panel from the windshield forward, but the main difference is that the longitudinal, raised section has been narrowed to match the width of the forward-relieved portion of the grille. We get the impression of a long, narrow hood and radiator flanked by huge horizontal catwalks and the familiar thin fender fins. There won't be any problem now identifying the latest model from either front or back. Tail lights are the same shape as before, but they carry chrome grille covers like the directional lights in front. Bumper, deck, and even the medallion are the same, but they've cleaned up the deck by removing the overlay texture panel. The panel in the rear bumper recess is now made up of fine horizontal lines.

THIS YEAR MARKS a major milestone in the history of the Ford Motor Company. The introduction of the new, all-coil-spring chassis will put 1965 into the books along with the introduction of the Model A in 1928, the flathead V-8 in 1932, independent front suspension in 1949, and the ohv V-8 in 1954.

To find another year that saw such sweeping changes in the big Ford and Mercury lines, you'd have to go back to 1949. This was the last time these cars were actually brand new from the ground up. The all-new styling speaks for itself, but the real story's in the design changes of the frame, body, and suspension.

Both standard-sized Fords and Mercurys share the new chassis—but with minor dimensional differences. Ford has kept their 119-inch wheelbase, while Mercury stretches out from 120 to 123 inches. Both boast what's come to be known as "wide-track," with 62-inch tread widths front and rear. This represents an increase of one and two inches respectively over what Ford and Merc used before.

In any analysis of the new chassis, the frame and body have to be treated as a single unit, even though they don't have unitized construction. In separate body/frame construc-

YEARS AGO, manufacturers took fierce pride in establishing marque identification through the design of the radiator shell—woe to those who thought about radical departures or plagiarism. Today, there's panic in the planning rooms if the hash can't be flip-flopped as often as possible so it can dazzle the customer with an endless stream of acceptable trinkets. It's something of a temptation, then, to say, "Here's the all-new Hodgepodge Dodge," because it looks so little like anything in their showrooms for '64. Yet there's a faint familiarity about most of the parts. The Coronet's front-end theme is handsomely proportioned and could easily be refined if the factory decides to in the future. Inconsistently, the belt-line spear molding goes off toward the rear but changes its mind en route (the eye might tire of monotony during the long trip). This is a face lift, of course. But the Polara, 880, and Monaco, on the other hand, share a brand-new body with Chrysler that glows with ideas. The vertical-slot rear quarter window is a unique proportion that lightens and stiffens the upper, while the whole rear end is a crisply organized "graphic." The continuous ledge running down the body side adds tremendous length by dividing the height dimension. Only fly in the ointment is the busy, unrelated, familiar (from elsewhere) front end, but generally the series is fresh and exciting—nearly all new.

reputation for good handling qualities has been earned on the strength of the torsion bars

The equally famous TorqueFlite automatic transmission wasn't quite so lucky. The pushbutton control, which they've featured since 1956, has been dropped in favor of a steering-column-mounted control lever. Nobody asked us (how about you?), but an extensive marketing survey was taken on the subject. Results showed that less than half the people who'd never driven a pushbutton car would ever consider buying one. So to stand a better chance of capturing some of those buyers, that excellent feature was ash-canned. The survey also showed that over 65% of present owners of pushbutton-equipped cars thought it was the best—at least they said they'd buy another one. We think those results are a little shy. We've never talked to anyone who's driven with buttons who'd care to go back to the column-mounted lever. Floor-mounted, yes—but column, no! At least the TorqueFlite itself hasn't been changed. It's still the most positive shifting of any automatic on the market.

In the past, Plymouth would never admit that their full-sized car (116-inch wheelbase) wasn't exactly a full-sized car. This year, they're forced to call it an intermediate. Its new designation is the Belvedere I, II, and Satellite. The Belvedere's basically last year's full-sized car with new front-end sheet metal, new interior, and different styling. It's offered with a lion's share of the available engines—seven of them, covering a horsepower range from 145 to over 425.

The Valiant's come in for only minor trim changes to set it off from the '64 model. The Barracuda, all-new late last year, is carried over unchanged in looks but has several added performance options. Foremost is a more powerful version of the 273-cubic-inch V-8. To complement this engine and add a little stature to the sporting character of the fastback Barracuda, a handling package's also offered. Much of the development work on this package was handled by Chrysler's champion rallyist, Scott Harvey. He's also a darn good engineer. We drove a prototype and were very much impressed

AT LAST, the long-awaited "new look" for Chrysler is here, and it's quite a conversation piece. Up close—going over the car in detail—there's a continuous stream of new discoveries that catch the eye. First, of course, are the headlights grouped behind etched glass windows that neatly subdue the circles and complement the rectangular mouth-frame. The black grille and simple cross bar of the 300 let the headlight panels accent the opening better than the New Yorker (with its bright, horizontal texture). Mounting the door handles on the continuous fender peak molding makes them very inconspicuous. Rear fender skirts let the clean body shape flow uninterrupted. But most surprising are the roofs: the tight angularity and intriguing quarter-window proportion of the four-door sedan, the upholstered vinyl quarter panel of the hardtop, and the all-glass back areas, much like the front grille. But somehow the thing altogether doesn't quite come off. The front fender fin runs down into the bumper pad and intersects a horizontal crease. The rear fender fin continues into the rear bumper and twists awkwardly to meet the lower skid molding. Simultaneously the eye tries to follow around the tail-light trough. Three clumps of texture behind the front wheel of the 300 are unrelated to anything. In short, the one ingredient lacking in the final assembly of ideas is taste.

(Bring on the Mustangs, Wildcats, Impalas . . . we'll even squash a few Spyders while we're at it.) Dodge has made it a little harder to survive in the asphalt jungle. They just uncaged the Coronet. A hot new Dodge at a new lower price . . . the new-comer that's a real goer.

Best of all, Coronet's priced right in there with Fairlane and Chevelle. But that's where the resemblance ends.

Tempest

FACE LIFTING is probably the toughest task in styling, but Pontiac's designers have carefully examined the Tempest's image and tastefully added and subtracted details so the handsome character introduced last year is brought into even sharper focus. Playing the little brother role to the big, luxurious, fast Pontiac to the hilt, Tempest offers a combination of reserved elegance and bold performance that spells pride and red-blooded living. Smooth body sides with crisp edges are punctuated by a relief panel that looks like a husky frame beam, but this is just a simple background for the big, dynamic wheel cut-outs that show off the main design points — the wheels. For '65, these say performance and strength by looking like refined competition polished alloy types. The now-much-copied Le Mans tail-light treatment is improved by wrapping all the way around the fender tips for better night-time width indication. The GTO keeps its easy-to-spot hood scoop but makes it one in the middle (like a blower blister) and cleaner than last year. Other noteworthy details are the beautifully simple air opening in the front end, with its floating chrome frame and the strong, easy-to-read lettering used on all Tempests. Our only serious point of criticism on this series is the vertical headlight stack on each side that looks a little crowded. Last year's horizontal arrangement seemed to line up much better with the grille and bumper.

Pontiac

TWO YEARS AGO, Pontiac made a design breakthrough. The car became a fantastic success when it introduced clean, dynamic shapes and good taste into the big, hot-performing, medium price field. In many ways, the award-winning Grand Prix could be considered one of the most influential designs of modern times. It's partly responsible for setting many current trends. The '65 Pontiac definitely follows this tradition with its undulating flanks, crisp edges, sporty accents, and tightly tailored hardware. Front-end themes vary with each model, but all play on the deep, horizontal air-slot theme that's divided by a thin, vertical hood from over a high, slotted bumper. The vertically stacked headlight barrels are exposed by sharply raking the fender lid back. This may look a little less tidy than previous versions. An important new touch, though, is the visual raising of the bottom of the body by adding a low fin or skag that symmetrically repeats the top fender line, then hitting it hard with trim underneath. The rear end of the Grand Prix improves its much-copied hidden tail light trick by eliminating even the distracting shield. In the wheel department, GM's designers again show their mastery at creating functional-looking jewelry to accent the supple body forms. But the biggest news is the 2 + 2 — a sleek, gutsy, semi-fastback coupe that spells luxury grand touring in the best wide-track Pontiac sense.

Olds F-85

STARTING FROM the middle (which was brand new in '64), Olds' hot and handsome version of their intermediate luxury car has gone to new ends for 1965 model identification. The character's the same, but new sheet metal from the doors forward makes subtle changes that follow both the big Olds models and GM styling in general. Fender peaks curve down toward the front a little, looking less rigid than before, while the front end kinks back inboard of the headlights (same as other corporation cars). Costly name lettering is gone from the hood panel and is now included in the husky center bar of the die-cast grille. The rear end shows the biggest improvement and least change with a new die-cast insert panel below the deck lid that joins the tail lights in a simple, tasteful pattern. Both bumper stampings are new and house turn and back-up lights in tight circular ports instead of the usual ice cubes. Most important trim change is moving the heavy horizontal chrome molding (usually below the doors) up about five inches and running it from bumper to bumper. It adds strong emphasis to length while still tying in with wheel cut-out trim — also reduces the apparent body side height by lifting the bottom edge. New wheel covers look rich and strong with their cast radial fins and jewel-like molded plastic centers, the effect being a lot like Bugatti's functional design of the '30s. Most changes are clean and conservative but help to strengthen Olds' individuality.

Dam Trolls keep rolling: now produced in Florida

MINIATURE TROLL, BY DAM

Contrary to information received by TOYS & NOVELTIES and published in our December, 1963 issue, implying that imports of Danish trolls had been halted, the popular items continue to be readily available in all three sizes.

The wild-haired, happy-faced trolls, developed five years ago by ex-wood carver Thomas Dam in Denmark, are currently being manufactured in Florida under license by Dam Things Establishment. Sole United States sales licensee for the trolls, as well as for the entire Dam Things line, is Scandia House Enterprises, Inc., Coral Gables, Fla., headed by Mrs. Inge Dykins.

Each Dam Troll is an original, Mrs. Dykins points out, since hair and scalp are actual sections of sheepskin (imported from Iceland), and no two sheepskins can possibly be identical.

The Dam Trolls are available as 8" papa and mama, 5" brother and sister and the 2" miniature number.

Says Mrs. Dykins, "Dam Things Establishment has been able to keep up with the tremendous demand and is looking toward 1964 with full assurance that the demand, no matter how great it is, will be met and the high quality maintained."

There will be, Mrs. Dykins adds, some brand new Dam Things introduced this year.

Lomart announces acquisition, anticipated increase in sales

Lomart Perfected Devices, Inc., producer of above-ground swimming pool filtration, has announced the acquisition of the assets of Romar Filter Corp., Milwaukee.

The Brooklyn, N.Y.-based firm also reported that sales in the first half of the fiscal year, as of December 31, 1963, will exceed sales for the same period last year. An increase of approximately 20 percent in total sales is anticipated.

Lomart reported net sales of $1,808,564 and after-tax earnings of $202,163 in its last fiscal year, ended June 30, 1963.

Catalog publisher plans consumer hobby ad program

A multi-page Sunday newspaper supplement in November, 1964 will form the heart of a hobby industry advertising and promotional program currently being planned by Haywood Publishing Co., New York.

Ideal executive sees more toy sales in supermarkets

Labeling supermarkets a "vast untapped potential," Mark Michtom of Ideal Toy Corporation said that toys can be sold in the untraditional outlets if they are instantly appealing, priced low enough to come within the shopper's grocery budget and packaged so they can go in and out of the stores' warehouses quickly.

The New York toy firm's vice president also told a luncheon meeting of the Market Executives Club of New York that the nation's 100,000 supermarkets accounted for 75 million, or less than 4 percent, of the $2 billion of toys sold at retail in 1963. He pointed out, however, that this was an upward trend that will continue as the grocer becomes increasingly aware of the broader profit margins offered by non-foods.

"A recent survey showed that while non-foods do only 7 percent of the volume in supermarkets, they contribute 20 percent of the profits," he stated.

Michtom also stated that supermarket managers had to overcome a natural reticence to become familiar with anything other than staple grocery products, while toy manufacturers had to learn the workings of supermarkets and shopping habits of their customers. He further pointed out that since most people shop the supermarkets every week, the toys must change from time to time.

With "creative hobbies" as its theme, the campaign will offer "national distribution for manufacturers, regional coverage for wholesalers and a year-round consumer incentive program for retailers," according to George Spangler, publisher of the supplement.

In addition to Spangler, who is head of Oakes Consumer Catalogs, a division of Haywood, the team assembled to produce the program includes advertising manager William Van Precht, a 10-year veteran of the hobby industry, and Contempo Agency, Inc., which will handle creative and graphic arts aspects.

Actual circulation figures for the supplement, scheduled to appear in "multiple Sunday newspapers throughout the country," will be made available during the HIAA Trade Show in Chicago next month, along with complete details of the program.

American Toy names three reps

American Toy and Furniture Co., Chicago has recently announced three representative appointments. Jerry Tobin Associates, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, will cover Chicago, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Darusmont, Sleeper & Associates, with Floyd Sleeper, Bill Trau, Ralph Sevebeck and Harvey Meier, will cover Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Kentucky. Al Pozner will cover the Rocky Mountain states.

Other problems cited by Michtom were the fact that toys must compete with 5,000 other items for space in the stores and that they are sold by personnel unfamiliar with selling points.

Ideal vice president Mark Michtom, details the problems and potential of selling toys in Supermarkets, as he addresses the Market Executives Club of New York in the Lexington Hotel.

Henry Y. Simmons has been named a vice president at Parker Brothers Inc., Salem, Mass. game manufacturer, according to president Robert B. M. Barton. Simmons' responsibility will lie in games research, development and marketing, and he will also handle special sales assignments.

Anthony, previously a character doll manufacturer for 7½ years and a representative for the last 7½ years, will cover Michigan, eastern Wisconsin and southern Illinois. Slaven, associated in the toy business for seven years with his father, Mart rep Robert Slaven, will cover Indiana, northern Illinois, Minnesota and western Wisconsin.

"We feel the partnership will allow us to better serve our customers and factories," said Anthony. Robert Slaven will continue to merchandise toy and hobby items, concentrating exclusively on major mail order, drug and variety chains.

Three new service parts salesmen, under the direction of E. J. McVoy, sales manager, have been added to the Service Parts Division of Murray Ohio Manufacturing Co., Nashville, Tenn. They are Thomas McCabe who covers the Midwest; Gene Smith who handles the West Coast, and Walter Banas, Jr., who is engaged in an extensive training program in manufacturing operations at the firm's Lawrenceburg, Tenn. plant.

William Anderson, with the Service Parts Division since its inception, has transferred from the Midwest to the South and Southwest. Robert J. Beckley, also with the division since the beginning, remains as representative in the East. Packing and shipping personnel have also been added to the division at the Lawrenceburg plant.

A major factor in the success of Murray's Service Parts Division is its Bulk Pack System which features multiple packaging of the more common bicycle and wheel goods parts. The system saves on per-item and freight costs to the jobber and allows for inventory organization in cartons rather than in lots of individual parts.

Look for action at HIAA Show, Convention

The Hobby Industry Association of America's 27th Convention and Trade Show, to be held at Chicago's Sherman House, January 31-February 6, will include a spate of activities for manufacturers, wholesalers and dealers.

The manufacturers will hold their annual section meeting on Friday, January 31, which will include the election of five directors and new officers, says Lee Blyler, chairman of the Manufacturers Section.

I. Austin Kelly, president of the National Employee Relation Institute will speak on "Executive Compensation, Pensions and Profit Sharing Plans." Ernst & Ernst will propose a new approach to HIAA's present statistical reporting program; and David Finn of Ruder & Finn, Inc., HIAA's public relations counsel, will be guest speaker at the annual business meeting.

For the wholesalers, Saturday, February 1, has been designated as Wholesaler's Day, according to Donald G. Dewey, chairman of the Wholesalers Section. Highlight of the day will be the section meeting at 10 a.m. Leslie Nash of Ruder & Finn will unveil a public relations promotion program for the section, and new directors and officers will be elected.

At the noon luncheon, Dr. G. Herbert True will deliver a guest speech, "Ideas Make Wholesalers Great," in the afternoon Bud Semco of Semco, Sweet & Jayers, consulting industrial engineers, Los Angeles, will conduct a seminar on warehouse layout, material handling systems and order filling systems; and in the evening, wholesalers and retailers will combine for a dinner and "New Items" fashion show at which 50 exhibitors will give two-minute demonstrations of new items.

The dealers have a new idea in programming, and, for the first time, their program will not conflict with other convention activities, according to Richard H. Palmer, chairman of the Dealers Section. On Friday, January 31, the directors and executive committee meeting will be held, including all section committee chairmen and representatives of community groups; a number of HIAA division will meet at 1 p.m.; and in the evening, dealers will join other members for the annual business meeting.

Saturday, February 1, will feature a series of dealer clinics: Dr. G. Herbert True will conduct "A 'True' Brass Tacks Selling Seminar;" a panel discussion, with six manufacturers representatives participating, on "How A Rep Can Assist the Hobby Retailer;" a working session led by The Association of Twin Cities Retailers on cooperative TV; and several retailers presenting case histories and demonstrations on slot car racing. In the evening, dealers will join wholesalers for the dinner and "New Items" fashion show.

Sunday is the beginning of the Trade Show, with a Dealers Hospitality Party in the evening. The Pre-Paid Trip Ticket Plan for the six days and five nights of the Convention has insured the attendance of more dealers than ever before.

Hobby Queen for HIAA show

MICHELLE SARSFIELD

Miss Michelle Sarsfield, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Sarsfield, hobby jobbers, Inc., 999 Lawrence St., Denver, has been named "Miss Hobby Queen" for the Hobby Industry Association of America's 27th Convention and Trade Show, to be held in Chicago, January 31-February 6, 1964. A veteran of 15 HIAA shows in her 16 years, Michelle will be in the spotlight from her introduction to the industry at the Annual Business Meeting on Friday, January 31 to her final appearance at the annual banquet on Tuesday, February 3.

HIAA to initiate "Gold Star" program at show

A "Gold Star" program will go into effect for the first time at the 27th Convention and Trade Show, February 2-6, 1964 at Chicago's Sherman House, according to Carl J. Maxwell, Maxwell Model Distributors, chairman of the Hobby Industry Association of America's Convention and Trade Show Committee. A similar program has been requested by HIAA members for several years.

Under the program, all exhibitors receive an agreement form stating that they will introduce no new items, other than those displayed at the show, until after April 15. "It has been the feeling of some wholesalers and retailers," said Maxwell, "that they should not order merchandise during the HIAA Trade Show because of newer items coming out almost immediately after the close of the show. It is our belief that this will help sales by our exhibitors during the show."

To date, 64 firms have signed and will display a gold star on their booths, indicating their promise not to introduce new items before April 15, 1964. Their names will also be starred in the Official HIAA Program Book so prospective buyers will know who signed the agreement.

Nominees to HIAA Board named

A five-man slate has been nominated for election to the Hobby Industry Association of America Board of Directors, announces Carl J. Maxwell of Maxwell Model Distributors, chairman of HIAA's Nominating Committee. The slate will be presented for election to a three-year term at the annual business meeting to be held on Friday, January 31 during HIAA's 27th Convention and Trade Show in Chicago.

Three of the five men are up for re-election. They are Lee L. Blyler, Ambroid Co., Lewis H. Glaser, Revell, Inc.; and Milton K. Grey, Milt Grey Sales. Glaser, now HIAA president, and Grey are ending their second terms. Blyler, named as a replacement to finish the unexpired term of Alan Ginsburg, has served one year.

The other two nominees are John A. Bacon, AMT Corp., and Prem Gary, International Balsa Corp. Bacon and Gary will fill the vacancies left by Albert H. Redles, Bachmann Bros., and A. Earl Smith, Paul K. Guillow, who will not run again when their present terms expire this year.

Other HIAA members serving with Maxwell on the Nominating Committee were A. G. Davis, National Model Distributors; Edward Kapitaniak, Western Model Distributors; Richard Mates, Hawk Model Co.; Matthew Sullivan, Sullivan Products; and L. S. Wetzel, Renwal Products.

Meritorious Awards to be presented at HIAA Convention

Winners of the Hobby Industry Association of America's first Meritorious Awards, one of the industry's highest awards, will be announced and honored during the annual banquet at the 27th Convention and Trade Show, February 2-6, 1964 at the Sherman House, Chicago, according to Harold F. Auler, H. F. Auler Co., chairman of HIAA's Meritorious Award Selection Committee. Winners have been selected for having done something, beyond the line of duty, to further the progress, aims and ideals of the hobby industry.

"We want this award to be the highlight of this year's convention in Chicago, and it is our feeling that the candidates chosen are very deserving," said Auler. "We feel that the recipients of the award are long overdue in being recognized by the industry to which they have contributed so much."

Members of the committee headed by Auler are Jack M. Besser, Monogram Models; Edward Kapitaniak, Western Model Distributors; Carl J. Maxwell, Maxwell Model Distributors; and Charles D. Miller, The Testor Corp.

Eldon sponsors real racing auto

In another step to identify its miniature road racing program with the realism and excitement of big car racing, Eldon Industries, Inc., Hawthorne Calif. has sponsored the running of the "Eldon Special" during Nassau Speed Week which was scheduled to be held at Nassau, the Bahamas, December 1-8. Eldon had previously announced the purchase of exclusive television rights to films of four top racing events in 1964.

The "Eldon Special," to be driven by international racer Dan Gurney, is a Lotus 19B, a one-of-a-kind sports car. It has a powerful 345 horsepower Ford Fairlane engine similar to the one driven by Gurney at last year's Indianapolis 500.

Aurora promotes movie monsters with contest

Toy and hobby dealers across the country are invited to join Aurora Plastics Corp., West Hempstead, N. Y., Universal Pictures and Famous Monsters of Filmland Magazine in a "Make-A-Monster Contest" that will promote Aurora's series of seven Movie Monsters: Frankenstein, Dracula, The Wolf Man, The Creature, The Phantom of the Opera, The Mummy and The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

Under the contest, to run from February 1 to midnight April 30, contestants under age 21 are asked to customize one of these movie monsters. Judging will be on three levels.

On the local level, individual dealers will judge entries by a May 9 deadline. Each store participating in the contest will receive three plaques to award its top three entries. Within a week after this local judging, the dealer must submit to Aurora a color photograph of his winning entry. From these, 48 state winners will be chosen.

Prize for the state winners will be a five-year subscription to Famous Monsters of Filmland Magazine, appearance of his or her picture in an issue of the magazine to be devoted to the contest and a complete collection of Aurora Movie Monster model kits, including all future ones to be developed.

The state winners will then compete for the grand prize in the contest by creating an original horror movie set from an Aurora kit of customizing materials. Entries must be sent to Aurora by July 4. Judging here will be done by a committee of three: a celebrated horror film producer, a well-known set decorator or make-up artist and a famous artist.

The grand prize will be a trip for two to Hollywood with all expenses paid, a chance to appear in a Hollywood movie, a tour of Universal Pictures' TV and film studios with introductions to well-known Universal personalities and luncheon or dinner in the film company's commissary.

Ladies of HIAA to hear spy

Countess Pulaski, who served for many years as a spy in Russia for the FBI, will address the Ladies of the Hobby Industry Association of America at their luncheon, February 5, 1964, during the association's 27th Convention and Trade Show at Chicago's Sherman House. According to Mrs. Lewis H. Glaser, honorary chairman of the Ladies' Convention Committee, the luncheon will be held in the Gold Room from noon to 4 P.M.

New items, refinements in 1964 line of Daisy B.B. and play guns

New Daisys include 99 Target Special (top) and camouflaged scope mode.

New items and refinements of older models are featured in the 1964 line of spring-air B.B. guns and rifles and play guns by Daisy Manufacturing Co., Rogers, Ark. The seven B.B. rifles retail for \$6.98 to \$15.98, and the nine play guns range from a 13 $\frac{3}{4}$ " cork pop gun for less than 80¢ to a corkball carbine and flying target set for less than \$10.

Heading the B.B. rifle line is a new version of the Model 99 Target Training Special, approved by the National Rifle Association, Jaycees and Boy Scouts, featuring what is said to be the finest sighting system ever mounted on a Daisy B.B. gun. Changes in the Model 1894 "Spittin Image" include a new stock and forearm, mechanical construction, bright plated hammer, trigger, butt plate, loading gate, feed follower and forearm band.

Other rifles include the Model 25 pump gun, with 10 million sold in 50 years; a wood stock sporter model; a carbine saddle gun; a 35" trade-up version of the Daisy Cub gun, and a 500-shot capacity Model 102 Cub. The pistol line has a "Spittin Image" of the famed Colt Peacemaker, a Model 177 target pistol and a new CO₂ 200 semi-automatic CO₂ gas-operated pistol.

Two new military guns are part of Daisy's play gun line. The camouflaged scope and rifle, No. 2960, with a detachable 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ " play scope and realistic military camouflaging, produces a loud report and lots of smoke at the pull of the trigger. The combat rifle No. 198, with military emblems decorating the receiver, also has a loud report and smoke.

Other play guns include a smoke-bang rifle styled after the famous carbine that won the west, a saddle carbine that makes a loud ricochet whine and report and a double barrel shot gun that shoots .50 calibre cork balls.

Catalog sheets and promotion aids for the 1964 line are available from Daisy or from Daisy jobbers.

New plant for Hallman

After only three years in the hobby field, Hallman Products, Los Angeles mosaic kit manufacturer, has been able to progress from a borrowed phone on a borrowed desk to a 40,000-square-foot automated plant, according to president Shelly Flier. The new plant will contain the Hallman-designed "Rock monster," a unique machine with its own built-in electronic quality control system, which speedily sorts to size and packs to exact weights the contoured mosaic rock.

Besides the new plant, Hallman continues operations at its 6,000-square-foot warehouse and its 7,000-square-foot assembly shop in Anaheim, Calif.

Signing the long term lease for the firm's new 40,000-square-foot plant is Shelly Flier, president of Hallman Products. Herbert M. Jacobs, Hallman vice president, watches while Richard Weisman and Alvin Leibsohn of Century Properties stand by.

Sutton Games, new adult game firm, introduces first item

The Sutton Games Corp., to be located at 733 Third ave., New York, has been formed to manufacture and merchandise a new line of adult games, announces president Curtis H. Kaufman. Kaufman enters the game field from a background in teaching, newspaper management and 10 years in the television film industry.

Sutton games will stress imagination and unusual design, with a heavy emphasis on unique packaging, according to Kaufman. He plans to introduce three new games and a point-of-sale merchandising technique at the March Toy Fair.

The first game in the Sutton line, Port-Of-Call, is already on the market. Said to be a game of judgement rather than chance, it has the Pacific Ocean for a playing board, and each player tries to build and operate a profitable merchant fleet. Designed in a multi-color package, the game retails for $5.95.

In his opening remarks, Earle Schultz, president, complimented the sales force on their outstanding performance in 1963.

Kenner sets TV campaign, four new toys for spring

The January-March TV schedule announced by Kenner Products Co., Cincinnati, includes two top-rated network programs and a saturation spot campaign on local stations. The network shows are the weekday segments of Captain Kangaroo, carried by more than 160 CBS stations, where commercials will run for six weeks beginning January 19; and Ruff 'N Reddy, carried by 164 NBC stations on Saturday morning, where commercials are scheduled to run January 11-March 28. Both programs will feature Kenner's entire line of Give-A-Show projectors, Presto and Sparkle Paints and Gobs of Fun.

At the same time, Kenner will introduce four new types of toys. A three-dimensional viewer, The See-A-Show Stereo Viewer, will come in three sets, to retail at $1 each. Each set will contain five color stereo shows with a total of 35 scenes featuring popular TV characters such as Dick Tracy, Hector Heathcote, Dennis the Menace, Fury, The Three Stooges, Mr. Ed, Barney Google, Snuffy Smith and Superman. A $2 set will have all 15 shows and 105 scenes from the three $1 sets.

Three new Jet-Shoot games, Jet-Pitch Horseshoes, Jet-Push Shuffleboard and Jet-Shoot Tic Tac Toe, will retail at $1, and the Jet-Putt Golf game will go for $2. All four feature a Press 'n Play Shooter that swivels for aiming and, when pressed, emits a jet stream of air to propel balls, pellets or discs into scoring position.

In the '64 spring line Kenner will also introduce its Dolly's First Playthings—Dolly Nursery Birds and Dolly Nursery Butterflies, for doll cribs and doll carriages, both to retail at $1.29. These are miniature version of Kenner's infant mobiles, Baby's First Playthings.

The last new item in the line is Kenner's Car Plane, a toy airplane that is attached on the outside of a closed automobile window. The propeller turns with the flow of air, while the child controls the plane from inside the car, making it climb and descend and "fire" machine guns with sound effects. Controls for the plane, which list for $3, include a speed indicator and a realistic turn-and-bank indicator.

Coleco moves to share new warehouse with Kestral Corp.

The 120,000-square-foot warehouse, occupied jointly by Coleco Industries, Inc. and its subsidiary, Kestral Corp., makes for better service and faster shipping.

To allow stocking of fast-moving, seasonal merchandise, Coleco Industries, Inc., Hartford, and its subsidiary, Kestral Corp., Springfield, Mass., have recently moved into a consolidated warehouse in Gloversville, N. Y., according to president Leonard Greenberg. The building is 120,000 square feet, complete with rail siding, and will be used jointly by Coleco and Kestral with combination shipments on their own truck fleet.

Coleco has expanded its line to toy products, and Kestral has begun production of its new line of lock-frame, family size swimming pools.

DeLuxe builds marketing team for new Topper Division

With a series of new appointments, De Luxe Reading Corp., Elizabeth, N.J., continues to build a marketing team for its new Topper Toy Division, formed to handle the firm's major move into the conventional toy market. Until now, DeLuxe toys have been sold only in food markets.

A new marketing division has been formed for Topper Toys under the executive direction of vice president Ronald D. Saypol, and the Topper sales division is headed by general sales manager David Cohen who will be in charge of the rest of the sales-administrative organization.

Theodore J. Clyde, former vice president of Tremax Industries, will be in charge of mail order, automotive and other special accounts. George A. Wisun, formerly sales manager of the variety chain division of Ideal Toy Corp. and vice president of sales of Pressman Toy Corp., will handle sales to national variety chains.

A staff of representatives is also being assembled. John Di Carlo, manufacturer's representative in the South for the past 10 years and previously toy buyer for Strawbridge and Clothier, will travel in the southeast territory. Alexander W. Hughes, formerly toy buyer for Goldblatt's in Chicago, Gimbels in Pittsburgh and Strawbridge and Clothier in Philadelphia, will cover Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Jack J. Mason will handle North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, Mississippi and Louisiana. Most recently with A. C. Gilbert in the mid-Atlantic states, he also covered the midwest for six years for Lionel Corp. West Coast representative will be Robert Schanzer, former regional sales manager for A. C. Gilbert.

Warren A. Schmidt, formerly with the L. R. Schmidt Co. rep firm and Structo

Manufacturing Co., will cover upper New York State. And Michael Weisman, formerly Southeast and Midwest representative for Remco Industries, will cover New York City, Baltimore, Washington, D.C. and New Jersey. Appointments in the Midwest and Southwest have not yet been announced.

Liaison between management and the sales department will be handled by sales administrator Jack D. Krellman who was previously with Lionel Corp. for 17 years.

Headquarters for the Topper sales team will be in the division's new showroom at 200 Fifth ave., New York. At the 1964 Toy Fair, Topper will introduce its entire new line of toys which will include 15 to 20 items ranging in retail price from under $2 to about $15. Some of the toys will be heavily promoted starting in April, and over $2 million has already been committed for TV time.

ATTRACTIVE STYLING, "SAFETY" FEATURES IN MTD'S TRICYCLES

Such attractive details as a rugged wish-bone frame with a new cherry flamboyant finish and extensive decal decorations are featured in a new line of deluxe tricycles made by MTD Products, Inc., Cleveland. Each trike also has an extra large step-plate, vacuum chrome trim and a full Safe-Gard front fender with an eye-catching white skirt designed as a safety factor for ankles and feet. Other features of the line include white vanguard handlebar grips with knuckle-defenders and streamers, bout-sized plastic pyramid pedals and padded vinyl saddles with coil springs.

MTD advises dealers that tricycle storage space is cut over 40 per cent by the company's exclusive mounting plate frame construction and that an added mechanical selling feature is the use of a device that secures the fork to the handlebar thus eliminating "play" and "wobble." Also, according to MTD, it is possible to pack the tricycles in smaller cartons, "and more cartons per carload means savings on shipping charges."

All inquiries should be addressed to Warren Thrun, sales manager, consumer products, MTD Products, Inc., 5389 W. 130 Street, P. O. Box 2741, Cleveland 11.

American Character Sets up A New International Division

Two prominent executives join forces: Herb Brock, Fred Gardel

Formation of a new international division by American Character, Inc., New York doll manufacturer, was reported February 10 by Herbert A. Brock, executive vice-president. The company, formerly known as American Doll and Toy Corporation, has set up the new division—American Character International—to represent a line of high-quality European ethnic dolls on an exclusive basis, Mr. Brock said.

The arrangement involves six major European manufacturers in four countries and also provides for reciprocal representation for American Character's merchandise in Europe. "This will give us the widest distribution of any doll line in the world," Mr. Brock claimed. He added that his company is "following in line with President Johnson's announced policy of encouraging American exports. We will be exporting our U.S.-produced items as well as licensing production on certain lines of these companies abroad," Mr. Brock said.

The reciprocal arrangement will be headed by Fred Gardel, longtime doll trade executive who is director of American Character International. He will be stationed permanently in Europe, where the company will maintain offices and showrooms in Paris, France and Milan, Italy. American Character's New York showrooms will also exhibit the import dolls, which include a variety of 100 ethnic items and range in retail price from $2.98 to $54.

Representation for these top-selling doll lines from Europe, says Mr. Brock, makes life much easier for buyers. Now they can see the full line here, and work directly through our international division in ordering shipments from the nearest European port. This will cut an enormous amount of red tape and end up costing the retailer far less than he now spends."

Paul Hagman, American Character executive in New York, will coordinate work of the international division in the United States. The European doll manufacturers include three Italian companies, Furgi, and Ratti and Valenzasca of Arona and Italo of Cremona, Italy; Poppes Bella of Terhignan, France; Casseloid, Leicester, England; and the Rheinische Gummi Werke Und Fabrik company of Mannheim, Germany.

Leader items in the American Character line, which will now be available to these European companies for import or for licensing to manufacturers, will be shown at the three major European toy fairs.

The American Character items produced here, as well as the European import items, are fully protected by international copyrights in Europe and in the United States, Mr. Brock said. He is urging buyers to place their orders for the import items in the spring to assure late-summer and early-fall delivery before the peak selling season.

40,000 SQUARE FEET ADDED TO STELBER'S BROOKLYN PLANT

An additional 40,000 square feet in the Stelber Cycle Corporation's new Plant 2 in Brooklyn will allow a 50 per cent increase in production in 1964, according to Jack Berkowitz, president of the company, headquartered at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The 18-year-old firm, which began its operations in a small store in Brooklyn, now manufactures a complete line of bicycles, tricycles and multi-speed racers.

In recent months, Stelber's production facilities have been almost completely redesigned to minimize materials handling and to accommodate automated procedures that allow Stelber to produce more than 700 cycle frames an hour.

Announcement has been made of the move of Lines Bros., Inc., the U.S. sales division of Lines Bros., Ltd., London, into larger quarters at 1107 Broadway, New York City, and of the appointment of Joseph Mariamson as vice-president-sales in the United States for the firm's complete range of products.

According to the announcement, the move was necessary to accommodate the handling of "greatly expanded sales" and the need for additional showroom space. Lines Bros., Inc., distributes Tri-Ang Scalextric Miniature Electric Motor Racing Sets; Mink, Spot-on and Tri-Ang toy and hobby items; and Pedigree, Swan and Thistle baby carriages in the U.S.

Mr. Mariamson was formerly general sales manager for Lines Bros., Inc., and before that was with the Lionel Corporation for more than 30 years. He will work out of the new quarters at 1107 Broadway.

Amsco's Alpha-1 Ballistic Missile Tested for TV at Cape Kennedy

The Alpha-1 Ballistic Missile, a new $4 retailer from Amsco Industries, underwent a dramatic test recently when it was sent aloft and filmed in color, for a TV commercial, at Cape Kennedy, within sight of the Atlantic Missile Range.

Traveling to Florida for the filming were marketing director James R. Becker, sales and sales promotion manager Stan Harfenist, and ad agency account man Carl Bristel. In their troupe were 15 production staff members—directors, cameramen, prop men, a script girl, and actors.

After waiting several hours for the sun to burn away a slight mist, the crew began shooting. The Alpha-1 "launch" was a success and drew the admiration of the Mayor of Cape Kennedy, Richard R. Thurm, who dictated an official letter which read: "Amsco Industries, Inc., test-demonstrated its toy Ballistic Missile Alpha-1 at Cape Kennedy today. Authorization is hereby given by me, as Mayor of this city, for the release of photographs and statements in connection with the advertising program of this product."

Following the filming of the commercial, to be shown this fall, the Amsco executives and crew moved their equipment to Patrick Air Force Base where a giant Air Force missile was photographed as a realistic background for the toy.

The Alpha-1, #1850, made of high-impact plastic, is propelled 100 or more feet into the air by a non-toxic, non-explosive chemical fuel. Box size on the item is 12½" by 7½" by 3½". Six Alpha-1's are packed per 8-pound master carton.

WALLACH ASSOCIATES SHOWING AMERICAN TREE & WREATH LINE

The American Tree & Wreath Corporation, a division of American Technical Machinery Company, is presenting this year Scotch Pine Christmas trees in both wrapped and stick-in branches. During a recent interview, sales representative Leo Wallach stated that many buyers will attest to the fact that this type was their best-selling Christmas tree in 1963.

These Scotch Pine trees are exceptionally natural in appearance and are said to be absolutely flame-proof. Another important feature is the fact that they can be stored away for many years of future use. Three plants are now engaged in manufacturing these trees in varying sizes, Mr. Wallach said, in addition to a full promotional line of vinyl, balsam and aluminum trees.

American Tree & Wreath also manufactures an extensive line of promotional wreaths which come trimmed and untrimmed. The five-foot Garland was said to have been an exceptional seller during the past year.

Substantially-increased production facilities for 1964 assure prompt delivery of all accepted orders, Mr. Wallach added. Wallach Associates extend a cordial invitation to visit their attractive display in room 1163 in the Fifth Avenue Building, and also at the Hotel New Yorker, room 1494, where a special Toy Fair display will be maintained.

RENWAL WILL INTRODUCE 11
NEW HOBBY KITS AT TOY FAIR

Renwal Products, Inc., Old Country Road, Mineola, L. I., N. Y., will offer 11 new hobby kits at the Toy Fair, its president, L. S. Wetzel, has announced. Retailing at from $1 to $9.95, they are described as being "educational-instruction" toys.

Included in the group are a submarine, "The Andrew Jackson," a visible series, sculpture kit, science kit and a Customized Service Truck assembly kit (illustrated here)

The manufacturer claims that "everything works" on the Customized Service Truck, a $3 retailer built to 1/32-scale. Described as being an ideal accessory for realistic auto racing, the truck features front wheels that steer, a hood that opens to show the detailed power plant, a windshield that collapses, a cab roof that comes off to reveal interior details, and a crane that lifts, extends and rotates 360 degrees.

The truck is designed to actually tow a car. It also has a rear train suspension for "rough terrain," a real working winch and supporting jacks that extend and drop, and a fully-detailed chassis. A wide selection of decals and figures of four service men in action positions complete the kit.

Renwal has also announced that it has doubled its 14th floor showroom space at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The showroom next door was leased and the wall broken through.

Complete Product Line to Be Shown by Doughboy at Fair

What is called the "most complete line of products" in its history will be presented at the Toy Fair by the Plastics Division of Doughboy Industries, New Richmond, Wisc., at its sales offices and showrooms (#401, 1107 Broadway, New York City).

Such numbers as wading, splasher and family swimming pools, water toys, play houses and bouncing toy clowns with musical bases will be among those on display.

One of the latest products, a square-shaped pool, features sparkling embossed red and yellow tubes with child-appealing artwork on the bottom. It is 51" across, 10" deep and has a 58-gallon capacity. There is also a vertical wall pool of sparkling diamond-embossed vinyl with two inflatable blue tubes (separated by ribs of vertical inflatable tubes) which reportedly give it greater depth and added vertical rigidity. Many other round, inflatable plastic wading pools also feature drawing and cartoon art work on their bottoms.

For youngsters a little older, Doughboy has splasher pools in a choice of constructions. Engineered for easy assembly, strength and simple maintenance, these have rugged, corrugated steel sidewalls with deep blue enamel-finish telescopic tubular steel rails. The liners are made of heavy-duty blue vinyl and are fastened to the sidewall with complete poly coping. Vertical supports for added strength come with some models. Pool covers and repair kits are also available.

The recently unveiled Flip-N-Fill splasher pool (see PLAYTHINGS, December 1963, page 81) is completely unitized and the embossed vinyl bottom is permanently sealed to a rigid vinyl three-color wall. A vinyl extrusion sealed to the top of the wall protects its edge. It is 6 feet across, 15' deep and holds 265 gallons.

Doughboy is also offering full-drape, wire-wall splasher pools with a heavy-duty vinyl pool liner that completely covers the wire mesh wall. The one-piece wall is said to offer strong support and fast, easy assembly, and the steel connecting rod makes the sidewall "endless." A molded drain fits a standard garden hose connection.

In the rigid-frame line, Doughboy has pools with vinyl liners, wooden seats for children and even a canopy for some models—all available in different sizes. Four complete lines of family swimming pools, the Silverline, Acqualine, Crest-Line, and Royal Riviera come in a wide variety of sizes and offer many exclusive features.

Other items from Doughboy include such inflatable toys as plastic ducks, beavers, a walrus, penguins and fish, and a new swim belt, jet boat and beach and patio mat.

And as a special treat this season, Doughboy is presenting a wild West playhouse made of a strong tubular steel frame covered with vinyl. Patterned after a real sheriff's office, the playhouse features original artwork. There is also a nursery rhyme playhouse decorated with colorful figures.

Rounding out the line is Doughboy's "Bobo" the Clown. One model has a musical base and another, a red squeaker nose.

Raggedy Ann, Andy go to work for Knickerbocker

Musical Raggedy Ann and Andy are checked out by Vincent DeGaetano (left) senior assistant toy buyer for Macy's, New York, as Ed Kaplan, sales manager of Knickerbocker Toy Co., stands by with the items' new package.

Coming down the production line of a new manufacturer this year, to be given a major new feature, dressed perhaps in a new costume and packed in a new box will be one of the oldest staples in the toy industry.

The production line belongs to Knickerbocker Toy Co. and the item is Raggedy Ann.

Last New Year's Day, Knickerbocker officially acquired the exclusive right in perpetuity to manufacture and distribute both Raggedy Ann and Andy, which have been on the American toy scene for a half-century.

There will be some changes made, Knickerbocker president Leo L. White said, but added that the firm has no intention of abandoning the floppy, whimsical air which is the two staples' most distinctive characteristic.

The key change will be the addition of musical versions of both dolls. The line will also be repackaged in multi-color boxes with artwork depicting a typical scene from the Raggedy Ann and Andy books. New costumes may be introduced in the future, it was disclosed.

Knickerbocker will market conventional versions of the dolls in 17", 21", 27" and 33" sizes, and musicals in 17" and 21" numbers. Larger display pieces will also be available.

Knickerbocker will take Raggedy Ann and Andy into foreign markets, among them England, Scotland, Ireland and South Africa. The market in non-English-speaking countries will be tested during the upcoming Nuremberg International Toy Fair at which Knickerbocker will exhibit.

White revealed that the firm is out to build domestic sales to a level never before attained by the dolls. He told TOYS & NOVELTIES that acquisition of the items would result in "a significant broadening of Knickerbocker's staple base."

Created in 1911 by Johnny Gruelle, a political cartoonist, the dolls were first produced commercially by a clothing manufacturer. From 1938 to 1963 the dolls were produced by Georgene Novelties

Own TV show for Milton Bradley

Highlighting Milton Bradley's 1964 ad program, the largest in the company's 104-year history, will be sponsorship of "Shenanigans," a new game show for children which will be shown Saturday mornings 10 to 10:30 on the ABC TV network, beginning September 26. Also included in the year's promotions, according to president James J. Shea, will be the company's largest TV spot program, covering 67 markets, from late October to Christmas, as well as magazine advertising in the spring and fall.

"Milton Bradley's sole sponsorship of its own half hour children's TV network show is a logical expansion step," said Mr. Shea, noting the firm's success in adapting TV show formats such as "Concentration," "The Match Game," "Password" and "The Beverly Hillbillies."

The format of "Shenanigans," to star Stubby Kaye, is a game board brought to life in three dimensions. Each step the child contestants take on the life size board represents a stunt, event, gift, challenge or competition.

Some of the games to be promoted on the show include Time Bomb, a safe action game with a plastic "bomb;" Pow, a game in which boys try to knock down opposing soldiers with cannon balls; Wow, a companion piece in marksmanship for girls; The Kookie Chicks Game in which players maneuver plastic chicks by magnetized sticks; Tussle, On the Ball, Candy Land, Magic Mary; and Boob Tube.

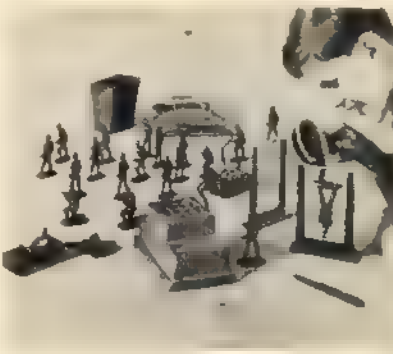

Among the games to be featured in the firm's spot TV program are Stratego, Game of Life, Go to the Head of the Class, Game of the States, Rack-O, Dogfight Broadside, Battle Cry, Easy Money, Password and Concentration. These items will be seen on the "Today Show" with Hugh Downs and the "Steve Allen Show."

The object of the game is to guess the word opponents conceal in a card tray formed by any number up to 12 of the 384 letter cards. Going letter by letter, the players draw from a pack of activity cards in their quest to unearth the word.

Solely-sponsored by Bradley, "Shenanigans" is scheduled in prime Saturday morning time from 10 to 10.30 beginning September 26. Mr. Shea said that the show will be the basis for a Milton Bradley Shenanigans board game and will promote a brand new line of Bradley action games, including Time Bomb, Tussle, Kookie Chicks, Pow and Wow, On the Ball, and the firm's popular Candy Land, Magic Marv, and Boob Tube.

Milton Bradley's sole sponsorship of "Shenanigans" is a logical expansion step," Mr. Shea said, noting that the firm had met success in adapting as games such TV show formats as "Concentration," "Password," "The Match Game," "Beverly Hills Lies," and "You Don't Say."

Starring Stubby Kaye of Guns and Daisies and "Li'l Abner" fame, "Shenanigans" is being produced by Heatter and Quigley, Richard K. Manoff is Bradley's ad agency.

The format of the show is a gameboard brought dramatically to life in three dimensions in a gay carnival-type setting. Each step the child contestants take on the lifesize board represents a stunt, event, gift, challenge or competition. Prizes are Shenanigans, which the kids trade to a Bradley kiosk for Bradley prizes.

Commercials on Bradley's new action game line will be planned as an integral part of the show format and will "project the spirit of exuberant fun" which reportedly characterizes the show.

With the Time Bomb, one player sets the timer in motion and tosses it to a competitor who, in turn, tries to get it out of his hand before it goes "bang." The sturdy, plastic time bomb stays intact and the game is said to be perfectly safe.

Especially for boys is Pow, with toy soldiers set up on each side of a board with a barrier in between in the center. Each player in turn aims a plastic cannon and tries to lob a cannonball over the barrier to knock down opposing soldiers. A companion piece for the girls is Wow, a pillow-fight game in a pajama party setting. Players shoot pillows over the wall to knock down their opponents' pajama-clad team.

The Kookie Chicks Game has players maneuvering wobbling plastic chicks by magnetized sticks which operate under the gameboard. The object is to be first in the scramble to get the eggs in the nest. All of these games retail at 93.

Among the Bradley games being advertised in the TV spot program are Game of Life, Stratego, Go to the Head of the Class, Game of the States, Rack-O, Dogfight, Battleship, Battle City, Easy Money, Password and Concentration.

Magazine advertising will feature Bradley's World Fair items and such staples as Candy Land, Uncle Wiggly, Chutes and Ladders, Park and Shop, Why, Pirate and Traveler, and Video Village.

Bausch & Lomb Enters the Toy Trade with Microscopes

BAUSCH & LOMB, Incorporated, Rochester 2, N. Y., one of the world's foremost manufacturers of ophthalmic and scientific optical and electronic products, has announced the development of three microscope sets and five microscopes aimed at the toy and hobby market. It is the first time the 111-year old concern has entered that field.

The line will be shown at the Toy Fair in the Arcade suite of Bausch & Lomb's Eastern representatives, Lawrence $28, contains an experiment card file and use manual for beginners aged 8-10 who have had no experience in microscopy. These microscopes, like all the others, have achromatic ground and polished glass lenses which produce high quality color-distortion-free images and extremely flat fields, features that up to now have reportedly been found only in more expensive type microscopes. The overpack measures 9½" by 8½" by 17½".

A larger set (#R-8900) uses the same three-dimensional Stereomicroscope and such equipment as: experiment card file and use manual, dissecting needles, forceps, microtome blade, slides, test tubes, an illuminator, specimens of fibers, insects, marine life, rocks, and so forth. This set is priced at a suggested $120.

To withstand possible hard usage, all these new instruments have been subjected to thorough tests and analyses in every design feature. Consequently, all carry the standard Bausch & Lomb quality warranty.

Sales representation has been set for the B&L line in every section of the country. Mr. Schmidt's organization, manned by Charles Zuckerman, Erwin Lewis and Phil Strompf, is responsible for New York, New Jersey, the New England area, Washington, D.C., Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania, Ree Ron Sales, 14-121 Merchandise Mart, Chicago (Jim Ronayne, Albert Schwalge, Robert Jackson, Roland Vereillo, and Miss Lee Salvati)—the entire Midwest south to Missouri; Fred X. Brownstein Associates, 799 S. Highland, Memphis. (Mr. Brownstein, John LeFlore, Walter H. Haase, Joe D. Cash, Edward Hardin, and Alex Sternberger)—the Southeast and Southwest; and Sidney L. Lee Company, Inc., 38 Second Street, San Francisco (Mr. Lee, Jay A. Sponberg, Harold C. Bell, Carl W. Bender and Robert L. Lee)—the 11 Western states, Hawaii and El Paso.

Of interest is the fact that long before the current emphasis on science and space exploration, Bausch & Lomb recognized the need for the encouragement of young science-oriented minds.

In 1931 B&L established the Honorary Science Award, a bronze medal presented annually in over 8,500 high schools throughout the United States. It is awarded at graduation to secondary school students achieving outstanding records in science studies.

In addition, all award winners become eligible to compete for a Bausch & Lomb Science Scholarship at the University of Rochester, where 38 students are right now on campus as a result of this program.

R. Schmidt & Company, Inc., 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Featured in the sets are professional-quality, low-cost microscopes which provide an economical approach to expansion of school science programs for elementary and high school students. Introduced by B&L last October, these instruments were designed on recommendations of leading school authorities and high-level government officials. The objectives were (1) to make economically available an individual microscope for every science student and (2) to make U.S. products more than competitive with foreign products.

All the new microscopes feature simple operation, high image quality, unitized construction and the ability to withstand hard usage. Every component has been designed and manufactured in the United States.

Each of the three sets contains complete equipment and instructions for setting up a home-science laboratory. All come in highly-styled sectionalized styrene and urethane packages in brightly colored and decorative overpacks. Suggested prices range from $28 to $120.

The smallest set (#R-1900) priced at type microscope for children 10 and older, who have some experience in microscopy, and is a more complete micro-science set containing an experiment card file and use manual, slides, specimens, tools for dissecting and specimen preparation. This set is priced at $42. Its package dimensions are 10½" by 8½" by 18½".

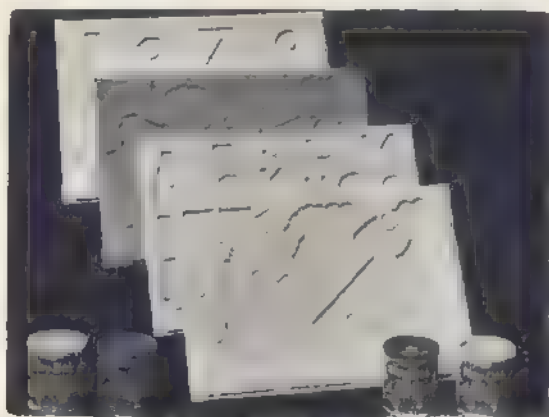

In addition to the beginners' microscopes, which can be purchased apart from the set for $18, there are three others priced at $88, designed for the junior and senior high school students and hobbyists familiar with microscope use. Two of these instruments feature a ZoomScope which permits the students and hobbyist to "zero in" on the most interesting parts of a specimen and quickly zoom to a desired magnification. B&L claims to be the only manufacturer to offer this type of instrument. One model zooms from 25 to 100 times magnification, the other from 50 to 200. The third member of this group is a Stereomicroscope for natural three-dimensional viewing of rocks, biological specimens, coins, stamps, fibers, botanical material, and so on.

Called the ultimate in micro-science kits is a set (#SSM-15) containing a

Two Bausch & Lomb sets, the R-1900 at top ($28) and SSM-15 Stereo ($120).

New Packaging, Color Trays Highlight '64 Play-Doh Line

The 1964 line of Play-Doh Modeling Compound toys will be presented at the Toy Fair in completely new pilfer-proof, fully-visual packages, the manufacturer, Rainbow Crafts, Inc., Cincinnati, reports. All the packages will also feature point-of-sale display panels on the backs of the boxes with family identification of the popular Play-Doh Modeling Compound brand prominently displayed.

Rainbow Crafts also announces that this year a new series, the Play-Doh Coloring Trays (#500), has been added to the line. The company describes the tray as being "a new concept—coloring with Play-Doh Modeling Compound." Each set features four plastic coloring trays—a "Little Red Riding Hood" picture tray, the complete alphabet, numbers 1 to 10, and a "Little Boy Blue" picture tray—and four 2-ounce miniature cans of Play-Doh Modeling Compound. Instructions appear on the display box. Packing is 12 per 13-pound shipper.

The Play-Doh Coloring Trays will be demonstrated at the Fair in the Murray Gilbert showroom (#1005) at the 200 Fifth Avenue Building and in exhibit rooms 1031 and 1032 of the Hotel New Yorker.

According to Rainbow Crafts, early consumer-test reactions indicate quick acceptance of the new packages. The merchandising features in the packaging design are the results of a new department of research and development added to the company this year and headed by Harry Meth. Together with the marketing team, this department readied the Play-Doh line in time for Toy Fair showing.

In addition, Rainbow Crafts has several other new items in consumer-test campaigns and has completed other similar tests on toys to be shown at the Fair. The results of these tests are being adapted for merchandising and promotional plans for the new toy year, the company advises.

Following a successful premium promotion with Procter and Gamble's Gleem toothpaste and miniature cans of Play-Doh Modeling Compound, other promotions with network television exposure will be announced at the Fair.

AMPRO'S ABOVE-GROUND POOL FILTER WITH MULTI-PORT VALVE

Ampro Pool Filters, Inc., Woodside, N. Y., has redesigned its easy maintenance, above-ground pool filter line, which now includes three models with the company's unique new multi-port valve "to take the drudgery out of backwashing." The new "Multi-Custom" filter model (illustrated here) will be presented to the trade at the Toy Fair in room 1503, Hotel New Yorker.

To backwash, all that is now required is an easy turn of the lever to the left—accomplished in a second. Without this improvement, the important backwashing operation is complicated and tedious, claims Ampro. "Hoses have to be reversed and pre-primed—difficult not only for mothers, but for men too."

Ampro's valve is standard on two of four models, which will filter pools up to 24 feet in diameter. Other features in all models include the Anthraflit filtering agent which never requires replacing, and tanks of heavy gauge steel galvanized inside and out. GE motors are used exclusively, as are the guaranteed-for-life, corrosion-resistant "America" pumps manufactured by Ampro.

COX INTRODUCES '64 LINE OF RACE CARS, READY-TO-FLY PLANES

Interest in gas-powered models should be enhanced by the introduction of the 1964 line from L. M. Cox Mfg. Company, Santa Ana, Calif. Cox reports that an attractive group of headline-name models have been added to both the racing car and ready-to-fly plane categories.

The '64 Corvette Sting Ray, a fast-backed Cox .049 engine-powered model said to be "authentic to the dashboard detail," and the '64 Buick Riviera are the offerings in the drag-racing category. And in the ready-to-fly field, Cox has flight-tested models of two famous European fighters—the Supermarine Spitfire, a replica of one of World War II's planes, and an adapted RAF Kittyhawk.

Cox's line continues to include the handsome, award-winning Mercedes Benz and the popular Prop Rod. All the firm's planes are available in regular packs for repeat fliers, or complete with starting and flying accessories for new modelers.

Being included for the first time in Cox's catalog are the Spook-all Plastic Flying Wing Kit, Precision Throttle Control for R/C Fliers and the bubble-packed Bench Test Engine Kit and accessories. The Corvette Sting Ray and Buick Riviera are being shown in a separate four-page car racing brochure along with the Racing Accessory Kit and Custom Blend Fuel for race cars.

Cox consumer advertising on race cars is appearing in the following publications: Car Craft, Rod & Custom, Models, Car Model, Model Car Science and Model Cars Illustrated. Engines and ready-to-fly are being featured in Model Airplane News. Further advertising plans for 1964 are now under discussion, William H. Selzer, vice-president, advises.

AMERICAN TOY BUYS 5 SPORTING GOODS DEPARTMENTS FROM MEAD

American Toy Company, Cranston, R.I., has bought five sporting goods departments from Mead Distributors, in stores in which it also operates toy departments. Lawrence Goldberg, American Toy's vice-president, said that the purchase was the first move in the company's expansion program for 1964.

The departments are in Warwick Shoppers World, Warwick, R.I.; Middleton and Bellingham, Mass.; and in the Coats Field units in Pawtucket, R.I., and Brockton, Mass.

Oval Table Used in Gotham's Unique New Elliptipool Game

Arthur P. Frigo, Jr., the college student who designed the game

Elliptipool, a brand new game described as a combination of billiards and pocket pool and played on an elliptically-shaped pool table, has just been introduced to the trade by the Recreational Equipment Division of Gotham Educational Equipment Company, Inc., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Reportedly the only table that can accommodate the Elliptipool game, Gotham's elliptical table features only one pocket, only nine balls and a cue ball, and a geometric relationship between the pocket and the "elliptidot" that makes for unusual angle and bank shots.

The elliptical table was designed and patented by Arthur P. Frigo, Jr., a senior majoring in science at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., who is now serving also as Gotham's consultant and "champion" player of Elliptipool.

Mr. Frigo says he first got the idea for Elliptipool by listening to a mathematics professor explain an ellipse to the class as "a locus of points, the sum of whose distance from two fixed focal points always remains the same." As interpreted for the game by Mr. Frigo, this meant that there are two points on the elliptical table, and if a ball passes over one of them it must eventually pass over the other point as well, assuming it keeps rolling and rebounds off the elliptical sides. Mr. Frigo put the table's only pocket at one open focal point in the playing area (similar to a golf hole) rather than into the side or corner cushions. As the game is played, every time a ball is hit so that it passes over the one point, or "elliptido," as the inventor calls it, it ends up in the pocket; if it's not hit by another ball or stopped.

The manufactured version of Mr. Frigo's elliptical pool table will be smaller than the standard professional-size pool table made by Gotham for some years. Professionally crafted with the same materials used in all Gotham regulation pool tables, the Elliptipool table has overall dimensions of 52" by 57". It is manufactured under U. S. Patent 3,029,075.

According to Gotham president, Morris Miller, his company decided to manufacture the elliptical pool table because "we have had considerable experience in the educational and recreational field and we feel that Elliptipool offers Americans an exciting new national pastime at a reasonable price, for use in private homes, apartments or clubs."

Mr. Miller said that he will have the elliptical pool table in mass production and on the market within the next few months and that he already has orders coming in to the company headquarters.

Founded in 1925 in New York City by Mr. Miller, Gotham has been manufacturing such diversified products as chalkboard, color cork bulletin boards, aluminum trim table tennis tables and others, including the Gotham pool table. Gotham first started making tennis tables in 1958 and pocket billiard tables in 1961.

With sales representation in every section of the country, Gotham maintains a 54,000-square-foot plant in Marked Tree, Ark., and another factory in Drummondville, Quebec, besides its 30,000-square-foot headquarters at New Rochelle. In 1947 Robert N. Greenfield joined the firm as vice-president and secretary with Mr. Miller, who is also the concern's treasurer.

GRUER TO SHOW LINE AT FAIR

Syna Gruer, owner of Chuck Doll & Toy Company, which began operation in a modern 12,000-square-foot plant January 1 at 102 Wooster Street, New York City, advises that he will show a complete new line at the Toy Fair in room 1154, Hotel New Yorker. Mr. Gruer was formerly a partner of the Chicago Toy & Doll Company for 15 years.

In the American toy industry, there's always room for one more man with an idea. Here's how scientist and engineering instructor Irving Lieberman designed an off-beat new toy and took it to market

The story of Digi-Comp 1

Scientist and engineer confer on details of Digi-Comp's programming information. Scientist Irving Lieberman, co-inventor of the unique item, is at right.

■ A search by industry to develop an educational tool with which to teach children and college-trained engineers about the workings of digital computers eventually led to the formation of the newest company in the toy manufacturing field.

It was nearly six years ago that Irving Lieberman, manager of the digital computer department for a large New Jersey electronics firm and lecturer on digital computers at Columbia University, started work on an aid for teaching digital computers.

He had for many years been hiring engineers right out of college, but was discouraged by their lack of knowledge of the workings of the giant electronic brains.

His research and development led to the formation, less than three years ago, of E. S. R., Inc., a firm which has recently placed on the market Digi-Comp 1, an actual working toy computer and the end result and outgrowth of his and several associates' laborious efforts.

In his item, Lieberman wanted to picture the real feeling and sense of seeing exactly how a digital computer worked, and Digi-Comp 1 does exactly that.

What started as a teaching aid and not a toy is now the basis for E. S. R., Inc. The company, with offices and manufacturing facilities in Montclair, New Jersey, has also developed a spinning top that can be kept in perpetual motion, and a marble-checker game.

From teaching aid to toy, however, was no simple jump. It took almost three years of research, study, experimentation and testing before initial shipments of Digi-Comp 1 finally appeared on store shelves.

Lieberman, whose background includes a B.A. in mathematics from the University of California at Los Angeles, and graduate work in mathematics at Southern California and N.Y.U., and currently a post in the Columbia University School of Engineering, teaching graduate courses in digital computers, is also a working research scientist. His responsibility encompasses research, design and development of advanced special purpose digital computers and digital systems.

After more than 10 attempts at developing the basic concept, Digi-Comp 1 emerged. It satisfied Lieberman's five basic requirements that it be (1) easily illustrative of how a computer works; (2) easy to program; (3) simple in mechanism; (4) economical to produce; and (5) reliable in operation.

A prototype was built. Parts were hand-made or wooden patterns were used for casting. Certain parts were made by short-run injection molds.

At this point, Lieberman wrote a manual for the use of Digi-Comp 1 which was used during tests conducted at the Brooklyn Children's Museum on children chosen at random from the museum floor. The children ranged from eight to 18 years but were mostly in the 10-12 age group. Some changes in the manual resulted following the tests which proved that children could comprehend the toy's principle.

Large and small establishments of all types were used in test-marketing the new item—toy stores, candy stores, department stores and self-service outlets. In addition, the unit was exhibited at various conventions and fairs.

During this period, a national network of manufacturers' representatives was established and active advertising and public relations programs were created.

Initial reaction from the press was excellent. Five stories from nation-wide feature syndicates resulted in stories about Digi-Comp 1 in nearly 2,000 newspapers, and mention was made in Life Magazine. In addition, a consumer publication reviewed and tested the unit and described it as "excellent for child development."

Today E. S. R. has moved into a phase of increased and intensified promotion, leaning heavily on television, as well as maintaining constant research into new products in the toy field.

The scientific approach, upon which the company was founded, will remain the basis for its future growth. Scientist Lieberman will see to that.

YOGI BERRA TO CATCH IN 1964—ON TOY COUNTERS

Yogi Berra, the New York Yankee manager and former all-time catching great, has signed an exclusive arrangement with Ross Products, Inc., New York City, general merchandise importer, for Ross to produce a Yogi Berra Pitching Trainer for youngsters.

The new toy is a 3-foot-high vinyl inflatable crouching catcher made in Berra's likeness—with his familiar number 8 on its back and "Yogi Berra" inscribed on the glove.

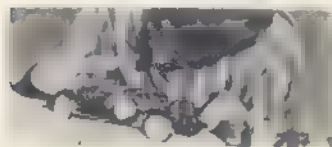

Its purpose is to help youngsters learn how to pitch to the strike zone. In play the child tries to throw the lightweight ball, which comes with the kit, into the pocket of the catcher's glove from varying distances. The toy can be used both indoors and outdoors.

Hyman Ross, the company's board chairman, said the "Pitching Trainer" will be on toy counters nationally in time for the spring training season, and will retail for less than $5. He stated that the toy is easily deflatable for compact storage and can be blown up to full size quickly.

HUBLEY OFFERING NEW CAR KIT FOR MAKING DUESENBERG MODEL

Hubley Mfg. Company, Lancaster, Pa., has just brought out a new kit for making an authentic metal model of the SJ Duesenberg, the famous American car of the early 30's.

Called the SJ Duesenberg Dual Cowl

Platoon, the kit is primarily of die-cast metal with metalized plastic accessory parts. When completed, the Hubley model is 12½" long, superdetailed and scaled from an actual car.

The real Duesenberg car had a 320-horsepower engine, capable of 130 MPH in third gear and 104 MPH in second gear. It could go from a standing start to 100 MPH in 20 seconds.

Dowst Announces Change of Name to Strombecker Corp.

The Dowst Mfg. Company of Chicago, whose Strombecker division pioneered in producing model road racing in America in 1959, will now be known as the Strombecker Corporation, according to Joseph N. Shure, president. Mr. Shure stated that the change reflects the vital role that model road racing will play in the future of the 86-year-old company.

In addition to Strombecker racing sets and accessories, the corporation will manufacture products through three separate divisions: Tootsietoy, Model Road & Raceways, and Dowst Die Casting.

Tootsietoy, the first manufacturer of die-cast metal toys and reportedly the country's oldest national toy advertiser, produces visually-packed and gift-boxed toy sets ranging in price from 10¢ to $5. Tootsietoy electric Table-Top Racing was introduced last year and has become a top contender for the racing dollar at the lower age level, Mr. Shure said.

Model Road & Raceways was purchased by Dowst late last year. Its products, aimed at the growing number of true racing enthusiasts, include such items as custom wheel sets, hubs and speed customizing accessories. The Dowst Die Casting Division manufactures a wide variety of die castings for industry.

According to Milton B. Shure, vice-president-marketing, the Strombecker Corporation will introduce a host of new products in both the Strombecker and Tootsietoy divisions at Toy Fair.

Among the new Strombecker products are a complete line of hobby tools and three new, complete road racing sets—Sports Car Set, $24.95, International Set, $29.95 and the Formula I Set, $39.95. Strombecker has increased its racing stable to 18 cars with the introduction of the Porsche RS 61, Lotus MK XIX, Midget Racer, Dragster, BRM, exciting new Ford GT Competition Car and the now famous Lotus Ford. The Lotus Ford is to be offered in big ½ scale.

New Strombecker trackside accessories include a rheostat control with brake starting flagman; jump track; Le Mans start and overhead lights.

New in the Tootsietoy division are the two complete Electric Train Sets and the new Tootsietoy Super Series. The Electric Train Sets are priced at $11 for the set with transformer, and $5 for the battery-operated set. Both outfits feature an engine, tender, gondola car and caboose—all brilliantly colored and constructed of unbreakable die-cast metal. Also included are telegraph poles, crossing signals and gates.

The Tootsietoy Super Series consists of six vehicles—a tow truck, tractor, dump truck, pick-up truck, U-Haul truck and Indianapolis "500" Racer. All vehicles in the Super Series are "super" size. The dump truck measures 8½" long and the tow truck, complete with windup winch boom and hook, 8½" long. All are constructed of unbreakable die-cast metal and rugged polypropylene—and finished in bright color combinations.

Two new Tootsietoy Table-Top Racing sets have also been introduced for '64 sales—the Serpentine Road Race Set ($20) and the large figure-8 American Road Race Set ($15). Both sets feature the new Ford Falcon race car.

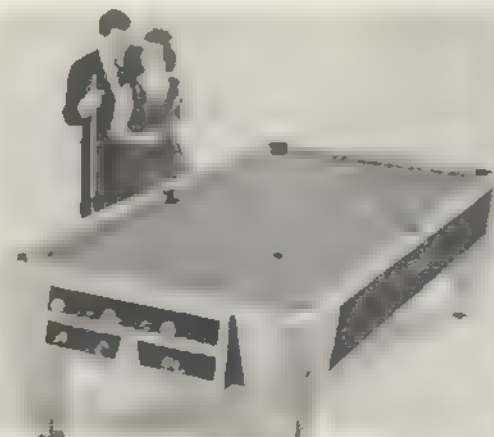

TV-PROMOTED ELECTRO-TOP FROM NORSTAR CORPORATION

The Norstar Corporation has introduced a new electric top in a comprehensive spring promotion campaign. Called Electro-Top, the item features a new concept in spinning toys for pre-teenagers.

The Electro-Top is made of safe, durable plastic and comes in two sections. A portable battery-powered hand shooter automatically spins the top at 5,000 rpm. When the trigger is released, the top spins off on its own with what is claimed to be a longer, better controlled spin than that of ordinary tops.

Colorfully decorated with interchangeable tops, all uniformly fitted to the shooter, the Electro-Top is being released in the metropolitan New York area in conjunction with a complete advertising promotion, including live TV commercials on local stations. The spring promotion is slated to end by April.

Frederick-Willys to Show 18 New Pool Tables at Toy Fair

Anticipating no slackening in the "boom" in family pool tables, Frederick-Willys Company expects to better a record 1963 with a new line of 18 tables, ranging from professional size, professional performance tables down to 30" table-top models. The line will be introduced at the Toy Fair.

Included are significant innovations, both in new models and on existing tables, which, according to Fred Grothe, Frederick-Willys president, should enable the company to substantially increase its 1963 production record of more than 120,000 tables. Typical, Mr. Grothe said, are early inquiries on this year's model of the Jupiter, F-W's popular, promotionally priced table. They indicate, he added, that last year's production schedule of 300 Jupiter tables per day will have to be doubled.

The new "star" in this year's line is the Galaxy (shown above). Available in the 5-foot size, it features a playing surface of "Sla-Tite," a new slate-like material. Comparable to slate in weight, density and playing reaction, it will not break or crack and can be finished to precise dimensions, Mr. Grothe said.

Combined with Frederick-Willys' patented Micromatic bed-leveling system, Sla-Tite provides what the company's designers believe is the finest playing surface available in a home pool table, "comparable to the best professional tables but without their elaborate installation requirements and cost." Micromatic bed-leveling, provided in all F-W tables 72" and longer, enables users to accurately level playing surfaces by means of several convenient adjustment wheels located under the bed.

Styled in a modern spirit, the Galaxy has reverted to the traditional and functional corner legs. Its sidewalls are finished with rich walnut-grain laminate, contrasting with gold-finished legs. Cloths are available in various decorator colors, and the table is equipped with quality accessories. It is designed to retail in the $450-to-$500 range.

At the other end of the home pool table spectrum, Frederick-Willys also expects 1964 to be a boom year for toy pool tables, as children's managers catch the enthusiasm from the adult boom in billiards. F-W's junior line includes tables from 30" to 72" long. Such big-table features as numbered balls, gum rubber cushions, automatic ball-returns, and good grade billiard cloth tops glued to the beds are standard on all Frederick-Willys' toy pool tables.

Other highlights of the new line include

The Mercury III, a substantially improved version of last year's Mercury model, an 8-foot table that will sell in the $300 range.

The Mars III, available in 7- and 8-foot sizes and expected to sell in the $190-$200 area, incorporates an entirely new design feature that Frederick-Willys expects will make this one of the line's leaders in 1964. High-impact molded plastic panels are used on the end frames providing handsome styling and easier access and storage for balls in the end returns.

Saturn III, a brand new model this year that F-W has designed to meet the need for a high quality table selling in the $100 range.

Jupiter III, available in both 7- and 8-foot models and expected to sell at about $70, is said to include quality features not usually found in promotional tables. These include F-W Micromatic bed-leveling system, 100 per cent gum rubber cushions, automatic ball-returns to end storage; individual leg leveling and all accessories. A newly-designed pocket has been developed with positive downward deflection to prevent balls from jumping from the playing surface.

Frederick-Willys will display their 1964 line at the Toy Center during the Fair this year, in addition to their usual display at the Hotel New Yorker. The new display space will be in the office of their New York representatives, Van Canagan & Larabee, room 654, 200 Fifth Avenue. The New Yorker quarters will be in the Empire room of the hotel.

COOPER HALLOWEEN TV PARTIES SCHEDULED FOR 100 KEY MARKETS

Ben Cooper, Inc., 33 Thirty-Fourth Street, Brooklyn 32, N. Y., has announced that its expanded national TV program for 1964 will include full one-hour Halloween parties in 100 key markets during the peak 11. low-cost selling season.

Two parties will be telecast in 15 areas. In addition, Cooper says it will participate in more than 100 major kiddie programs in all sections of the country.

Alfred R. Fischer, sales manager, says that Cooper numbers to be featured on these telecasts are the Magic Glo' line with Glo' in the Dark and Hairy-Scary Masks, Frankenstein Monster Costumes, and the #200 Deluxe line with the company's patented Moving Mouth Mask.

A new brochure, "How to share in the profitable Halloween costume business," is available on request. Mr. Fischer says the booklet gives all important dates, shows various displays, and offers sales tips for the Halloween promotion.

TWO REALISTIC PUSH-TOYS NOW AVAILABLE FROM KUSAN

Two new push-toys, a Steamroller (illustrated here) and a Lawnmower, are now available from Kusan, Inc., 3206 Belmont Blvd., Nashville, Tenn.

A sturdy action toy, the Steamroller has marbles in the roller to make a crunching noise all over the "road," and the smoke-stack turns the roller so that the "operator" can move it in any direction. A $2 retailer, the item is almost 12" long, 8 1/2" high and 6 1/2" wide.

Featuring a red body with contrasting color parts the attractive Lawnmower makes a realistic clicking noise, when the starter cord is pulled, and goes "putt-putt" when pushed. The clear plastic housing lets youngsters see the pistons move up and down and the safe plastic "blade" go round and round. The retail price on this number is about $3.

Dowst now named Strombecker; to show new items

To reflect the vital role that model road racing will play in the future, Dowst Mfg. Co., Chicago, whose Strombecker division pioneered model road racing in America in 1959, has changed its name to Strombecker Corp., according to president Joseph N. Shure.

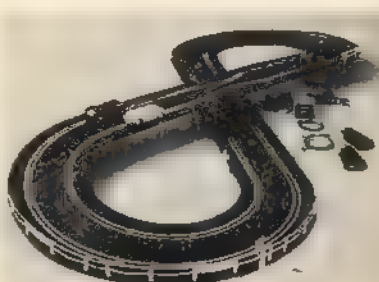

Since 1959, Strombecker and other companies that later entered the field have built road racing into the fastest growing segment of the billion dollar toy and hobby industry, Shure said. Besides its Strombecker racing sets and accessories, the firm will make products through three separate divisions: Tootsietoy, Model Road & Raceways and Dowst Die Casting.

Tootsietoy, the first manufacturer of die-cast metal toys and the country's oldest national toy advertiser, makes visually packed and gift boxed toy sets retailing from 10¢ to $5. Its electric Table-Top Racing, introduced last year, is popular at the lower age level.

Model Road & Raceways was bought by Dowst late last year. It makes items for racing enthusiasts such as custom wheel sets, hubs and speed customizing accessories. Dowst Die Casting makes a wide variety of die castings for industry.

Strombecker will introduce a group of new products in its Strombecker and Tootsietoy divisions at Toy Fair, according to Myron B. Shure, vice president of marketing.

New Strombecker items include a complete line of Hobby Tools and three complete road racing sets—Sports Car Set, International Set and Formula I Set, retailing for $24.95, $29.95 and $39.95, respectively. The series of racing cars now numbers 18 with the introduction of Porsche RS 61, Lotus MK XIX, Midget

The Tootsietoy Super Series has six "super" size vehicles: Tow truck, tractor, dump truck, pick-up truck, U-Haul truck and Indianapolis "500" Racer. The dump truck is 8 3/4" long, and the tow truck, complete with windup winch boom and hook, is 8 1/2" long. All are made of die-cast metal and polypropylene. The division also has two new Table-Top Racing sets, the Serpentine Road Race Set at $20 and the large figure-8 American Road Race Set at $15. Both sets feature the new Ford Falcon racing car.

Ideal's "Peter Potamus Show" Making Nat'l Debut Sept. 14

Yippee, Yappee and Yahooey, featured players on the new Ideal show, smaltize Three Musketeers in protecting the monarch [right].

Television will be treated to a new cast of cartoon characters this fall when the Ideal Toy Corporation's "Peter Potamus Show" makes its nationwide debut the week of September 14.

The star of the show is Peter Potamus, cartoonland's only purple hippopotamus, who flies through time and space in a striped balloon. With his travelling companion, So So the monkey, Peter finds himself the company of the great outlaws and heroes of yesterday, today and tomorrow.

In addition to Peter, the show will also feature five other cartoon characters who will spark their own individual segments. They are:

Breely, the fast-talking, quick-stalking polar bear and his side kick, Sneerly, an equally sickle snail. These characters make their home outside of an Army post in Alaska and are constantly finding themselves in hot water with Uncle Sam as they try to outsmart the soldiers with their ingenious schemes.

Yippee, Yappee and Yahooey are three dogs who try—but never quite succeed—to make like the Three Musketeers when they are assigned to protect the monarch of an old, mythical kingdom. Stumbling hand-over-foot over both themselves and each other, Yippee, Yappee and Yahooey get into, and somehow manage to get out of, impossible situations as they valiantly strive to keep danger away from the castle.

Abe Kent, Ideal vice-president, noted that the show, his company's second half-hour cartoon offering this year, will run on all of the 151 stations that now carry "The Magilla Gorilla Show." "These stations," he said, "comprise what we call a 'spotwork.' We have bought each of the markets individually so as to be certain of getting the top children's station, as well as the top time slot in each city. The 151 cities," he added, "account for approximately 97.6% of the buying power in the country."

To assure Peter Potamus the same pre-promotion push as was given Ideal's "Magilla Gorilla Show," the company will again send out its field teams to visit with many of the station managers and promotion directors of the "spotwork" stations.

"In addition to this," Mr. Kent explained, "we are also running a station promotion contest, an event which proved enormously successful earlier this year when we launched Magilla Gorilla." Cash prizes will be awarded to the stations that execute the most imaginative promotion campaigns.

"The Peter Potamus Show" was created by Hanna-Barbera Productions of Hollywood, who conceived such other famous cartoon stars as Yogi Bear, The Flintstones and Magilla.

DeLuxe Reading aims at $20 million sales for new Topper line

THE JOHNNY SEVEN O.M.A.

With a brand new line and a new packaging concept for its new Topper Toys Division, DeLuxe Reading Corp., Elizabeth, N.J., aims at a $20 million volume for the first year, according to president Henry Orenstein. The Topper line has a wide assortment of toys for both boys and girls.

The World of Penny Brite introduces an 8" doll with bending arms and legs for realistic play. Packed in a plastic wardrobe carry case, Penny has rooted hair and a pleated, embroidered dress. Penny's world consists of five individually boxed play sets, complete with wardrobe and accessories, all scaled to her 8" size.

The five sets are Penny Brite's Schoolroom, Kitchen-Dinette, Bedroom, Beauty Parlor and Travel Set with Sports Car. Each set has a co-ordinated group of toys with working parts and functional accessories and an extra outfit of clothing. Six additional outfits with accessories are available separately.

The new Topper doll line also has Baby Brite consisting of the doll, her bed, bath-mette, feeding chair and accessories. Standing 13½" tall, Baby Brite is activated by two buttons. One button raises her arms when she wants to be picked up, and the other rolls her head sideways and closes her eyes for sleep.

For boys, the Topper line has nine toys centering around the fictional character Johnny Seven.

The Johnny Seven O.M.A. (One Man Army Gun) is seven guns in one: a grenade thrower, anti-tank rocket launcher, armor-piercing shell gun, anti-bunker missile pad, repeating rifle, tommy gun and automatic pistol. The three-foot gun operates without batteries and with plastic ammunition.

The Johnny Seven Walkie-Talkie Combat Phone Set works up to one mile apart without batteries. The set has two plastic phone units with retractable antennas and 30 feet of wire. The Johnny Seven Micro-helmet Phone Set combines the Walkie-Talkie set with a high-impact plastic helmet. The helmet has a microphone-receiver mounted on a yoke-type boom, adjustable tinted goggles and chin strap.

A Johnny Seven Combat Set combines the O.M.A. gun and the Walkie-Talkie set, adjustable binoculars, a safe jungle knife and 16 pieces of extra ammunition.

The Johnny Seven Speed Set, with sports car, boat trailer and speedboat, is the only Topper item to require batteries. The motorized car is powered by two "D" size batteries. The speedboat is driven by an elastic motor-gear train.

Supplementing the toys in the new Topper line, aimed at the conventional toy market, are several items from DeLuxe's supermarket lines: Playmobile, Battlewagon, Mighty Mo Cannon, Guerilla Fighter, Dream Kitchen, Dream House, Tickles Doll, Cuddly Cathy Doll Set, Sally Server Set and Little Miss Fashion Doll Outfit.

Packaging for the new Topper line, like that of DeLuxe's supermarket line, will be done with individual three-dimensional see-through gift packages, with one full side a transparent window.

To promote the new Topper line, DeLuxe has set aside $2 million for a heavy network and spot TV schedule to begin in April.

Leslie Berger, president of Cardinal Industries, Inc., 175 Powers Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., advises that his firm has undergone "the greatest expansion and repackaging program" in its 18-year history.

According to Mr. Berger, the company's complete staple game line—chess, checkers, bingo, Chinese checkers, roulette, dominoes and so forth—have been completely redesigned by a well-known artist with "an eye for impulse buying" and have been repackaged in new, plastic-covered, clear-view boxes.

Two new games are also being introduced by Cardinal, Mr. Berger said. One of them is Simon Says, a TV game being put on the market this year with the endorsement of Sonny Fox, the popular personality who plays the game on television 52 weeks a year. The other is Pokero Dice Game which is played with new-style poker dice and a scoring board. It is expected to enjoy quick consumer demand.

Cardinal's complete line, which also includes Mah Jongg, Toss-Word, Strike-Bowling Game and others, will be on display during the Fair at the company's showrooms in the 200 Fifth Avenue Building (room 221) and in room 1565, Hotel New Yorker.

Mani-Yacks are brilliant three-color "hot melt" transfers which may be easily applied with an ordinary household iron onto a T-shirt, sweatshirt, jacket and so forth. The resultant decoration is said to be completely washable. The transfers are placed face down on the garment to be decorated, and the heat and pressure are applied with the iron set at the temperature required for the material being marked.

Kaumagraph's Mani-Yacks are Hot Rod Harry, Side Car Charlie, Loco Lil, Johnny Jet, Dangerous Dan and Stanley Steamer. Other transfer items are now in the development stage, the firm advises.

Negotiations have been completed for $1 million in new financing by Merit Associates, Inc., Lindenhurst, N.Y., manufacturer of swimming pools and pool, table tennis and utility tables, according to president Robert Bedick. Merit had previously received $446,000 in new financing in May, 1963.

This loan replaces financing from another credit source at a much higher rate of interest. The remaining $440,000 will be supplied by Bankers Trust Co. at the favorable terms of 5 1/4 percent.

"The new financing enhances our competitive position, profit potential and growth prospects considerably," said Mr. Bedick. Report on value of wholesaling

The wholesale industry will be the subject of a long-awaited statistical study, "Value Added by Wholesaling," to be undertaken in 1964, according to Paul L. Courtney, executive vice president of the National Association of Wholesalers. The study on the contribution of wholesale-distributors to our national economy and well being will be done by the U.S. Bureau of Census which has completed plans to collect and publish statistics gotten from a canvassing of 9,000 firms.

"The wholesale industry has long believed," said Courtney, "that 'Value Added by Wholesaling' will be a useful tool in developing a more widespread public understanding and appreciation of the economic contribution of this industry to the general well being of the nation. The vast network of warehouses, the extensive inventories now valued at $14 billion, the hundreds of thousands of wholesale salesmen, purchasing agents, warehousemen, truck drivers and office workers, gainfully employed in the wholesale industry, render an indispensable service to the nation's manufacturers, retailers and business-users."

infants' and children's wear will be in the New York stores soon. Madame Alexander's showrooms for this line will be at 112 W. 34 Street, New York City, under the name of Madame Alexander Tots, Inc., separate from her doll showrooms, which remain in the arcade at 200 Fifth Avenue.

Madame Alexander states that her entry into the infants' and children's wear field was prompted by the many letters to her which asked, in effect: "Why can't children look like your dolls?"

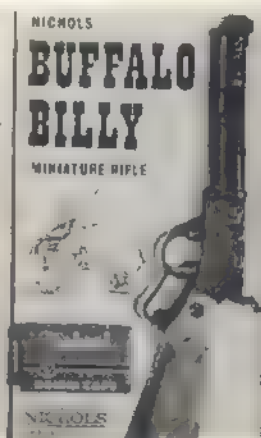

The result is Madame Alex under-designed clothes for "midges," petti-tots, and toddlers. These will be sold along with the lady's world-renowned dolls at F.A.O. Schwarz. In addition, Madame Alexander has designed a series of doll costumes corresponding in styling and appearance to the infants' and children's apparel.

Nichols' '63 Sales Up Nearly 50%; Firm Adds 3 New Guns to Line

Nichols Industries, Jacksonville, Tex., manufacturers of Western, detective and military guns and rifles, holster sets and related novelties and miniatures, has completed the year 1963 with a 46.7 per cent increase in sales. Crawford Godfrey, president, recently announced. The announcement also said that for 1964 Nichols is projecting a 25 per cent increase over 1963.

The firm has also introduced three new guns, the Combat Carbine (#222) a $1.98 retailer, and Buffalo Billy (#104) and Luger (#58) both retailing at 79¢.

A camouflaged olive-drab rifle mounted on an attractive display card, the 26" Combat Carbine is a 250-shot repeater that features a rapid-fire lever and trigger action. Realistically-styled after the famous rifles of the late 1880's, Buffalo Billy is an 8" cap-firing miniature, skin-packed with caps on a handsome display card. The Luger, patterned after the German and Italian firearms, is a 50-shot repeater more than 10" long.

The items will be on display during the Toy Fair in room 306 at 200 Fifth Avenue and room 522, Hotel New Yorker. Nichols says that new packaging for the latest merchandise and staple items, plus a newly-designed line of holster sets, have the firm looking forward to a busy year.

Commenting on the increase in sales last year, Bob Koslow, sales manager, said, "Naturally it was gratifying to have such a wonderful reception from retailers and consumers to our 1963 line. We showed increases up and down the line. The hottest items included the Nichols Olive Drab Tommy Gun and the Army 45, but while we must concede that the military-type gun business was helpful, this alone was not the big factor."

Predicting that the trend in 1964 will be back to staples, Mr. Koslow said that "The merchandise that is capable of selling year 'round with a fast turnover and relatively low price has again come into its own. The entire Nichols line benefited from increased consumer acceptance of our staple merchandise."

Toy Fair Debut for Structo's Kom-Pak Line

Structo, a toy maker of heavy-gauge steel toys, is introducing at the Toy Fair a completely new Kom-Pak Line of seven trucks, realistically detailed, highly styled and with special operational features for extra play interest. W. A. Wenner, president of Structo Manufacturing Company, has announced. Structo also is featuring a series of deluxe heavy-gauge steel Army trucks with exciting new operational features and other deluxe new specialty trucks.

"In line with Structo's realistic pricing policies, our 1964 compacts offer exceptional values for an economy line," Mr. Wenner said. "All of the seven Structo Kom-Pak Line numbers are newly styled to conform with the modern trend in compact vehicles and are solidly built of heavy-gauge steel. Genuine rubber tires, windshields, side and rear windows, seats and steering wheels provide distinctive realism. Special operational features such as tailgates that raise and lower, vista domes that are removable and dumping mechanisms give significant extra play values, comparable with the highly realistic operational features of Structo's regular size truck lines."

Each of the Kom-Pak heavy gauge steel trucks will be shipped in see-through window packages. Expected to retail at from around $1.39 to around $1.89, the Kom-Pak numbers will include a pickup truck, a fire rescue truck and a wrecker truck with a boom that actually works. A Vista Dome Army Truck, whose dome lifts off and a Vista Dome Livestock Truck with the vista dome also removable are also included. A new automatic dump truck in the Kom-Pak Line has a lever which dumps the body automatically. Another unusual compact truck in the Structo line is the Vista Dome Kennel Truck. The lift off kennel has a removable vista dome top. There are six dog houses and six plastic dogs—all moveable.

New in the military-oriented category is Structo's U.S. Missile Launcher, a large heavy-gauge steel truck which transports a silver launcher with three rocket tubes. The launcher platform rotates 360 degrees and also raises and lowers. The control knob is used for timing. Missiles are soft-rubber-tipped and are launched by pressing buttons 1, 2, or 3. The launcher has adjustable outrigger stabilizers on the rear of the truck to prevent units from tipping when firing.

A Deluxe Vista Dome Troop carrier includes a heavy-gauge steel truck with a removable clear plastic vista dome top and eight plastic soldiers in combat positions. Realistic features include side windows and a tailgate that raises and lowers.

A new UK Combat Set will include the Vista Dome Troop Carrier, the U.S. Army Missile Launcher and a Searchlight Trailer with a massive searchlight that actually operates. Rotating 360 degrees, it also elevates and lowers. There is an on-off switch and outrigger stabilizers, and a simulated but realistic-appealing plastic generator engine.

A new Structo Army Engineering Dump Truck and Sand Loader Set includes four soldiers in varied combat positions. The lever dumps the truck easily and locks in dump position. The truck has a cab-over-engine, a chrome-plated wrap-around bumper, as well as a seat, steering wheel and windshield. The loader attaches to the truck; a turn of the crank loads sand. The lever also raises the loader scoop for cross-country hauling.

Another ingenious addition to Structo's deluxe line is the Vista Dome Horse Van. This includes two chestnut horses and two palamnos. The big van trailer has a large clear plastic vista dome, a window at the center top, a window in front and two slide ramps and a rear loading ramp to provide extra realism. Divider stanchions separate the horses when traveling. Made of heavy-gauge steel, the truck has a large chrome-plated wrap-around bumper. The modern cab has a seat, steering wheel and a windshield.

Structo is making available to retailers a showcase display package for heavy-gauge steel, the truck has a large chrome-Highway Builder Set and U.S. Army Combat Unit will be available in these displays. To make sure that the weight of the heavy gauge steel does not affect the shape of the carton, each heavy gauge steel unit will be wired to the container. The display boxes will be dramatically decorated to encourage impulse buying. Each display box will have a transparent panel on top to assure illumination of the merchandise inside the package.

BALCRUM'S SUM STICK TOY CAN TEACH KIDS ARITHMETIC

An instructive new toy that can also serve as an educational aid for teaching kids addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, is being manufactured by Balcrum Products, P. O. Box 838, Palo Alto, Calif.

Called Sum Stick, the device consists of a stick and triangular fulcrum block, attractively molded in bright red plastic, and small precision-tooled brass weights. The balanced stick has holes sealed from zero to 10 in both directions from the center of gravity.

Here's how Sum Stick works. An addition example would be to place weights in the 5 and 2 holes and balance with a weight in the 7 hole—thus 5 plus 2 equals 7. For subtraction put a weight on perhaps 6. On the other side put a weight on 4 and say "Six take away four equals . . ." The answer is manifested visually by Sum Stick's response to the placement of a weight on 2. In multiplication, for example, having three weights nested and stacked in the 2 hole balances one in the 6—or 3 times 2 equals 6.

Balcrum says that Sum Stick not only provides an interesting environment for the discovery of simple number relationships, but also for advanced multiplication and division combinations which should make the toy fun for adults too.

The item includes a 3" plastic ball and a "never-miss" polyethylene baseball glove with a hand strap that has 19 assorted size suction cups, any of which can catch the ball. Transogram says that because of the glove's "magic stickum action," the ball will be caught easily as long as it touches any part of the mitt.

cillo, Lee Salvati, Bob Jackson, Jim Ronayne and Al Schwalge.

President T. W. Smith, Jr., of Sun Rubber Company, Barberton, Ohio, sees 1964 as "another big year" for his company, manufacturers of squeeze toys, character dolls, playballs and athletic balls for almost 40 years.

Sun will be at the Toy Fair this year with new all-vinyl toys, dolls and balls and with new packaging. Character dolls and toys, Mr. Smith asserted, are coming off Sun's production lines to fill a flood of early season orders. They're all made by the concern's patented rotational casting process which Mr. Smith says gives each item life-like qualities and an appearance that is "difficult to achieve by ordinary processes."

Ball orders are also running ahead of a comparative period for last year, Mr. Smith indicated.

Sun enters 1964 with nationwide sales coverage provided by six factory representative sales organizations.

Latest to be added is Ree Ron Sales, Inc., organized in 1949 and now one of the Midwest's best-known sales groups. Ree Ron has display rooms at 14-121 Merchandise Mart. Jim Ronayne, head of Ree Ron, says he is "tremendously enthused" over Sun's products and its plans for the future. His firm, working out of the Chicago office, will cover Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin for Sun. Mr. Ronayne, for 13 years with Dryden Rubber Company and later with the Toy Division of Seiberling Latex Products, will handle Milwaukee and part of Chicago; Al Schwalge, who joined Ree Ron in 1954 after 18 years with Butler Bros., will cover Ohio, eastern Indiana and part of Chicago; Bob Jackson, formerly with Smith-Corona and Marchant, will travel western Indiana, northern Illinois, eastern Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Chicago.

Roland Veracillo, who joined Ree Ron from Spiegel's and Sears, Roebuck, will call on the trade in southern Illinois, Detroit and Chicago. Sections of Wisconsin, Illinois and part of Chicago will be handled by a fifth Ree Ron representative. The organization's office and sales liaison for Sun Rubber will be directed by Miss Lee Salvati.

Lawrence R. Schmidt and Company, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, represents Sun in Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Washington, D. C.

In the South and Southwest, Fred X. Brownstein Associates, Inc., are handling Sun's toys, character dolls, playballs and athletic balls. States covered are Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

Shaefer-Lussier Associates of Hopkins, Minn., represents Sun in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Phillip A. TOY INDUSTRY NEWS

Tonka line features "Mighty," Mini-Tonkas, military vehicles

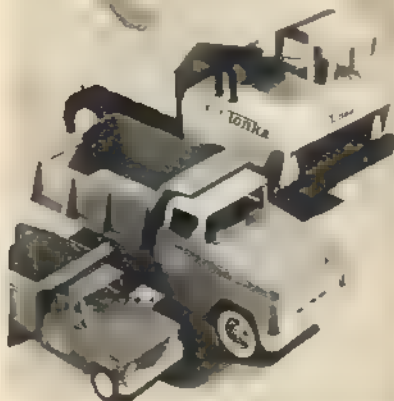

The story of Tonka Toys' 1964 line, making its bow at Toy Fair, can be summed up in three big "Ms"—Mighty, Mini and Military. The new line is to be highlighted by "Mighty-Tonka," a king-sized dump truck, a doubling of last year's "Mini-Tonka" line and a parade of military vehicles.

Standing nearly 10 inches high, the giant dump truck has jumbo-sized rubber tires, "Celcon" wheel bearings said to provide dependable service under extra-heavy loads and a fully "glassed" control-tower type driver's cab.

Among the new Mini-Tonka items are three semi-trailer units, a grader, a mixer, a contractor and a special "3-Pak" that includes a pick-up, a stake truck and a wrecker. Like the Mound, Minn. firm's regular line, all Mini toys are built of automotive weight steel and have real rubber tires.

Company spokesman point out that Tonka Toys' regular line will now feature enough military vehicles to stock a motor pool as a result of the 1964 emphasis on sales-proven "Jeep" items. A "Jeep" Commander command car with "canvas" top and auxiliary gas cans mounted by the spare wheel, as well as a Troop Carrier equipped with a top of durable plastic and side bench seats in the body, head the new military line.

Other highlights among the 18 new toys and sets being introduced by Tonka Toys are a shovel that operates like the big power shovels and a "Jeep" Wrecker that comes with heavy duty winch, simulated flasher lights and white sidewall tires.

AMF introduces new line of playground equipment

A new line of back yard play equipment, featuring original and dramatic designs, has been added to American Machine & Foundry Co.'s line of wheel goods and bicycles. Company spokesmen point out that this is another step in AMF's announced policy of diversification and broadening the scope of their distribution.

Heading the new array of playground equipment is the "Dome Climber," designed by the famous architect and engineer, R. Buckminster Fuller. Following a mathematically precise geodesic design, the dome is said to have its weight equally distributed over the entire surface. The dome measures 96" in diameter and 51" in height, yet can be packed in a carton that measures 31½" x 11½" x 4¾".

Also prominent in the new line are two tubular steel orbiters. The hand pumping merry-go-rounds are built for either two or four children and are colored red and blue.

Rounding out the new AMF playground items are "Junior" and "Giant" rockers. A two seater and five seater, respectively. Both rockers are decorated in red, green and white.

The complete line, to be known as AMFum, will be on display for buyers in room 814, Fifth Avenue Building, New York, during Toy Fair.

AMF PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT

Lego to show at two fairs

The Lego System by Samsonite will show its complete line of creative toys at the American Toy Fair for the first time this year. Highlight of the Lego exhibit, at the fourth floor Washington Room in the Hotel New Yorker, will be a colorful replica of the special Lego play area to be featured in the Danish Pavilion's Tivoli Garden at the New York World's Fair.

In the supervised play area, children will use the bright plastic Lego blocks to create all kinds of objects. Special World's Fair Lego sets will also be on sale in the Danish Pavilion. "It has been our experience that any sampling or exposure to the Lego System lead to multiple sales," said national sales manager Al Reckler.

"With millions of children actually playing with Lego at the Fair," he continued, "we are confident the results will be immediately apparent in increased sales throughout the country. This invaluable exposure will be coupled with an intensive nation-wide program of sales promotion, point-of-sale activities, display and advertising."

New Pool series by Alvimor

A new line of above-ground, backyard pools, designed for quick and easy assembly and dis-assembly, has been introduced by Alvimor Mfg. Co., New York. Called Star-Lite, the new series has 12', 15', 18' and 24' sizes.

Built for durability, the pools have walls made of heavy galvanized or painted corrugated steel and liners made of aqua-embossed, heavy gauge plastic materials, electronically sealed. Precision engineered, steel sections lock both top and bottom to prevent separation of pool liner and side wall in any section. All sections are electro-zinc bonded to prevent pitting and corrosion.

Other features of the line are said to include: "breathing ability" that enables each section to absorb excessive stress at any point; self-leveling on irregular terrain under normal conditions; portability when drained, without dismantling; garden hose drain water stopper that permits drainage away from pool area; and colorful vinyl base with baked enamel paint finish that resists water and outdoor elements.

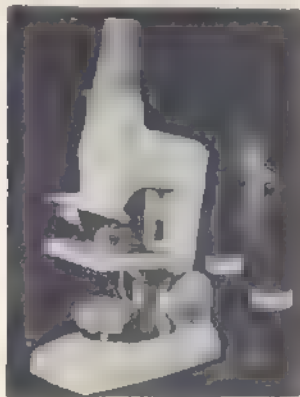

Each pool in the Star-Lite series comes with simple to follow instructions and a patch kit.

SKIL-CRAFT PLAYTHINGS OFFERS ALL-NEW PRECISION MICROSCOPE

Skil-Craft Playthings, Inc., Chicago, designers and manufacturers of educational toys, has announced the development of an all-new precision microscope that offers extra-fine adjustments said to be never before possible in chemistry set equipment of this type.

This clarity is achieved by an innovation known as "Micro-Matic Doubling," which permits easy adjustment of the eyepiece as well as the illuminated stage.

The new, sturdy metal microscope, now included in Skil-Craft's popular-priced microscope and biology sets, features distortion-free, optically ground lenses providing outstanding magnification.

"Let us remember that this is not only a toy—it is also a highly efficient precision instrument," Joseph Heller, president of Skil-Craft, said. "In today's highly competitive market, 'good enough' is not enough. Success depends on constant and marked improvement."

THREE BIG "Ms" STARS OF TONKA TOYS' NEW LINE

Mighty, Mini and Military are the three big "Ms" in Tonka Toys' 1964 line, making its bow at the American Toy Fair this month.

The headliners are Mighty-Tonka, a king-sized dump truck big enough for youngsters to ride; a doubling of last year's successful Mini-Tonka line, and a parade of military vehicles in Tonka's regular line, with strong emphasis on the sales-proven Jeep vehicles.

Giant of the Tonka line is the new Mighty-Tonka Dump truck, a rugged replica of the mammoth dump trucks used in mining operations or on heavy construction projects. Standing nearly 10' high, Mighty-Tonka has jumbo-sized real rubber tires, "Celcon" wheel bearings to provide dependable service under extra-heavy loads, and traditional Tonka styling detail. Its control tower-type driver's cab is fully "glassed" in, diesel twin stacks and oil cleaner are mounted atop the engine, and the heavy-duty bumper is fitted with shock absorbing pads.

Tonka officials say the Mighty-Tonka is designed to sell comfortably within the retail price range of its regular line of trucks.

The Mini-Tonka family has been increased from last year's five trucks to 10 items plus two sets.

Three of the new Mini-Tonkas are semi-trailer units—a van, a livestock van and a car carrier. All three are pulled by ultra-modern "Superview" tractor cabs. The vans are equipped with retractable landing wheels while the car carrier is loaded with two torpedo-shaped sports cars.

Other new Mini-Tonka items include a Grader with controls for adjusting the blade angle and steering, a Mixer whose drum will turn and tilt for pouring, a Contractor set of construction trucks and a special "3-Pak" that includes a Pick-Up, a Stake Truck and a Wrecker.

Like Tonka's regular line, all Mini toys are built of automotive-weight steel and have real rubber tires.

In Tonka Toys' regular line, military items will feature enough vehicles to stock a motor pool. Among them are a Troop Carrier truck, equipped with realistic "nvas" Conestoga top of durable plastic and side bench seats in the body, and a Jeep Commander command car with a "canvas" top and auxiliary gas cans mounted by the spare wheel.

Other highlights among the 18 new toys and sets being introduced by Tonka are a shovel that operates just like the big power shovels and a Jeep Wrecker equipped with heavy-duty winch, "flasher" lights and white sidewall tires.

TWO MORE MOVIE MONSTERS TO BE MARKED BY AURORA

Although they may shiver adult as well as juvenile spines, two more Movie Monsters introduced by Aurora Plastics Corporation, West Hempstead, N. Y., are expected to be welcomed by America's hobbykit enthusiasts.

The two newcomers are King Kong, bearing his fangs and clutching a hapless maiden in his paws; and Godzilla, striding across the wreckage of a city. Both will be available for retail release in May and June at $149 each.

A third addition to the Aurora hobby kit series is Superman, designed with bulging muscles and in the act of pushing over a brick wall. This hobby kit is scheduled for retail release in March and April at 98¢.

First of a series of miniature models from the famous Madame Tussaud Wax Works in London is the guillotine of the French Revolution, scheduled for a July-August release at 98¢.

This reproduction of a Tussaud exhibit will be followed by others from the Tussaud "Chamber of Horrors," along with a group of American President models and wax works reproductions fashioned in miniature.

BACK IN MARCH 1935

Among the attractive pull toys of the year were the Tandem Chime in which a pair of circus horses pulled a decorated floor chime; and Pony Cart and Pony Team, which featured one and two horses, respectively, pulling a dump truck that had gongs within the wheels.

NEW VARNEY CARS CAN RUN ON CONVENTIONAL AUTO RACE TRACK

The Varney Mfg. Company of Baltimore is marketing a line of 1/32-scale cars that have been engineered for use on most 1/32 and 1/24 conventional scale track, including that of Strombecker, Eldon, Scalextric and Gilbert. Three authentically detailed sports cars are offered: Corvette Sting Ray Hardtops, Corvette Sting Ray Convertibles and Jaguar XKE Convertibles. All models are over-sprayed with actual auto enamels and are available in four colors, red, burgundy, blue and green.

The new Varney model race cars are powered by the "consumer-proven" KM-1 motor, which is unconditionally guaranteed for five years. This practically defect-free miniature motor passes through 19 quality inspection checks in the manufacturing process. Highest torque and speed are reportedly possible because of the motor's five-pole construction, advanced engineering and design. The powerful KM-1 motor gives smooth response to any control system, with quick starts and sustained power at all speeds. Mechanical features include: two metal gears with matching brass pinion gear, a gearshift lever for two speed control, and self-lubricating wheel bearings.

All Varney cars come fully assembled and are ready to race. Chrome, glass areas, trim, and drivers are all exactly reproduced, trimmed and decorated. Racing numbers are painted on each car, the same as they appear in real sports car competition. The chassis is completely enclosed and vented, adding stability, extra strength and authenticity to the models, Varney points out. Each car is attractively packaged in a reusable plastic case, according to the manufacturer.

The cars will be presented to the consumer on an unique counter-top merchandising unit, displaying one dozen assorted cars. This self-service merchandiser features a race car theme, highlighted by the Varney Auto Race flag motif. Each display is pre-packaged with the cars tied down in place on the unit. All that is required for display use is to insert the header and place on the counter. Shipping weight per unit is 6 pounds.

The unit is being offered with 12 conventional pick-up cars or with six of both conventional and Varney Slot-Loc pick-up cars. The latter will retail at a price-level of $6.95 each.

AMF Diversifies, Adds Line Of Backyard Play Equipment

The new "AMFun" line of backyard play equipment is another step in AMF's announced policy of diversification and broadened distribution. To the well established line of wheel goods and bicycles is now added a line of backyard play equipment for young children. To distributors, the new line is described as an expanded opportunity to fill out their carload shipments with an even wider variety of AMF equipment.

Included in the new line at present are two rockers, a two-seater and one with five seating positions; two Orbiter merry-go-rounds, one to hold two children and a larger model for four; and a unique Dome Climber designed to satisfy the climbing instinct present in all children.

As a result of the Dome Climber's mathematically-precise design, weight on the dome is automatically distributed over the entire surface. While the dome is light in weight, it is exceedingly strong and can safely hold a multitude of climbing, swinging children, AMF advises.

Though the assembled Dome Climber measures 96" in diameter and 51" in height, the compact packaging possible from the ingenious design results in a carton that measures only 31 1/2" by 11 1/2" by 4 3/4".

Equally dramatic are the two AMF Orbiters—the hand pumping merry-go-rounds built for either two or four children. Colored red and blue and decorated in "orbit" designs, the Orbiters are sturdily built to hold many times the weight of a child. Construction is of tubular steel with unitized construction in the side panels and deep bucket seats for additional safety. Seat height is 21", the span 77" and carton size 39 1/2" by 12 1/2" by 4 1/2".

Of the two "rockers" one, the "Junior," is low cut to place the rocking children as close to the ground as possible. The "Giant" is 36 1/2" high and built to give maximum fun to a multiple number of children. Both rockers are built of rugged tubing and capable of supporting as many children as can find room on the rocker. Both rockers are attractively decorated in green, red and white. Both are compactly cartoned the Giant measuring only 57" by 18" by 3".

A new addition to Bradley's group of "brain games" stemming from hit TV show formats, Alumni Fun is suitable for ages 12 to adult. All players begin as freshmen; their progress through sophomore, junior and senior years is based on their ability to answer general questions that become appropriately harder. Question cards dealing in history, math, science, English, the arts and extra curricular activities and a booklet with all the answers are included in the game. Alumni Fun parallels the action of the CBS-TV network show.

finished products, thus releasing space in the existing plant for needed additional production. According to Mr. Barton, the move is designed to "keep abreast of the steadily increasing nationwide popularity of Parker games."

New Look for Mickey Mouse Club

"Professor Wonderful" twirls a lasso as part of an experiment.

Walt Disney's "Mickey Mouse Club," which has been so successful in two years of coast-to-coast syndication, will reportedly be given an exciting new look for the coming season, featuring a number of fresh personalities including "Professor Wonderful."

Sixty-four completely different segments, filmed exclusively for the show, have been incorporated in the 1964-65 schedule to bow in the fall. Ninety-three stations in the United States are carrying the program.

Noted physicist Julius Sumner Miller, a colorful personality who is revolutionizing teaching methods with his stimulating and amusing approach to physics at California's El Camino College, stars as "Professor Wonderful" in a weekly series of "Fun With Science." According to reports, he has been receiving rave notices in a number of national publications, including Life magazine, and has been a frequent guest on "The Steve Allen Show."

Another new character for the Disney show, Marvelous Marvin, master magi can, clever clown, illusionist, contortionist and master of a great number of disguises and voices, will make many marvelous things happen on the Mickey Mouse Club.

Hub and Bub, a pair of zany comics, have also been added, plus special guest stars.

A new innovation in children's programming will feature "Moochie of Pop Warner Football," covering an eight-day stretch in the fall, and "Moochie of the Little League" in the spring, the latter saluting the youngsters by the million who participate in more than 83 major and minor kid baseball leagues in the U.S.

Present management will remain unchanged and will continue to develop original items, improve the present product line and introduce imaginative packaging to the trade. Thus far, sales in 1964 are approximately 10% ahead of those of the record 1963 year, Mr. Schmitt said.

NEW CUT'N-GLUE NOVELTY TO BE ADDED BY RUSHTON

The Rushton Company, Atlanta, will introduce at the Toy Fair an all-new novelty called "Felt by Numbers." The new Rushton creation consists of a kit with pre-shaped felt parts to be cut out and glued into place by numbers to form a colorful 16"-by-24" felt wall picture.

There are four different Felt by Numbers patterns to cut'n-glue into most unusual wall panels. The four decorative designs include: a balloon clown, circus clown, jack'n box and wooden soldier, providing a variety of subjects for display in a bedroom, playroom or nursery.

Each kit is attractively packaged to enable the buyer to see the materials to be used and includes a colorful picture of the finished panel. Everything needed for assembly is supplied: a felt background for a 16"-by-24" wall picture, multi-colored silk screened felt cut-out parts, an unbreakable plastic bottle of glue with wood paddle spreader, two enameled scrolls for framing, cord for hanging and complete step-by-step directions.

These new Rushton creations retail for about $3 per kit and are available individually in dozen cartons or in assortments. They will be on display at the Toy Fair in room 432, 200 Fifth Avenue Building, or buyers can write direct to the factory—The Rushton Company, 1275 Ellsworth Industrial Drive, Atlanta, Ga., 30325.

BOWLER DON CARTER JOINS SAALFIELD "FAMILY OF STARS"

Don Carter, "Mr. Bowling" has been added to the growing "family of stars" of the Saalfield Publishing Company, Akron, Ohio.

Saalfield's new "Strike" Bowling Game, #6165, a new parker game for all ages, has the endorsement of Carter, generally recognized as the world's foremost bowler.

He's the holder of every major tournament title, "bowler of the year" seven times, and a 10-time choice on the all-American bowling team, selected by the Bowling Writers of America.

Strike, played with cards by one or more "bowlers," contains a score sheet and marking crayon, plus simple playing instructions. Colorfully packaged in a 13½"-by-5½"-by-1½" box, Strike is easily recognizable by Carter's photograph on the box. Suggested retail price is $1

Vogue's Line Makes Early Debut; Features Several All-New Dolls

Vogue Dolls, Inc., Malden, Mass., is currently showing and shipping its all-new 1964 line, which it introduced in mid-February, Ted Nelson, president, reports. This is a break-through in tradition for the concern, which usually brings out its line at the annual Toy Fair.

Being featured this year are several all-new dolls—a complete departure from the traditional numbers—popular staples with new wardrobes, and dolls and accessories in cases.

Mr. Nelson said that while Easter coming in March had "a great deal to do" with the early introduction, it was not the only consideration.

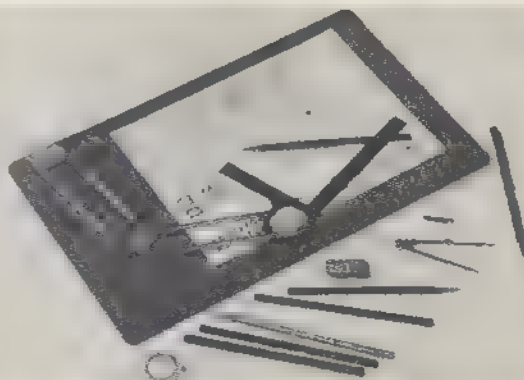

"We had calculated in late November that not only were we going to sell out our 1963 line before Christmas, but more important our retailers were going to come out clean on our merchandise during the peak holiday selling season," Mr. Nelson explained. "Happily this was the case. Store inventories on our goods have never been so low. They really moved over the counters those last few weeks. To meet the demand for Vogue dolls we knew this late action would create right after Christmas, we rushed out a late December-early January line led by our ever-popular little 8" Ginny and featuring a Valentine and an Easter 'special' from our top-selling traditional drink-and-wet Ginny Baby series. This early line created more order activity and shipments in January than we had enjoyed since Ginny's heyday in the mid-fifties."

As a result, according to Mr. Nelson, Vogue decided to "get the jump" on the early Easter business and break the entire line in mid-February. "The move was a good one," he says. "Every day's shipments have been creating new first-quarter records for the company."

Mr. Nelson advises that Vogue plans to bring out another new doll in late spring or late summer. He said that the few selected buyers who have seen it have "unanimously acclaimed her a real winner."

New Drawing Aid from Ohio Art

A new educational product—the 3 D's Draw, Draft, Design Set (#495)—will be shown at the Toy Fair by its manufacturer, the Ohio Art Company, located in Bryan, Ohio.

Described as a drawing aid for youngsters inclined toward architecture, engineering and designing, or for drawing enthusiasts, the set features a professionally-designed mechanical square which reportedly does away with five basic drawing tools.

Included in each set are a 17"-by-11"-by-½" durable drawing board, a divider and compass, pencils, masking tape, an eraser and drawing pad.

MASTER ANNOUNCES OPENING OF ANOTHER PRODUCTION PLANT

Master Industries, Inc., 111 E. 6 Street, St. Paul, Minn., has announced the opening of another production plant at North Branch Minn.

Oscar D. Berris, treasurer, said, "A continued steady growth in the demand for Master stuffed toys made it necessary to expand operations year after year until there was no more space available in our present building. The new plant will augment the main production facilities in St. Paul and, we hope, will enable us to keep up with the growing demand for sometime to come."

Oscar D. Berris

Mr. Berris said that when Master first opened more than 25 years ago, there were some 5,000 square feet of production space. Today at the St. Paul plant, he said, production of the stuffed animal line requires more than 10 times as much square footage.

According to Mr. Berris, the company expects to develop a thorough training program at the North Branch plant so that its "high standards of quality and individual styling which require trained craftsmen," will be retained. "Master toys are designed by a talented designer employed on a full-time basis," Mr. Berris said. "New toys are always carefully tested for both 'eye' and 'buy' appeal before being added to the line."

Made of soft, long-wearing fabrics with embroidered facial expressions, and sewn by single needle, lock-stitch construction for durability even under rough handling, the Master toys all feature stuffing materials pre-tested for non-allergenic, non-toxic characteristics, Mr. Berris said. As an example of the care given to design and construction to safeguard children, Mr. Berris cited the safety-attached eyes of the firm's toys.

Master's sales force of 20 representatives covering the United States handles such numbers in the line as Tuffy, an English Bulldog dressed in a turtle-neck sweater with an embroidered name; Countess, a feminine Pekinese, Lazy Mayzie, a soft, cuddly, completely washable kitten; and Flip Flop, a winsome-looking puppy.

A new full-color catalog is now in preparation and will soon be available to toy buyers, the firm advises.

Toy Rep Organization Formed; Next Meeting on March 10

A NEW NATIONAL association of manufacturers' sales representatives in the toy industry to be known as the Toy Representatives of America, has been organized for the sole purpose of "forming a more effective, and mutually profitable relationship among toy representatives, manufacturers, and customers."

Open only to representatives who are independent contractors handling one or more toy lines on a commission basis, the association is described as the only one of its kind designed to function as a public relations and liaison organization for the collective benefit of all segments of the toy industry.

The next meeting of the group—to which all qualified representatives are invited—will be held during the Toy Fair in New York, 7 P.M., Tuesday, March 10, at the Regency Room, George Washington Hotel.

The association's primary objectives are:

- (1) To create a better image and a better understanding of the industry and its problems.
- (2) To conduct a program that will maintain a constant awareness of the importance of manufacturers' representatives in the overall toy distribution and marketing picture.
- (3) To establish closer liaison with the Toy Manufacturers Association.

With these objectives in mind, 23 toy sales representatives from all sections of the country attended a dinner meeting on February 4 in the M & M Club of The Merchandise Mart, Chicago.

Charles Zuckerman, of New York, was elected president pro-tem, pending election of officers and members of the board of directors at the New York meeting.

Appointed public relations counsel and executive-secretary was Bernard Finkel Associates, of 35 East Wacker Drive, Chicago.

LATEST WEIRD-OH A DRAG HAG WITH BABY BUGGY AND OFFSPRING

The newest of the wild Weird-Ohs from the Hawk Model Company, 4600 N. Olcott Avenue, Chicago 31, is the frightful-looking Drag Hag.

Witchlike in features, the Drag Hag is accompanied by her baby and a baby buggy. As a mother, she may leave much to be desired, says the Hawk management, but as a Weird-Oh kit she's expected to be a popular seller at $1 retail.

Number 536 in the Weird-Oh series, Drag Hag "walks in a kind of beauty," says Hawk. "It would take the cruelest of people to remain unmoved in her presence."

HANDY ANDY TOOL SET PACKAGE

A new packaging approach on Handy Andy tool sets, as announced by Joseph Heller, president of Skil-Craft Playthings, Inc., Chicago, features a lithographed four-color cover with action photos showing the product in use.

"A great deal of time and effort was invested in the development of these packages," Heller said, "because today, a package must do more than simply contain merchandise. It must also sell the product. It must command the consumer's attention and convince him to buy."

Toy Marketing Trends

came almost to a standstill in early December in some stores. By the weekend of the 14th, however, the weather brightened—and so did sales records.

"If the weather holds and if there aren't any more international complications or domestic crises, we still have a chance to equal last year," said one variety store buyer.

It was a big if, but most independents and department stores and hobby shop men also felt they could recoup their slow Novembers with the eight big shopping days left.

Over the Southwest, sales records fluctuated. In Dallas, sales were up only slightly for some to way ahead for others in the first two weeks of December. In San Antonio, December sales were generally up about 10 percent; in Lubbock, business was ahead slightly, in Houston, down considerably. Fort Worth, Beaumont and Texarkana showed gains.

The fact that some had a 10 percent rise during the first two weeks even with bad weather encouraged them. But the burning question remained: would the last frantic days prove big enough?

Adding to most retailers' woes were the virtual across-the-board price cuts on TV toys. Slashing ranged from 20 percent off list to selling prices of five to 10 percent above cost. One retailer complained he couldn't move some TV toys even at cost. Stores started out by promoting only a few items—so that in the end, everything got cut.

"TV toys are just as rough as last year, and we're selling some at a loss," said a department store buyer.

And the demand of '62 wasn't there on TV toys. Mouse Trap, Vac-U-Form and Barbie were the leaders—but only Mouse Trap was hot enough to create a real shortage. Though many retailers ordered TV toys late and sold out, there was no real shortage over the area. And though catalog stores were out of many items, shoppers were still turning down the same items in stores that hadn't met catalog slashes.

A department store trend to advertising 25 to 30 items at a time (including staples) rather than a handful of TV toys looked good to other retailers. And nearly everyone—from independents through discounters—found staples moving more briskly than last year and producing more unit sales and dollar volume.

Infant toys, activity items, games, dolls, guns and holsters—these were among the goods getting brisk action. The Fisher-Price TV-radio, Password, Tonka trucks, doll clothes were moving especially well. Good $2 to $3 toys were selling best as a price category.

In the hobby stores, road race was moving—well enough to create good but not exceptional volume. Also popular were car and airplane model kits and Weird-Ohs. Even trains were moving for some. And most hobby prices were holding up, except for some cuts on road race sets.

The big question for buyers now was how inventories would wind up. "Oh boy, do I have stock on hand!" moaned a variety store buyer. Nearly everyone else had plenty of stock too—except a discounter who was down to 1/4 of what he had started with. Even so, some were still placing limited reorders on good movers and getting shipment. Southwestern jobbers had enough back-up stock at mid-December on nearly everything.

Though retailers were watching their inventories, they weren't yet frightened. There was still time to move a lot of it. Most optimistically predicted inventories would be whittled down to just about the right size by Dec. 25.

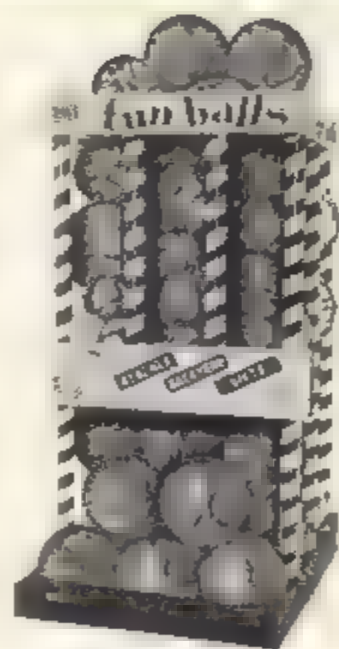

Buyers and dealers kept their fingers crossed, watched the weather reports and hoped the people would keep pouring in to bring 1963 equal to—or a little better than—1962's record.

On the Selling Side....

A Profile

PROBABLY no industry offers as much chance to work on both sides of the fence as the toy trade. And, many of its most successful people have given credit to the experience they got both selling and buying.

An excellent example of one who has taken advantage of both is Belle Panzer of Nasco Doll, Inc. she says it has been a great education and interesting every minute.

A graduate of Drake Business Schools, Miss Panzer's first job was with J. Chein & Company as a secretary. Right then she was bitten by the "toy bug" and like many another she never went into another industry.

She did not exchange her steno book for a sales sheet, however, until she went to Kresge's, Newark, as secretary to veteran toy buyer Lou Shoneman. Seeing her possibilities as a buyer, Mr. Shoneman let her help out on the floor and then finally transferred her to selling. From there she quickly went to head of stock and assistant buyer.

In 1942 Miss Panzer joined the staff of Felix Lillienthal as a resident buyer of toys and nursery furniture. Her next move to Interstate Department stores kept her in the same field.

Many of Miss Panzer's opinions as a saleswoman today are a result of what she learned up until 1955 as a buyer and of working with buyers of individual stores. For example, she is convinced that a good buyer must have had some experience in retail selling and that he or she must keep a sharp eye on the salesforce, perhaps even actually getting behind the counter from time to time.

"It is easy, and sometimes profitable," she points out, "to rely on your own selections in buying in the open market, but that doesn't always take the place of knowing exactly what is selling in your own store. Weeks of selling can be lost on an tative, turning over his business to his son, Harold C. Kinne. Mr. Kinne had been selling toys since 1885. He was one of the small group of exhibitors at the Broadway Central Hotel at the start of the New York Toy Fair in 1903.

Al W. Blessin resigned as toy buyer for Gimbel Brothers, New York. He had been with the toy department in that store for five years, the last two as buyer.

1944 BRIEF ITEMS about the industry included: "Buying slumped perceptibly following the Toy Fair and is still in a retarded state. . . . WPB Inventory Control is one reason why the buying pace has slowed. With the demand for higher-priced toys, stores that have been taking merchandise in, find themselves up to the limit of their quota for the quarter. . . . There was little reason to expect that the pace set last year would last forever. As it is, buyers have placed orders for from 55 to 65 per cent of their requirements. . . . The buying is expected to become considerably stronger starting in June. . . . There is one buyer who, even though he is in the Army, continues to buy toys. He receives PLAYTHINGS each month, looks it over, and then writes up his orders. He says the system works, and what's more he gets plenty of mail from his manufacturer friends, a consolation to any soldier. . . . With Florida vacation spots mainly occupied by the armed forces, Mexico is fast becoming a favorite place for sojourning on the part of many in the trade."

A contest for outstanding promotional efforts in support of the 5th War Loan Drive by toy retailers was being sponsored by PLAYTHINGS. Awards, in war bonds of course, were to be given for the most original and effective promotions, as judged by a panel of five men well known in the toy and merchandising fields.

1954 THE LOS ANGELES wholesale firm of Pensick & Gordon was host to 514 toy retailers at a dinner held at the Statler Hotel in that city. This event climaxed the annual open house and toy show held by Pensick & Gordon, which drew a record attendance of 2,000. Guest speakers at the dinner were M. J. Fink, executive vice-president of Playskool Mfg. Company; Mel Freud of the Toy Guidance Council, and Dr. Frances Horwich of TV's Ding Dong School.

Ruth Glasser, sales manager for Block House, Inc., was the subject of one of Kay Hardwick's interviews with prominent toy people. Miss Glasser had stepped right from school (in New Rochelle, N. Y.) into the toy business. Upon graduation she applied for a position as secretary at Block House, was accepted, and was soon making good in the selling end of the business. At first it was in the showroom, then on the road "The first year I traveled I was a little dubious about reactions, but I found people were just the same as when they came into the office," she said. "One of the nice things about the toy business is that you meet some very fine people and feel a friendly sense of association with them."

- Narrowly miss each other at interchange
- Cut from one lane to the other to block or pass opponent or take inside curve

Two rheostat controls let you increase or decrease speeds gradually. Powered by UL approved powerpack (110-120 volt, 60-cycle AC). Enough track to make an elongated figure 8 about 2x5 feet long. Eight curved, 1 four-way interchange and 2 straight, lane-changer sections.

LIONEL 3-lane Set

$29⁴⁴ NO MONEY DOWN

- Not just two, but three powerful stock cars compete on this big 8-foot course

Speeds are increased or decreased by 3 rheostat controls. Powered by UL approved powerpack (110-120 volt, 60-cycle AC). Enough track for about 2x5 feet long. Twelve curved and 4 straight sections. Plastic trestle posts.

Castleton Independence Ironstone

What is Ironstone? Ironstone is ovenproof earthenware with one of the whitest of all ceramic bodies. It does contain stone, but not iron. The name was coined by Miles Mason, its originator, in the 1700's to emphasize its great strength. With Independence Ironstone, Castleton has reproduced the ovenproof strength and durability of the original ware . . . with the added advantages of lighter weight, more delicate detailing, dishwasher-proof patterning and whiter body. In its octagonal shape, fluted shoulders and shapely handles, this dinnerware is true to the bold character of antiques that are cherished by collectors today.

Blue Tulip. Full blown tulips bloom brightly in the center . . . slender leaves of deep gentian blue twine 'round the rim. Lovely pattern is hand-applied under the glaze—can't be harmed by dishwasher detergents. Safe in the oven too. 45-pc. service for 8. Shipped Freight or Express. Shpg. wt. 38 lbs. 56-57-39C 45-pc. Keep your car sharp

It's easy to spray out scratches, nicks and parking lot bruises with famous Tempo original factory colors. If possible, check car specification tag for paint code number under the hood, on firewall or door post. DuPont colors match perfectly if ordered correctly. Available for most American cars.

a high of 28 and a low of 22.7. Those mileages are ridiculous.

I've had as high as 41 mpg under perfect conditions and never less than 25 mpg. My around-town average is consistently 28-30, while highway mileages fall between 34 and 36 mpg.

I feel your figures aren't a true representation of the economy of the Volkswagen, and that a great injustice has been done to potential VW owners who might shun their purchase due to poor gas economy.

BEETLEPHOBIA

I was completely sold on the Volkswagen from their ads and bought a new '64 model. In one week of driving I became a bundle of nerves. I'll never be able to straighten my left foot due to the intruding wheel well. As for backaches, I must have developed the daddly of all spinal arthritis from that so-called bucket seat.

Driving it in a stiff breeze is like driving into a wall of jello. As for engine noise, it's like lying inside a 50-gallon steel drum—and about as comfortable.

From even the thought of a Volkswagen—good Lord, deliver me!

CHECKER ROAD TEST

In the three years that I've been reading your magazine, I don't recall your testing a Checker sedan or wagon.

Lately, I heard some interesting things about the car, so I paid my local dealer a visit to try one myself. I was very pleased with the car. The Checker is far from the best-looking car on the market, but what it lacks in looks it makes up for in roominess, ride and handling qualities, plus performance and economy. It has a lot to offer the public, with a list of options to fill the bill for anyone interested in a simple automobile.

THE TRUTH ABOUT OVERDRIVE

I'd like to correct a mis-statement made in a recent Spotlight on Detroit item: "Why Aren't Overdrive Transmissions More Popular?" You stated that Borg-Warner won't sell the overdrive as a separate unit to car manufacturers.

We had for many years sold separate overdrives to Chrysler until they discontinued using them. These were adapted to their own transmissions. We've sold Chevrolet overdrives ever since they began using them. International Harvester buys them as separate units. For many years, we shipped separate overdrives to Ford. We've never refused to sell overdrives to car manufacturers to attach to their own transmissions.

I think the popularity of the overdrive

The Total Performance Fairlane 500 Sports Coupe

to a high-shift automatic!*

The next time somebody quotes that old bit about "Well you can't please everybody!"—just point a stubby finger at Fairlane. In particular, point at Fairlane's marriage of the 289-cu.-in. High Performance V-8 to a special version of Ford's three-speed automatic.

Everybody knows about this 289 by now; 271 horsepower, beautiful balance and breathing and revs that just never quit, a solid little classic of a V-8. But mostly you think of it with four-on-the-floor and some big muscular chap (you?) throwing power shifts.

Scratch that; you can now think of your wife or Good Friend opening the gate on all those shaggy little horses while a beefy Cruise-O-Matic sits on the lid up to 5000 r.p.m.!

How's that for an option? It's certainly a big step in the something-for-everyone direction. How can she complain about shifting when you've provided an automatic—it just happens to be tied to the saltiest little V-8 in the business. She sure won't complain if the whole package comes in a Fairlane Sports Coupe—with Fairlane's big-car ride and room, its easy-to-park size, its modest appetite for gas, its 14-inch wheels and low-silhouette tires, its very unobtrusive price and . . .

Come to think of it, we hope we're able to make enough of these.

A black and white photograph showing a variety of classic cars from the 1960s. In the upper left is a dark, sleek coupe. To its right is a light-colored convertible. Below these, a winding road or track curves through the center of the image. In the lower left, there are three mechanical components, possibly engine parts or alternators. To the right of these are two more cars: a dark coupe and a light-colored convertible. The background is a plain, light color.

Detroit auto makers have done extensive testing on reduction of harmful exhaust emissions, looking for a way to reduce them to acceptable levels without altering engine performance, reliability, or economy. The length of time devoted to these tests is immaterial if the results are workable. Because a group can find out as much in five years as another group does in 22 years, there are no real grounds for any accusations.

Detroit auto makers are currently finding success with two approaches that will undoubtedly be combined into a service-free, low-cost, effective system. Chrysler's clean-air package employs an automatic spark, idle, and mixture change during deceleration and acceleration. It's nearly trouble-free but does require regular "clean-air package" tune-ups. These are low-cost checks that should be done anyway but are a little more carefully done than the usual plug, point, tune-up-my-car operation.

The General Motors unit, which will be available for '66 cars, makes more sense than any we've seen. A small vane-type air pump no larger than a small alternator is driven by the fanbelt (but could be incorporated right into the front accessory drive case) and supplies air through the exhaust manifold to the hot exhausts in the valve area. The gases are good and hot here, but all available oxygen has been consumed in the combustion process, and they'd ordinarily pass through the muffler system and into the atmosphere in a semi-or unburned condition. By adding the needed air here, they burn right in the area designed for high temperatures, the exhaust manifold.

GM could probably put these on their '65 cars if they were satisfied with patched-on installations, but they like to do things nicely and will change to some block and manifold castings to accomplish this. The same warranty that covers other factory components will apply to this unit and, from what we've seen of experimental models, such units could be fitted to used vehicles for about the same estimated cost of "add-on" catalytic mufflers.

These air-injected units could be on all cars, whether required by state laws or not, because they don't affect performance. Besides, dual-exhaust options or custom installations won't be affected; muffler shops and manufacturers will stay in business; and the motorist and citizen may be happy just to breathe a mixture of carbon dioxide, water vapor, soot, and a few other by-products that haven't yet proved too harmful to humans, animals, and vegetation.

such as sheepdogs, schnauzers and orangutangs. Children who years back would have ignored a sheepdog or orangutang are happy today with items we can create from such a fabric." As further evidence he brought out two 1927 items which he said were wonderful then but which "you couldn't give away today." Designers, Mr. Swedlin emphasized, have to keep pace with consumer tastes and wants as well as with materials.

What about designing for new markets—say teenagers or infants—and what part does character merchandise play?

CHARACTER OF MARKET

Mr. J said that the relatively new teenage market represents maybe 25 per cent of the entire market while the infant market has increased maybe 50 per cent. "This could be due to the population explosion, more emphasis on catering to very young children with soft toys, or decorators tying toys in with their recommendations. But its a very important market and still growing. It represents many staple designs—but we still have to watch trends."

Among the innovations he launched in his field, Mr. Swedlin mentioned the combining of vinyl faces with fabrics; the use of tiger and leopard materials as they became available (formerly coloring, for simulation, had to be sprayed on after the item was finished); the use of hassocks with animals ("which we call Tuftets"); and putting a fabric rider animal on rockers instead of wheels.

Does he have favorite memories of successful items that he designed?

"Well, about 10 years ago I designed the Regal Beagle, a funny dog that caught on and is still in the line. The beagle and another number, the Boopsie Bear, had vinyl faces. Boopsie also had vinyl feet and Regal Beagle came with movable eyes. But while these and Slumber Pup, which I brought out at the same time, featured technical innovations, I hope, actually, that it was also their good basic design that ► UNAUTHORIZED DEDUCTIONS—When these crop up in checks, various manufacturers either (1) bounce the check back; (2) deposit it and go after the difference; or (3) put the check through and hold off on further shipments to the offending customer until he squares his account.

(for whatever reason) is fairly standard—at least in principle. . . . Transshipments are OK'd by most toymakers where one account is overstocked and another has run short. A repack charge of 10% would be considered equitable.

. . . One manufacturer, when an unjustified anticipation allowance or cash discount is taken, writes the buyer explaining why company policy prohibits the deduction; a space is left at the bottom for the buyer's acknowledgement and signature, the whole sheet to be sent back to the manufacturer in the originally enclosed, stamped self-addressed envelope.

► OFFICE MANAGEMENT—Advice: train new employees in two kinds of office duties. . . . Fringe benefits granted by the toy concerns represented at the conference included (typically) two-week vacations after one year three weeks after five years, hospitalization plans, with the lion's share of the cost borne by the employer; and group insurance programs. Major medical and pension plans, though not universal, were either in use or under consideration at most companies. . . . Data-processing systems have assisted the credit department nobly, thanks to their speed in supplying account-activity information.

Chairmen of the seminar sessions, to whom a salute is due for the efficient way in which discussion time was used to generate ideas helpful to all the participants, were: Francis J. Lukes (Strombecker), Lillian Gitlin (Kenner); R. F. Raisbeck (Fisher-Price); L. J. Rauth (Eagle Rubber); Leonard F. Brown (Hubley); and J. E. Dale (Universal).

On Tuesday morning, the 16th, preceding the summary reports delivered by the seminar chairmen, the credit executives heard Toy Association attorney William Popper of Popper & Popper describe several current or recent cases involving "distressed or insolvent debtors." In connection with a number of these cases, creditor meetings had been held under Association auspices in New York, with the debtors present. Ninety per cent of meetings of this sort produce "favorable results," Mr. Popper advised. Normal procedure, after the debtor has been interviewed, is for a creditors' committee to be formed, an independent audit of the debtor's books undertaken, and an appraisal of his inventory made (its quantity, age and condition).

The evening of June 15 was set aside for the banquet held each year at the conference. Speakers included Cincinnati's Mayor, Walton H. Bachrach (who turned out to have been a Culver Academy classmate of Cass Hough of Daisy); Joe Steiner of Keener Products; and Association president L. John Swedlin.

"Though fabrics were searched out in the market, it wasn't until 25 years ago that we persuaded the fabric industry to respect toy designers as a potential market for which they might develop new ideas. I don't want to go into names, or our troubles, but it was really challenging to realize that if we designed an item we would get just the right type of fabric that would appeal to the public. Design and fabric... if you can get both in the same item a 'star is born.' But its always a gamble."

"How many types of fabrics have been designed for soft toys?"

"That you can't even estimate for we use many of the numerous innovations in fur pile that often have application in other industries. We didn't have them years ago. The fabric that looks like lamb's wool is still good, but for a limited market—like lambs. The shaggy type is popular for making realistic-looking animals. It fits into a number of popular items advertised on TV and in other media." An ex-GI himself—he served with the Army during World War II—he says he knows what the serviceman and his family want and that he will give it to them if at all possible.

It's no wonder that early-rising Mr. Bisgyer says "the day goes by fast" for in selecting toys for different parts of the world he is constantly faced with limitations and endless considerations. There are the climate ("Toys must tolerate extreme heat, cold and humidity"); elements such as salt water, smog or dust storms; rust ("In Panama we give them bikes with enamel rather than chrome rims"); areas with poisonous animals and insects ("Here the kids play on platforms, so we wouldn't buy them sand toys"); the base in a stockade ("No bikes"); and even a GI's wife's boredom ("She goes to the store several times a week, so we must have a varied selection"). He also buys toys for bases without families, such as in Thule, Greenland, because a GI might want to pick his own toys to send back to the kids. And he handles the problem of military transfers by having some type of toy wherever a base might be. "As a result of the GI's travels," Mr. Bisgyer notes, "the American toys are distributed in more countries than ever before. Seeing Americans enjoying American products creates a demand abroad that has helped build exports."

Operating from headquarters at 8 W. 14 Street, New York City, Mr. Bisgyer serves as "resident buyer" for the overseas exchanges. With his associates he starts covering the market in January, but waits until the Toy Fair before sending the information abroad. (Orders are written in New York on overseas requests.) The domestic bases do their own buying subject to suggestions from New York and service centers in Atlanta, Baltimore, San Antonio and San Francisco. A committee for each service center area comes to the Toy Fair; then, as a team they work with the New York staff to make their selections for the domestic exchanges. An almost completely self-supporting facility of the Department of Defense, the Exchange Service has 70,000 personnel and employees (34,000 American civilians, 34,000 indigenous personnel and the rest military). The exchange's worldwide chief is Brig General C. J. Galligan, USAF.

Brooklyn-born and bred, the amiable Mr. Bisgyer came to the exchange service after having worked for a number of years at Gumbels under Bill McDuffee in the toys and sporting goods departments, where he went from head of stock to assistant buyer. A graduate of St. John's College of Annapolis, Md., he was also associated with the lumber, plastics and soft goods industries for varying periods of time.

A bachelor until two years ago when he married into a "going family," Mr. Bisgyer now lives in Hewlett, L. I., N. Y. And, when not tirelessly working for GI Joe, he enjoys fishing, gardening, driving and reading detective stories. He has traveled extensively for business and pleasure to places all over the world and real gourmet that he is—has sampled and enjoyed the food of each place. He'd like to return some day to Eleuthera, a tiny, sparsely-populated island in the Bahamas where "the sand is pure white and soft as powder and the fishing is great!"

SHELTON COVERED STUFFED TOYS AT WORLD'S FAIR KODAK EXHIBIT

A variety of stuffed animals made from Shelton, a Borg deep pile fabric, is displayed at the World's Fair exhibit of Eastman Kodak. Made from Verel, an Eastman modacrylic fiber, Shelton fabrics are non-allergenic and flame resistant, according to Henry Pollak, president of Henry Pollak, Inc., 1040 Avenue of the Americas, New York City, exclusive Shelton distributor to the toy trade.

Mr. Pollak stated that stuffed toys made from Shelton are so lifelike in appearance their hair can be surface-washed, combed, brushed, and set with pin-curls.

Dardenelle Line of Stuffed Animals Being Offered for Fall by Dakin

Loveable stuffed animals in the Dardenelle line are now being offered for fall by R. Dakin Company, San Francisco. Those illustrated above carry wholesale prices ranging from $14.40 per dozen to $43.40 per dozen, according to sales manager Norman P. Canright.

Memphis Toy "Mart" Shared by Brownstein, Farber and Carver

A new 6,000-square-foot "Toy and Hobby Building" at 4077 Viscount Avenue, Memphis, has been completed by Fred X. Brownstein of Brownstein Associates and Jack Carver and Bernie Farber of Farber and Carver, Inc., manufacturers' representatives.

Described as being the "closest thing to a privately-owned toy mart running a permanent toy show," the modern, air-conditioned building is divided into two equal parts with completely furnished adjacent offices and showrooms for each of the companies, Brownstein and Farber and Carver represent the lines of Mattel, Has-senfeld, L. M. Cox, Aurora, Craft Master, Emeuse, Standard Plastics Products, Banner and Halpern.

Mr. Carver and Mr. Brownstein report that since their opening they have held numerous jobber sales meetings and retail educational programs and are "extremely gratified" by the response of local and other mid-South buyers.

It's no wonder that early-rising Mr. Bisgyer says "the day goes by fast" for in selecting toys for different parts of the world he is constantly faced with limitations and endless considerations. There are the climate ("Toys must tolerate extreme heat, cold and humidity"); elements such as salt water, smog or dust storms; rust ("In Panama we give them bikes with enamel rather than chrome rims"); areas with poisonous animals and insects ("Here the kids play on platforms, so we wouldn't buy them sand toys"); the base in a stockade ("No bikes"); and even a GI's wife's boredom ("She goes to the store several times a week, so we must have a varied selection"). He also buys toys for bases without families, such as in Thule, Greenland, because a GI might want to pick his own toys to send back to the kids. And he handles the problem of military transfers by having some type of toy wherever a base might be. "As a result of the GI's travels," Mr. Bisgyer notes, "the American toys are distributed in more countries than ever before. Seeing Americans enjoying American products creates a demand abroad that has helped boost exports."

Operating from headquarters at 8 W. 14 Street, New York City, Mr. Bisgyer serves as "resident buyer" for the overseas exchanges. With his associates he starts covering the market in January, but waits until the Toy Fair before sending the information abroad. (Orders are written in New York on overseas requests.) The domestic bases do their own buying subject to suggestions from New York and service centers in Atlanta, Baltimore, San Antonio and San Francisco. A committee for each service center area comes to the Toy Fair; then, as a team they work with the New York staff to make their selections for the domestic exchanges. An almost completely self-supporting facility of the Department of Defense, the Exchange Service has 70,000 personnel and employees (34,000 American civilians, 34,000 indigenous personnel and the rest military). The exchange's worldwide chief is Brig. General C. J. Galligan, USAF.

Brooklyn-born and bred, the amiable Mr. Bisgyer came to the exchange service after having worked for a number of years at Gimbel's under Bill McDuffee in the toys and sporting goods departments, where he went from head of stock to assistant buyer. A graduate of St. John's College of Annapolis, Md., he was also associated with the lumber, plastics and soft goods industries for varying periods of time.

A bachelor until two years ago when he married into a "going family," Mr. Bisgyer now lives in Hewlett, L. I., N. Y. And, when not tirelessly working for GI Joe, he enjoys fishing, gardening, driving and reading detective stories. He has traveled extensively for business and pleasure to places all over the world and—real gourmet that he is—has sampled and enjoyed the food of each place. He'd like to return some day to Eleuthera, a tiny, sparsely-populated island in the Bahamas where "the sand is pure white and soft as powder and the fishing is great!"

Topper's Johnny Seven Shipments Expected to Reach 1.4-1.5 Million

From 1.4 to 1.5 million Johnny Seven OMA Guns will have been shipped before the end of this month.

This projection was made recently by Henry Orenstein, president of De Luxe Reading Corporation, who noted that the millionth piece of the Topper Toys Division's multi-function Johnny Seven weapon had been produced on October 24 at the company's mammoth plant complex at Elizabethport, N. J.

Mr. Orenstein voiced his belief that sales totals for the gun establish an industry record for a single year's volume on a toy wholesaling at about the $5 level.

Shipments on Penny Brite, another product star in the Topper firmament, are expected to approach the 3.5 million unit mark by Christmas. Ordering on the doll came to a halt in late August, at Topper's direction, so that the company could be certain of filling demand.

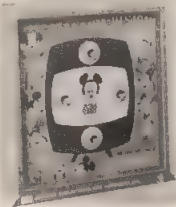

Total sales for Topper Toys in this, its first year of operation, are expected to range between $24-$26 million, about 25% above the estimates predicted at Toy Fair time.

For 1965, according to Mr. Orenstein, the present Topper line of about 20 packaged items will be expanded five-fold; several new-for-Topper toy categories will be entered with low-end merchandise.

AMSCO RELEASING MICKEY MOUSE CLUB TOON-A-VISION IN JANUARY

Amsco's Toon-A-Vision, the $1 TV "face" toy which the manufacturer claims has racked up a sales record of more than 2,000,000 units since its introduction last year will get a "relicensing" in 1965. This was announced by James R. Becker, vice-president and marketing director of the concern.

In a licensing arrangement with Walt Disney, the cartoon characters of Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pluto and Goofy will be featured in Amsco's new Mickey Mouse Club Toon-A-Vision (#1002), to be released for sale in January. The new toy (still a $1 retailer) will be intensively promoted via regional TV campaigns covering more than 20 major markets starting early in January. Additional markets will join the promotion during the spring and fall.

Mr. Becker said that the toy is expected to receive a bonus boost from its identification with the Mickey Mouse Club TV show, which is syndicated in 77 markets where it ranks among the leading children's afternoon programs. With permission from Walt Disney, Amsco has used special animation material from the show in its 60-second TV toy commercial.

In addition to the change to Mickey Mouse Club "faces," the new Toon-A-Vision is more colorful and reportedly improved in construction. Wooden controls have been replaced with durable plastic dials which can "tune in" as many as 38,640 different cartoon faces.

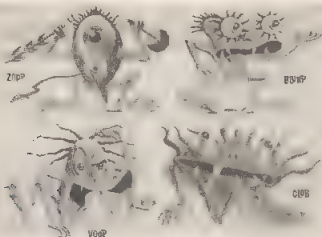

Suitable for use indoors, at parties, or in cars, Toon-A-Vision is said to be a good "baby sitter," keeping the child absorbed as he tries various combinations of faces, eyes, noses and mouths. The item is packaged like a TV screen in a sturdy 14" by 13" by 1", four-color shadow box. Packaging is 24 per 15 pound, 26 1/2"-by-14"-by-15 1/2" master carton.

Amsco is also offering the Mickey Mouse Club Toon-A-Vision Floor Display (#1003), packed four dozen per 30-pound master carton. The display carton size is 28 1/2" by 18" by 28". Amsco's general sales office and showroom are at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Quartet of Repulsive Monster Kits Joining Lindberg Line in January

What is described as the most hideously horrible quartet of monsters ever created in kit form will be added to the Lindberg line in January, according to Ken Rathke, vice-president of the concern.

Called the Lindy Loony Repulsives, the new plastic line will retail at 29¢ per kit.

The four available repulsives are named Blorp, Glob, Voop and Zopp. They are colorfully packaged to encourage impulse sales.

More information may be obtained from Lindberg's sales department at 8050 N. Monticello, Skokie, Ill.

What if 15 million kids do see Ideal games on the Magilla Gorilla Show every week?

Are you going to let a bunch of kids tell you how to run your business?

Yep.

You know why?

Because kids are your business.

That's why we're spending $30,000,000 on our "Magilla Gorilla Show."

Each week, 52 weeks a year, the show tells 15,000,000 kids all about Ideal's great games.

In the Fall, we're going to put on another half-hour show.

We know it will be a hit, just like Magilla.

And, through both shows, there will be twice the number of children

FTC PUTS STAMP OF APPROVAL ON INDEPENDENTLY-OWNED BOOKS

As a consequence of its request for an advisory opinion, the Oakes Consumer Catalogs division of Haywood Publishing Company, New York City, reports it has gained clearance from the Federal Trade Commission for independently owned toy catalogs.

In a release dated October 30, the FTC said "no objection will be raised to payments by a toy manufacturer for advertising in a toy catalog published by a firm not owned or controlled by, or in any way affiliated with, any toy jobber customer of the manufacturer, if the catalogs are available, in a practicable business sense, to all of the manufacturer's jobber customers."

The advisory opinion follows previous FTC actions concerning catalogs that were adjudged to be owned, at least in part, by jobbers engaged in the sale of toys advertised in the catalog.

Referring to the Oakes operation, the FTC release said further: "The commission notes that the catalogs projected are available at low cost to all toy jobbers and are apparently not designed to be usable only by particular jobbers, or classes or groups of jobbers, that you (Oakes) make every effort to distribute your catalog as broadly as possible among toy jobbers, and that you do not limit distribution to any particular jobbers or group or class of jobbers."

EXPORTS TO ITALY

Associazione Nazionale Importatori Giocattoli, Corso Vitt., Emanuele, 1, Milan, Italy, reports that it is willing to answer any inquiries from American firms interested in exporting to that country. The association says it would like to establish more favorable connections between U. S. exporters and manufacturers and leading Italian toy importers.

Alfred Sandberg has been elected president of Berry Pink Industries, 280 Madison Avenue, New York City, manufacturer of Marbie King marbles. Active in the trade for more than 16 years, Mr. Sandberg was formerly president of the Sandberg Sales Company, a toy representative firm, and before that sales manager of Windsor Mfg. Company.

In his new capacity, Mr. Sandberg has instituted what is called "an aggressive new program of merchandising, promotion and development of new ideas and products." He has also announced the appointment of Robert Higginbotham as sales representative in Michigan.

Eight Road-Racing Sets Being Featured by Eldon This Year

Eight different road-racing sets—six of them brand new—are being featured this year by Eldon Industries, Inc., 2701 W. El Segundo Blvd., Hawthorne, Calif.

Three of the new sets are in Eldon's Selectronic series, introduced in 1963 and reportedly a sellout in many major markets at Christmas. The key feature of all Selectronic sets is the Diode control. An Eldon exclusive which permits two cars to run on the same track at different speeds, each operating on its own electronic circuit under the complete control of its driver.

The '64 sets include such realistic features as lap counters, bridge supports, banked-curve adapters, start-finish banners, decals, rheostat speed controls, flags and fencing.

Topping the line is the new International Grand Prix Selectronic set, offering many Eldon exclusives (including Diode control) and a new set of internationally famous sports cars. The set has two Selectronic chassis and four interchangeable bodies—a Lotus 23, Porsche RSK, Ferrari Testa Rosa and Sting Ray. All have working headlights and dual-speed rear axles. Among other features are a new escape track (for either Le Mans starts or pit stops), power pack, change-lane switch tracks for passing, railing and pre-wired straight and curved track sections that snap together.

Another newcomer is the Sky-High Triple Level Race set which offers components for making a variety of complex tri-level courses with banked curves and railings to permit high speeds. Each set contains two pre-wired car chassis and four interchangeable sports car bodies (the Porsche, Ferrari, Sting Ray and Lotus), 38 pieces of pre-wired curved and straight track and a power pack.

Also new is Eldon's lowest priced road-race set, the Change Lane set featuring two re-designed, highly-authentic Indianapolis-type cars with two sections of change-lane track (cars automatically change lanes twice in each lap with neither running continuously on the shorter inside lane). Operating on a power pack or batteries (not included), this set has 10 banked curve supports.

Eldon's Daytona Beach set this year will include two pre-wired chassis with dual speed axles and four interchangeable stock car bodies—the Chevrolet, T-Bird, Pontiac and Plymouth. Among its standard features are a power pack, and 27 pieces of pre-wired curved and straight track.

The new Over & Under 8, a banked-curve layout for high speed racing has a new Lotus 23 and Testa Rosa Ferrari, 18 pieces of pre-wired track, power pack and various other features. The Power "8" set, the lowest-priced Eldon set containing a power pack, includes two newly-designed Indianapolis-type cars with pre-wired motors and 17 pieces of pre-wired power track, among its many features.

Appearing again this year with some modifications is the sales-tested Selectronic set which led the Eldon line in 1963. Included among its basic components are two Testa Rosa Ferraris with diode controls and dual-speed rear axles, two switch tracks with push-button controls, 27 pieces of pre-wired power track, power pack and an automatic flagman.

New this year is the Formula Two Selectronic Road Race set with two sports cars, a Sting Ray and Porsche, two change-lane switches and 22 pieces of pre-wired power track.

As support for its 1964 road-race promotions, all Eldon packages this year are carrying the endorsement of Dan Gurney, world champion racing driver and recent winner of the Riverside "500". Mr. Gurney will also be spokesman for Eldon in filmed television commercials.

Eldon has acquired the exclusive television rights to films of four racing events—Sebring, Nassau, Little Indy and a stock car race (to be selected) which will be shown as half-hour programs in some 50 U. S. markets. Television spots will also be purchased nationwide on prime viewing time to support the extensive road-race program.

Captain Kangaroo Meets Kenner's New "Aawk-Aawk" Gooney Bird

When Captain Kangaroo appeared in Cincinnati, home of Kenner Products Company, for a children's concert, "Fun With Music," with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, a group of Kenner children presented him with "Aawk-Aawk" a flexible foam replica of the animated Gooney Bird, used for several years as an identifying tag on all Kenner TV film commercials.

"Aawk-Aawk" is one of five new colorful cuddly, flexible foam animals in Kenner's 1964 line of toys. Others are Yogi Bear, Walt Disney's Pluto, Oogie the Octopus, and Wanda the Worm. All are bendable (molded with wire armatures), washable, and stand 14" to 24" high. Prices range from $1.98 to $5.98 retail.

Bendable Barbie and Burping Doll Make Debut in Mattel's '64 Line

Making their debut in the 1964 line of new toys from Mattel, Inc., 5150 Roscrans Avenue, Hawthorne, Calif., are a mobile Miss Barbie doll with legs that actually bend at the knee and eyes that open and close, and Baby Pattaburp, who drinks her milk, then burps after being tenderly patted on the back.

The new Barbie doll can pose as if running, cheerleading or modeling and can even cross her legs when she sits down. Designed for durability through continuous bending, her newly-developed joints are invisible so as not to mar her lifelike, natural-looking limbs. Miss Barbie comes with three glamorous high-fashion wigs (bubble-on-bubble, page boy and side-part flip) on a wig stand. She is dressed in a pink swimsuit, fringed bathing hat, earrings and high-heeled shoes. Also included is a Barbie Go-Together furniture kit consisting of a plastic lawn swing and planter.

Mattel advises that the new version of Barbie can wear all of the previous Barbie's smart-looking fashions.

A soft and cuddly 18"-tall doll, Baby Pattaburp reacts just like a real baby, for one never knows how many pats it will take to burp her. She comes with her own magic bottle in which milk disappears as she drinks and then refills. Dressed in a pink jacket trimmed with lace and ribbons, pink panties and terry cloth booties, Baby Pattaburp also has eyes that open and close and rooted hair.

FIVE WIN TOY CLASSIFICATION AWARDS IN FIBRE BOX CONTEST

Two manufacturers and one mail order company were awarded silver ribbons, and two manufacturers bronze ribbons in the toy product classification of the 1964 Fibre Box Competition sponsored by the Fibre Box Association last month in Chicago.

Gilbert Company, New Haven, Conn.—for a specially printed toy box made by Interstate Container Corporation, New York City; Montgomery Ward & Company, Chicago—a child's large riding toy designed by General Box Company, Des Plaines, Ill., and Western Stamping Company, Jackson, Mich.—a corrugated carrying case for a child's typewriter made by Union Bag-Camp Paper Corporation, New York City. "Any guy who spends as much time outdoors as I do really needs 'Chap Stick,'" says the Chicago Bears' star center. "For me, it's a necessity. What with the real raw Sundays on the field, hot summer has declined because they were sold primarily as gas savers, and although the overdrive ratio provided a 30% slower engine speed, the car manufacturers, in order to provide more performance, put in a higher numerical axle ratio for better performance in low and second gear. As you know, the three-speed transmission can't cover the ratio that a four-speed or three-speed with overdrive can; therefore, a three-speed transmission is a compromise to get sufficient starting ratio to get by and to give good performance in high gear with an axle ratio picked for this purpose.

The overdrive-equipped car is more pleasant to drive, as the engine speed is much less and other car noises are substantially reduced. This point isn't stressed in selling the overdrive-equipped car—only the fuel economy—and this is about half what it should be if the axle ratios weren't changed when overdrives are used.

PERFORMANCE SELLS CARS

Performance sells cars! As of July, General Motors' sales were down 4.2%. Chevrolet was off 7%. Ford was up 13%.

and Dodge was up 30%. Good old anti-performance American Motors was down 20%. Figures are compared with the same period last year.

WHO COPIED WHOM?

In the Datsun road test (Sept. issue), you state that the French were first to copy the Corvair styling idea, and that the Italians, Germans, Dutch, English, and now the Japanese followed. Such a statement can't be correct.

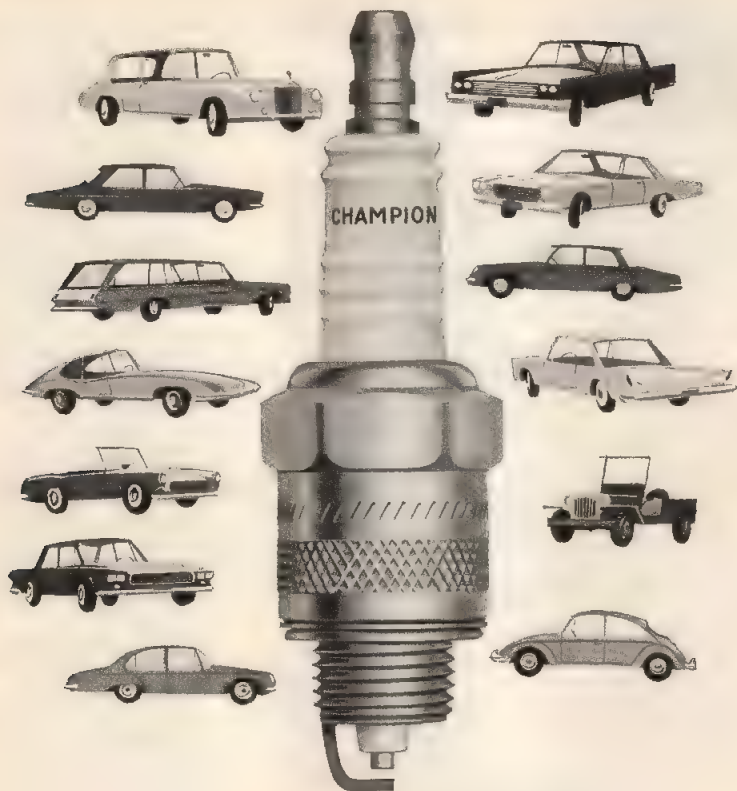

The DAF, the one and only Dutch car, was introduced in 1958. This car hasn't been completely restyled yet, and still has most of the original styling. The French, according to your statement, were before the Dutch. Thus, they could not have styled any car after the Corvair. In fact, the Corvair must have copied from either the French or the Dutch.

HIAA asks aid for fume campaign

"Crusading newspapers" are again playing up the sensationalism involved in fume sniffing, and they may make it necessary for us to spend more money to protect the industry from damaging laws, warns Nat Polk, chairman of HIAA's Anti-Fume Sniffing Fund Raising Committee. In a letter to members of the committee, Polk cites several damaging articles in leading newspapers and asks support for a renewal of the committee's campaign, scheduled to begin in January.

Fisher-Price Using Candid Photos Of Preschoolers on '64 Packages

Through arrangements with local nursery schools, Fisher-Price Toys, Inc., East Aurora, N. Y., is now featuring four-color, real-life photographs of preschoolers on their 1964 packages.

A distinct departure from the use of professional child models or "advertising-type" photographs, the Fisher-Price candid-type photos are felt to impart a truthfulness and believability obtainable from no other type of artwork, according to R. H. Morgan, advertising manager.

#987 Creative Coaster, #991 Music Box Lacing Shoe, #973 Cash Register and #168 Chug-Chug.

In addition to the informative "at play" photos, the packages include a large size descriptive photo of the product inside the box, brief copy explaining construction features and age-level; the pricing panel, and the familiar "f-p" gift card trademark and red-white-blue scallop design. The bottom of the package is reserved for the Fisher-Price "Creed for Good Toymaking," a non-toxic finish color code, and the Parents' and Good Housekeeping seals.

System by Samsonite.

Suitable for group use, the Lego set may be quickly dismantled and new projects begun. The Lego system is said to have been cited by parents and educators as an "important concept in educational aids."

The new set carries a special price to schools and institutions of $37.50. For a colorful, illustrated brochure and complete information write to the Educational Division, Lego System by Samsonite, 1050 S. Broadway, Denver, 80217.

REGIONAL TRAFFIC CHAPTERS PROPOSED; MEETING AUG. 13

Plans for regional traffic chapters were proposed June 16 in Cincinnati, during the National Credit Conference, by Mrs. Min Horowitz, executive vice-president of Universal Mfg. Company and chairman of the Traffic Committee of the Toy Mfrs. of the U.S.A., Inc.

A pilot meeting open to all Association members is to be held in Chicago on August 13 (place and details to be announced) under the leadership of Norman G. Wintermantel of the AMF Wheel Goods Division. Those attending this meeting will, with the assistance of representatives from Bohman Industrial Traffic Consultants, who have been retained by the TMA for the past 18 years, organize a seminar on traffic problems to be held early next year.

This meeting, according to Mrs. Horowitz's announcement, will be followed by several others in the course of 1965 and thereafter.

First Ride-a-Way Toys from Sun

President Tom Smith and aide Richey Smith with Mark III racer

Two new Ride-a-Way toddler toys, a racer and a horse, are the first offerings in the expanded line of The Sun Rubber Company, Barberton, Ohio. Sun says that the installation of two large rotational casting machines "has opened the way to a vast expansion." According to Sun, the casting system produces uniform wall thickness throughout the structure of the polyethylene toys, while giving them sharpness of detail.

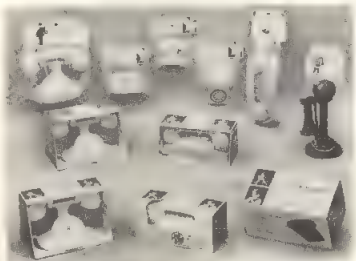

The largest poly toy that Sun has ever turned out by rotational casting, the sporty Mark III Racer is 30" long and 16" high. Red, with silver trim around the exhaust, grille and name, the racer has black and silver balloon type wheels (the front smaller than the rear for proper speed ratio); a steering wheel that turns realistically with direct steering to the front wheels; steel axles, and a pre-assembled "beep-beep" horn. Designed for kids up to the bicycle age, the racer will not damage furniture. It comes in a shipping carton, knocked down for easy assembly.

Sun's poly horse has a fully-decorated saddle, reins, bridle mane and tail complementing its Palomino-colored body. The toy rolls on bright, red balloon-type wheels with steel axles secured by Tinnerman nuts. The youngster mounts the horse, grips red handles at the side of its head, and off he goes. Packed six per shipping carton, the horse is 20" long and 17" high.

Sun reports early heavy orders and inquiries on both new products from mail-order houses, department stores, specialty shops, chain and drug stores and supermarkets. Delivery on both items is promised for early summer.

New Packages for Handi-Craft Line

The Handi-Craft Company, 1000 Russell Blvd., St. Louis 4, is now shipping its play phone line in new packaging introduced at the Toy Fair. Design and color are coordinated through the entire line and maximum visibility is stressed on all models by the use of shrink film overwraps, window boxes and bags with headers.

The company says that the packaging has been subjected to rigorous testing to make sure it ships as well as displays. Authentic models of a variety of real phones, Handi-Craft's colorful line ranges in retail price from 29¢ to $2.95.

RACEMASTER STOP-WATCH FOR KIDS INTRODUCED BY INGRAHAM

The Ingraham Company of Bristol, Conn., 132-year-old manufacturer of clocks, watches and intricate timing devices, is entering a new field with the introduction of a stop-watch for children.

Known as the Racemaster, the new product will retail for $4.95. It is expected to be popular with youngsters interested in outdoor and indoor sports events and in such hobbies as trains and racing cars.

Ingraham reports it has conducted several market tests for the Racemaster and that enthusiastic dealer and consumer interest has prompted it to set up national distribution this spring.

Each stop-watch is blister-packed. A special counter display, holding six units, will be available for dealers.

NEW 1930 PACKARD CONVERTIBLE VICTORIA CAR KIT BY HUBLEY

A 98"-long model of the 1930 Packard Convertible Victoria, a glamour car of yesteryear, can be made with parts from a new metal kit (#4863), now being offered by Hubley Mfg. Company, Lancaster, Pa.

Accurately patterned after the real two-door convertible that offered elegant privacy for backseat passengers, Hubley's car actually steers by worm and sector gearing. It features a custom body design by Dietrich, a hood, which lifts off to display the super-detailed straight-8 engine, and chrome wheels.

Retailing at $4.95, the kit contains more than 140 parts of die cast metal, plastic and metalized plastic. Packing is six per 15-pound shipper.

Hubley advises that the Packard Convertible Victoria is being nationally advertised in Motor Trend, Car Craft, Car Model and other widely circulated magazines and to many members of the Hubley Scale Model Club.

Other kits in the line are the Packard Sport Phaeton (#4859) and the Packard Roadster (#4860).

New Diesel Tractor from Murray Smartly Designed, Ruggedly Built

Smartly designed and ruggedly constructed, the new Murray Ohio #Y-316 Super Diesel Tractor, illustrated above, has smooth-rolling ball bearing wheels—8" dual front and 12" rear—with large semi-pneumatic tires. Rear wheels are equipped with authentic tractor treads plus fenders, and the unit incorporates a full ball bearing chain drive for maximum pedaling ease. Also included is a motor-tone gear shift for added appeal. It is also equipped with an authentic metalized engine block, dual spark plugs with ignition wires, a real-life instrument panel and a sleek exhaust pipe. Furnished with a spring-type adjustable seat, the new tractor is finished in snappy flamboyant red with aluminum trim and white wheels.

Companion model to the Super Diesel is the Diesel Tractor (#Y-315), which incorporates most of these same exclusive Murray features.

Additional information is available from Murray Ohio Manufacturing Company, 635 Thompson Lane, Nashville 4, Tenn.

New Shoo-Fly Rocker by Wonder For Kids 6 Months and Older

Said to have attracted keen interest at the Toy Fair and in other showings this year has been the Wonder Shoo-Fly (#3), one of the more recent additions to the Wonder Horse line.

Wonder Products Company, the world's largest manufacturer of hobby horses, designed the Shoo-Fly expressly for youngsters 6 months old and up. Instead of perching atop the hobby horse as is the case ordinarily, the youngster sits securely in a sturdy wooden seat. Thus when a youngster is old enough to sit up unassisted, he is old enough to enjoy the gentle, rocking Shoo-Fly ride.

The Shoo-Fly is molded of rugged hard plastic to withstand the wildest of "rides." Its soft pastels blend easily with nursery decor and it stands 20" high and measures 32" in length.

they not only have discretionary spending power but are learning to use it better. This means that they are no longer immature in their shopping behavior and attitudes. Thus, says the study, merchants must adjust shopping institutions or else face a gradually dwindling shopping contingent. The plain fact is that shopping may be losing its appeal for some "mature" groups. What can be done about it? We'd suggest that you mull thoughtfully the following selected survey findings: (1) Mature shoppers want clerks available but, unless service is requested, resent their hovering about like beasts of prey. (2) When they do not get service when they want it, they may walk out without buying, often never to return. (3) Suburban shopping is more popular than the downtown variety. (4) Reaction to mail order shopping was unfavorable, but many have never shopped in this manner. (5) Department stores were favored 10-to-one and discount stores two-to-one. (6) Specialty stores, however, got unfavorable comments in a three-to-one ratio. (7) Trading stamps, fashion changes and bargain sales are regarded skeptically by mature consumers. (8) Out-of-stock considerations are frustrating; consumers would rather see conservatively styled goods in stock before and during the winter season than see high fashion goods only before the season. (9) When a favorite store is out of stock, most mature shoppers go elsewhere. (10) They consistently rate inventory conditions regarding "size" as more important than "price," "style," "color," "brand," or even "quality." And as with virtually every consumer survey we've ever seen, there were some confusing findings—probably because the shopper himself is somewhat confused. For example, variety of assortment was found to be important, yet consumers said they did not want to search through large assortments! Also, they are willing to go from one store to another in a shopping center but reluctant to visit a distant shopping center where larger assortments are available. In sum, study your particular customers' chief needs and don't let yourself get carried away with "music" played by your cash register.

GIFT-PAX . . . Here's the latest promotional wrinkle in retailing which promises better results than those which routine premiums have been delivering. So far the plan has been limited to banks but it could spread. An organization known as Gift-Pax, Inc., collects the names of all new homeowners in a bank's trading area and invites them to drop in at their nearest branch to pick up a gift package of nationally advertised products. The bank gets a bundle of solid new accounts (one test program netted one bank about one-third of the new homeowners). The participating manufacturers get controlled samples into above-average income households. Gift Pax gets its remuneration both from the bank and the product maker. Other similar programs have been run for new mothers, brides and students, but this one is truly bidding fair to outdo them all.

2+2—A fistful of Pontiac!

Pontiac Motor Division • General Motors Corporation

Inventing the 2+2 was the easiest thing we've done. We started with a Pontiac, which right there put us in a league by ourselves. Then we laid on some of the Pontiac performance options we've been perfecting for years and made them standard equipment. Things like a 338-hp 421. Heavy-duty springs and shocks. Dual exhausts.

Even chromed rocker covers and air cleaner. We added bucket seats, full carpeting and custom pin-striping. Then we stuffed in a brand-new all-synchro 3-speed with Hurst floor shift as standard equipment, which means you can run up and down through the gears like a 4-speed. We made up a list of extra equipment that you can choose from (which includes 356- and 376-hp 421's!) and sent our 2+2's out into the world. If you haven't been lucky enough to hear one growl, ask your dealer for the special 2+2/GTO performance catalog. It's almost as much fun as driving one.

Cortina is the high-performance car that masquerades most of the time as a five-passenger family car. But beneath Cortina's quiet look it is raring to go, and beats other competition-modified cars almost every time: more than 140 firsts in races and rallies in 23 countries to date. Cortina is the winner of the 1964 Auto-Universum "International Car of the Year" award, for "outstanding performance, reliability and versatility in competition around the world." Imported and distributed by Ford Motor Company, it is available in the United States in the GT, the deluxe 2- and 4-door sedan and the station wagon. Every Cortina offers you five-passenger comfort, foam-padded bucket seats, American size nuts and bolts, ample luggage room, up to 32 mpg and floor-mounted synchromesh four-speed gearshift. Automatic transmission is available on most models. The 2-door sedan lists for only $1755* (Its counterpart, the new four-passenger Anglia deluxe, has many Cortina advantages, and lists for only $1598*) Meet Cortina, the economy compact that is really a performance car in disguise. Your English Ford Line dealer will gladly unmask a Cortina for you.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price, East Coast P.O.E. dealers. Destination charges, heater, other optional equipment and state and local taxes and fees, if any, are extra. Whitewall tires shown, $24.95. Overseas delivery available at substantial savings.

Facts About Road Racing

On the next six pages, you will be seeing the results of the efforts Wards has made in the past year to bring you the finest selections of the many different types of road racing sets available today. You'll have a look at each of the most popular size scales... and some added attractions like the Cox gas-powered models. If you're interested in model road racing (and we're sure you are) there'll be a set exactly right for you, or for the lucky boy who'll be getting it as a gift. Beginning with the smallest scale...

HO (1/87) GAUGE. The primary feature of this gauge is its size. Small and compact, it is possible to have a really imposing layout in a rather limited space, something that is often difficult to do with one of the larger scales. The cars are well proportioned, approximately 2 1/2 inches long, well detailed, exceptionally fast (up to 600 scale mph), and a lot of fun to race.

SUPERO (1/48) GAUGE. A new concept in model racing, but already has its share of racing fans. Cars, parts and accessories are readily available. As you move up in size, you need more room in which to work, but a basement or den is still big enough. Both cars and models move up in size yet the sets are small enough to pack a lot of realism and scale mileage into a given space. Cars about 4 in. long.

1/32 SCALE. Here is the most popular large size, and it's easy to see why. These sets offer everything a racing fan wants... speed, detail, variety and compactness. Cars about 4 1/2 inches long. More parts, accessories and cars are being made for 1/32 than for any other. You'll get lots of "gleams" with your Gilbert "See-Saw", loads of racing fun with the unique "Ste-Lock" on the Varney; and Day and Night racing, car kits, and a Talk of the Town Value with the Strombecker sets.

1/20 SCALE. This is the largest size we offer, and the big size makes for more complete detailing, hence more realistic cars. The gas-powered road race is something new, and can be run outdoors as well as in basements or "rac" rooms. Cars about 9 in. long.

ACCESSORIES. You name it, chances are we've got it... for HO, O, 1/32, 1/24, 1/20, 1/16, checkered flags, decal, competition race-and-a-half, "grass"-coated boards on which to build and expand your set, even a special road race storage case.

YOUNG BEGINNERS. The Cragston and Miniport sets are a good way to get the feel of road racing... just see where your enthusiasm will take you!

Now you have the complete story... the why and the wherefore of model road racing. One set will be just the one for you, and each has a large enough following so you won't be off by yourself. Which way will you go?

$24⁹⁵

- Over 21 feet of track (4 1/2 x 8-foot layout)
- Famous Le Mans Grand Prix starting track
- Headlights that work for exciting night racing
- Standard 1/32 scale cars and raceway

The starting flag drops. You slam into first gear and you're off. Shift into second to get around the tree in the obstacle island and over the narrow bridge, then speed-shift into third gear for the big curve. Keep power coming on as your car whistles through, wheels spinning wildly. Shift into fourth gear for the straightaway. Now, down-shift to second for bumps and S-curve fighting all the way to stay on the road and still keep ahead.

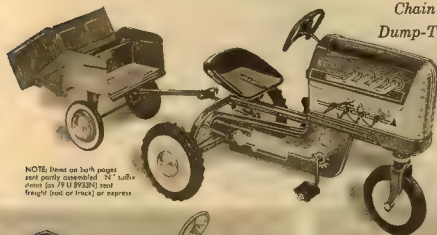

The competition's keen: between Maserati and Ferrari race cars. Both have chrome color space helmet caps and Allstate Championship. Set includes a narrow chrome track, lap counter, hill track, wiggle obstacle track with tree and Le Mans start section. Red, green and black and white checkered flags. Plastic and metal cars, about 6 1/2" long, 16 fence pieces, tree supports, 2 stick-shift controller. Powerful 18 volt power pack (UL approved for 110-120-volt, 60-cycle AC).

of the Le Mans start*

Around the first hairpin . . . then a burst of speed, and the XKE inches out in front. Now a tricky lane change . . . then another. Still it's the XKE. They hit brakes and head into the second hairpin. The big red Ferrari makes its move. A good turn, and it takes the lead.

Now—the dangerous "jump". . . full speed, up and over. Hit the brakes into the far turn. Then pour it on—120 . . . 140 . . . 160 mph. Here's the tricky "hump". Slow, steady, now roar on to the second lap.
Winner of Lap 1: Ferrari.
A new record!

Accept the challenge of a dare-devil track. As you race, hear all the roar and squeaking brake noises of LeMans from Sears "Sounds of Racing" record. Trips to World's Fair, Disneyland Prizes in Ideal's Sweepstakes

Herb Sand, v-p-sales, explains contest promotion to stewards.

Ideal Toy Corporation, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has announced it will run a Tammy Coloring Sweepstakes for six weeks from May 4 to June 18. Reportedly the trade's first consumer contest to be nationally promoted on television, the sweepstakes will be advertised on Ideal's 151-station "Magilla Gorilla Show" beginning May 4, Abe Kent, vice-president, said.

Entry blanks will be available only at retail stores. Mr. Kent said that Ideal has already received more than 25,000 requests from retailers for the free, four-color counter display that holds the blanks as a result of only one trade ad and a Tammy Sweepstakes counter at the Toy Fair. He said the company anticipates the need for about three million blanks.

ing location.

Ideal will award the 25 first-place winners with an all-expense-paid trip for five days to either Disneyland or the World's Fair plus $150 in cash, and will provide free accommodations for one parent, relative or guardian, reservations at either the New York Hilton or Disneyland Motel and free access to other nearby popular sight-seeing attractions. All winners will get round-trip air travel tickets on American Airlines.

A cash prize of $100 will also be awarded to each of the retailers who supplied the first-place winners with their entry blanks.

To the 800 second-place winners Ideal is awarding personalized Tammy products such as the Tammy iron, carrying case, house bed and vanity set and the new Walt Disney Mickey Mouse club house.

The sweepstakes is being handled by D. L. Blair Corporation, an independent judging organization.

Gabriel-Bell's Portable Phonograph

From Gabriel-Bell, Inc., 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, comes a new electrically-amplified, battery-operated phonograph that plays all three speeds with a long-life sapphire needle.

Called the Futura Phonograph (#388), the item has a transistorized automatic speed regulator, large 4" Alnico V speaker and a fixed 45 RPM record adaptor.

Reportedly embodying a new concept in portable phonographs, the 5-pound Futura is built into a red leather grain case made of rugged, washable Tenite Polyallomer.

After all, it takes a while to create a product like the new Tootsieinstant and easy operation. The Tootsietoy Electric Train is made for little hands, with all the safety and quality you expect from Tootsietoy. Packaging? As beautiful and appealing as the products. And it's priced to sell! Only $11.00 retail—and that includes a 3 Volt transformer and 22" x 30" layout. When you think about it, this had to happen sooner or later—aren't you glad we waited? See the Tootsie-such as anchoring the battery plates to prevent plate vibration increases battery life and reliability, this should've been discovered long ago. We've certainly had batteries in cars long enough to point out this weak spot in current batteries.

What kind of testing are the manufacturers doing on their present and future products that this fact of plate vibration eluded them for so long? Could not the improvements that resulted from a special racing design have been discovered by adequate testing by the manufacturers at their own proving grounds?

To me, the factory backing of race cars by Ford and Chrysler is just to get advertising material.

WALTER D. DUCHOW Oconomowoc, Wis.

SOLD ON PUSHBUTTONS

In your September issue, you stated that Chrysler Corporation is going to switch from pushbutton to column transmission controls. This may sound ridiculous, but my father's going to buy a new Plymouth and what sold us on it was the pushbutton. What is Chrysler Corporation coming to?

BRUCE TREADWELL Merced, Calif.

PRIMITIVE GEARBOX

I'm speaking for at least half the Chevy fans who are sick of seeing the same old two-speed transmission on such a popular car. How can the Chevrolet people expect a two-speed transmission to adapt the horsepower output from the 327- and 409-cubic-inch engines adequately?

They made a step in the right direction when they introduced the Turboglide, which was discontinued two years after its introduction. When will Chevrolet give up on their primitive two-speed transmission in favor of a good three-speed?

KENNETH KLEIN Arverne, N. Y.

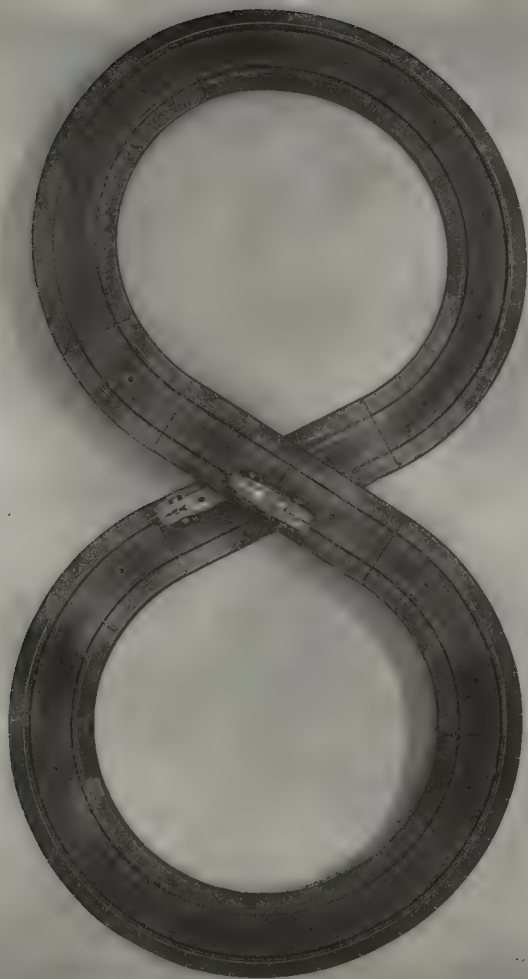

A MAJOR FORCE

I believe MOTOR TREND has been a major force in making American cars safer and better in the past 15 years, especially in handling and stability at speeds and on curves. All manufacturers, with the exception of some GM lines, have made great advances here.

Keep stressing this, and the largest producer of cars will eventually be forced into line.

LINDBERG DEVELOPS NEW SERIES OF "DESIGNER'S SCALE" CAR KITS

A new series of model car kits, to be known as Designer's Scale—1 inch to 1 foot—has been developed by Paul W. Lindberg, president of Lindberg Products, 8050 Monticello Avenue, Skokie, Ill. Ac-ording to Mr. Lindberg, the kits are designed to fill "a necessary gap between very large and small units."

Paul Lindberg

The first offering in the series is a motorized Drag Deuce with a Fiat body. Among its features are a 1960 Chrysler 413 cubic-inch engine, Weiland manifold, two Carter four-barrel carburetors, Mallory ignition system, Hurst floor shift conversion, Halibrand disc brakes, 8.00-15 wheels and 8.50-15 rear tires for Halibrand magnesium wheels. Also included are safety belts, a fire extinguisher bucket seats, a padded dash board, Ford transmission with Crager adapter and many other "true-to-scale" extras found in cars built under National Hot Rod Association rules for competition coupes and used in all out drag racing on sanctioned drag strips.

Retailing at $6.98, the Designer's Scale kits come in large, illustrated four-color lithographed boxes, complete with instructions.

Lindberg's previously introduced large scale models include such kits as the Bob-tail "T," 3-in-1 Customizing Red Demon and 2-in-1 Dragster (known as the Exterminator) all of which are reported to be selling well from coast-to-coast.

The Lindberg exhibit at the Travel and Transportation Pavilion of the World's Fair features actual size show cars, dream cars and experimental units. Enclosed in a huge glass case are 16 versions of Lindberg's 3-scale hot rod cars, which "sparkle like diamonds." Ken Rathke, national sales manager, says that additional cars will be exhibited as soon as Lindberg releases them.

to produce our first electric trains... but it was worth the wait!

After all, it takes a while to create a product like the new Tootsie-toy Electric Train—packed with all the railroading realism and adventure kids love. There's a steam engine, tender, gondola car and caboose—realistically detailed and finished in sparkling colors. And plenty of accessories the kids love, too—crossing signals, telegraph poles and crossing guards. Positive lock HO track is a cinch to put together—it's even pre-wired for instant and easy operation. The Tootsie-toy Electric Train is made for little hands, with all the safety and quality you expect from Tootsie-toy Packaging. As beautiful and appealing as the products! And it's priced to sell! Only $11.00 retail—and that includes a 3 Volt transformer and 22" x 30" layout. When you think about it, this had to happen sooner or later... aren't you glad we waited? See the Tootsie-toy Electric Train at our new Space at Toy Fair, 1022-24 in the 200 Fifth Ave. Building.

drop all 32 commuter trains serving Boston which operate entirely within Massachusetts. And Central's Boston & Albany leg is petitioning to drop a pair of RDC's whose losses exceed $100,000 a year (leaving only the New England States on its timetable).

It seems likely that a state transportation authority will be established to buy or lease commuter facilities from the affected railroads and operate them.

Elsewhere on the passenger front:

On the heels of the announcement that Studebaker would shut down its 6000-man automobile production line in South Bend, Ind., Chicago South Shore & South Bend said it would offer special low commuter fares to enable the displaced to locate jobs elsewhere "and commute to them less expensively than if driving."

Delaware & Hudson is seeking permission to drop its daily New York-Albany-Montreal daylight Laurentian service on grounds of an annual out-of-pocket loss of $217,174. The overnight Montreal Limited will continue operating.

Head-end revenues continue to justify new equipment. In 1964 Southern Pacific will spend 3 million dollars for 17 new Railway Post Offices; Mopac will buy 100 new 85-foot postal storage and baggage-messenger cars from St. Louis Car for more than 4 million dollars; and New Haven will obtain 33 used mail and baggage cars from Maine Central.

The news is out: Canadian National has purchased the five-car Crusader, which Budd built in 1937 for the Reading as the East's first stainless-steel streamliner.

From the I.C.C., a big O.K.

This was the merger case everyone was watching, would the I.C.C. approve ACL+SAL? For this was the first instance in modern merger history of two comfortably solvent and parallel major railroads seeking unification. South out of Richmond, Va., both the 5728-mile Coast Line and the 4123-mile Seaboard roll down through the Carolinas, fan out through Georgia and into Alabama, and—between them—dominate Florida. ACL hasn't missed a dividend since 1941. And, fully recovered from its depression bankruptcy, SAL has been paying dividends since soon after World War II. Both are progressive, profitable, competently operated properties—the very antithesis, of, say, Erie Lackawanna. Just to complicate matters, Coast Line is far more of a railroad power in the South than its own route-mileage suggests by virtue of controlling several other lines, including L&N, Clinchfield, Georgia, and the West Point Route.

Yet what might have seemed shy of a case to the I.C.C. in 1929 could not be brushed aside in November 1960, when Commission hearings began on the projected Seaboard Coast Line Railroad. Rails no longer dominate transportation. Between the jets overhead and the trucks and barges alongside, ACL and SAL have had their hands full simply holding their own. Using 1947-1949 as a base of 100 for both, for example, Coast Line revenues had climbed to only 129 in 1962 vs. 221 for the Gross National Product. Thus in an

Here's the biggest load of lumber ever shipped out of Northern California's redwood forests on one S.P. flat car: 75,435 board feet of 2 x 4 studs weighing nearly 85 tons. This is 50 percent more lumber than flat cars normally carry.

How was it done? The secret is a new technique called the "floating load." Unitized lumber is stacked in staggered layers, then strapped together with steel bands. No elaborate bracing is needed. The load is held in place by its own enormous weight.

Speedliner RDC's are now in commuter service.

[Fans? They're welcome (as are any group excursionists) so long as the railroad can tap fleet equipment during layovers (instead of being obliged to maintain a standby pool of cars exclusively for extra movements) and excessive deadheading is not required.

[What brings people back to the depot? Why, steam, of course, so accordingly Reistrup is going to sample steam. On August 14-15 (see "Running Extra," page 56) B&O is sponsoring "Iron Horse Days" between Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington. A borrowed Reading 2100-series 4-8-4 will alternately (1) propel a special with dome and refreshment car out of Philly, (2) substitute for an RDC schedule between Baltimore and Washington, and (3) replace the diesels on the Capitol between the same two cities. Paul Reistrup will be honored if the true believers oblige him to add extra cars, and he speculates that some of the general public who come down to Washington Union Station, say, to look might be enticed to ride West one evening on 5 on a Red Circle Day.

Question: Can this unorthodox potpourri of Red Circle Days and cost-cutting and Slumber-Rooms and better truck maintenance and a borrowed 4-8-4 save B&O's varnish? Answer: No man can yet give an intelligent Yes or No. In 1966 the first railroad in the country to issue tickets could stamp its last. Or it might be living up to Simpson's hell-or-high-water declaration with a vengeance. Regardless, the integrity of how the decision will have been reached is what counts. For Paul Reistrup is giving the passenger train a chance to prove itself. For a season on B&O the varnish will be neither the abused orphan it is so frequently elsewhere in the East nor the window dressing it represents so often in the West. It will be on its own, accorded at long last an opportunity to prove whether or not intelligently operated and merchandised coach and sleeping cars are indeed economic passenger vehicles.

Juggling act

Chairman Ben W. Heineman of the Chicago & North Western qualifies for the title of the Stu Saunders of the Grain Belt. Regardless of who takes the initiative in Chicagoland on a railroad merger (and quite often Heineman does so himself), very soon Mr. Ben is sparring away in the center of the ring and everyone else is off balance. Or so it seems.

It especially seems so this summer. All at once, Ben Heineman is (1) frustrating Union Pacific's bid for Rock Island, (2) seeking RI himself, (3) actively seeking control of Chicago Great Western, (4) renewing an old suggestion that C&NW and Milwaukee marry up with RI, and (5) extending a blanket invitation to his granger party to "such other small roads as might wish to join." In other words, Heineman is at once holding huge UP at bay with one hand and attempting to assemble a 30,000-mile-plus Chicago-Gulf-Pacific Northwest transcon with the other. Moreover, he's managing this juggling act from atop C&NW, which earns less than a tenth of UP's net and which had been of birthday toys." Many ways to increase year-round sales by promoting birthday toys were spelled out. They included methods of compiling lists of birth dates so that parents could be circularized with helpful suggestions for giving parties for their children; store displays with toys classified by age groups; illustrations of special show cards, banners, etc.; and other ideas to increase the giving of birthday toys to children by their relatives and friends.

A. C. Gilbert announced that since the sales of Erector were increasing so greatly, a permanent New York showroom was being opened in the American Woolen Building, at Fourth Avenue and 18th Street. One of the features of the display was to be an 18-foot plate glass show window, to give dealers suggestions on trimming their own windows.

Openings were announced of 27 new toy stores, or branches of established stores, throughout the country.

E. "Matty" Reisman, formerly assistant toy and sporting goods buyer for several department stores, opened his own firm in New York to act as a representative for manufacturers of dolls and toys.

1924 EARLY BUYING was running behind the previous year. A repetition of the heavy orders placed in the first quarter of 1923 had been expected, but had not materialized. Some buyers said that "headquarters" or "the big boys" had forced them to place smaller initial orders than they had planned.

Ma Jong was one of the big sellers of the day. Over 40 different Chinese game sets were displayed by one jobber. Twenty books on how to play the game were available.

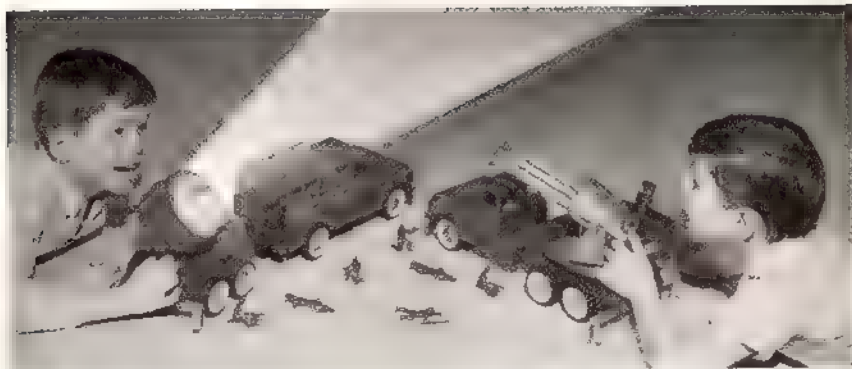

Radio sets and kits were also a source of good profit to many toy departments. In Chicago the Davis Dry Goods Company staged a "Radio Show" that was given wide publicity in the newspapers, and attracted large crowds to the department. "There was a surprising demand for complete sets, which showed 60 per cent greater sale than parts."

One of the most active and colorful figures in the toy industry died at the age of 81. He was Edward W. Brueninghausen, known as "the Major." Following the Civil War, where he lost the sight of one eye and was wounded in several major battles, he engaged in various lines of business before entering the toy trade in 1875. The Major was the first man to adopt what was known for a long time as the toy salesman's uniform, a high hat and frock coat; and the last toy man to cling to that dignified garb. He was one of the original members of the Riemann, Seabrey Company, remaining with that concern until he retired in 1922. Later he became active again and made his headquarters in the salesroom of Baker & Bennett until his death.

George M. Woodcock, who had been a salesman for the F. I. Horsman Company for over 30 years, passed away in his 65th year.

THE COLORFUL BAKED ENAMEL STEEL WALL CATALINA

- WITH FULL COPING • NEW DESIGN
3D LINER • NEW COLOR COMBINATIONS • STURDY SUPPORTING RING OF TUBULAR STEEL COAMING

The strength of a solid wall of steel, the appeal of colorful baked enamel coating (both sides) combine to make the Catalina a most attractive family sized pool. The popular heavy gauge 3D vinyl liner adds additional color to a striking sales leader. Liner locks on to wall with new non-slip coping for extra rigidity and strength. Special sections of tubular steel coaming interlock on top of steel wall to form a completely rigid assembly, strong enough to support the weight of a child.

One piece solid wall joins together easily, securely—forms an extra smooth surface. Pools equipped with drains. A family favorite, the Catalina outsize is all other pools in its class.

VISIT US AT THE FAIR 1964

Don't risk getting Short-Changed

Look for the Tom Thumb® name.

It represents 18 years of stubborn attention to quality.

You learn a lot about toy making in 18 years.

For instance . . .

You learn to recognize an original idea (it's new, it works, it sells!). So you stick with it and keep improving on it—making it better and better than anyone else.

You learn to engineer toys from the inside out. American craftsmanship assures each precision steel part, each bolt and nut is solid, fits right, stays tight.

You learn that parents and educators demand toys that last. So you don't cut corners on quality.

You learn to earn a reputation for prompt service and dependability retailers respect.

You learn that you never stop learning.

What we've learned from you has made "Tom Thumb" the biggest little trademark in the world. You may see typewriters, cash registers and banks that look like ours—but unless you see the name "Tom Thumb," you don't get our years of experience.
